Morton to Sing 'Peter Grimes' →

OCTOBER 12 will be a big day for the CBC, for opera lovers and, particularly for William Morton, who will be heard in the tenor title-role in the CBC Opera Company's production of Peter Grimes by the young English composer, Benjamin Britten. Of the part he is to play in this production, Mr. Morton says it is "interesting, gratifying and difficult." He suggests that many who like opera will have trouble with Grimes and that many others who consider it beyond them will find their interest thoroughly whetted.

A Busy Artist

William Morton, Toronto tenor, describes himself as primarily a radio artist. And with some reason. His first professional success was in broadcasting and although for some years he has been much in demand for concert and oratorio work, radio still takes up the greater part of his time.

Talking with Morton about his career soon turns out to be a discussion of Canadians and radio. An able and interesting talker, he dismisses his own abilities with a remark about the necessity of keeping in physical trim and of consistent practice and study. Then he goes on to illustrate the many times that Canadian talent has proved itself in actual performance, a lecture which he colors with anecdotal material about everybody but himself.

Morton has taken part in many memorable CBC broadcasts. He sang leading roles in the world broadcast premieres of Transit through Fire (1942) and Deirdre of the Sorrows (1946), two operas by Healey Willan both of which were commissioned by the CBC. More recently, he has performed the tenor leads in the Gilbert and Sullivan presentations of the CBC Light Opera Group.

As tenor soloist for ten years and more in the Toronto Mendelssohn Choir's performances of Bach's St. Matthew Passion and Handel's Messiah, he has taken part in the CBC's complete broadcasts of these two great works. (Turn to page 2)

WEEKEND REVIEW

Highlights of the week's news by Robert McKenzie. From Vancouver.

6:00 p.m.; 5:00 p.m.; 4:00 p.m.

SMOKE RINGS

Romantic modern music, poetry and verse blend together in this Chicago series broadcast on the CBC Dominion network and over Mutual stations in the United States. The program is built around a variety of moods — sentimental, reminiscent, gay, or comfortably lethargic — evoked by the music of Robert Trendler's orchestra, songs by Skip Farrell and Brooks Randall, and verse selected and read by Franklyn MacCormick.

Dom. 6:30 p.m.

LITTLE SYMPHONIES

Orchestra conducted by Roland Leduc. Symphony No. 24 in B Flat (Mozart); Symphony in E Flat (Ignaz Holzbauer). Ignaz Holzbauer, an Austrian composer of the 18th century, composed 65 symphonies as well as operas and church music; and among the admirers of his music was the great Mozart. From Montreal.

7:30 p.m.; 6:30 p.m.; 5:30 p.m.

SUMMER SYMPHONIES

Orchestra conducted by Geoffrey Waddington in music by Jean Coulthard Adams, Canadian composer, pianist and music teacher. Music on a Quiet Song; and Ballade, which was written in 1944 for the CBC's contribution to the NBC series Music for the New World. From Vancouver.

9:30 p.m.; 8:30 p.m.; 7:30 p.m.

WINNIPEG SUNDAY CONCERT

The second of three concerts to be conducted by Marius Benoist. Tambourin (Gretry); Prelude and Claire de Lune, from the opera Werther (Massenet); Au Cabaret, from Scenes Alsaciennes (Massenet); Duet Waltz, from Der Rosenkavalier (Richard Strauss); Andantino, from Ballet Rosamunde (Schubert); and Gold and Silver Waltz (Lehar). Tom Taylor, producer; Maurice Burchell, announcer. From Winnipeg.

10:30 p.m.; 9:30 p.m.; 8:30 p.m.

KERRY WOOD

This week's story by Kerry Wood is called The Indians at Pine Lake.

11:15 p.m.; 10:15 p.m.

The Prairie Gardener

Summary of Broadcast of August 14, 1949.

Visits to Moose Range, Leacross, Nipawin and Love in the area along the Carrot and Saskatchewan Rivers:

This talk has not been summarized but it dealt with the work of Mr. P. H. Wright, plant breeder and horticultural writer of Moose Range, the heavy cropping and outstanding orchard of Mr. Frank Randall of Leacross, the farm layout of Mr. J. D. MacFarlane of Aylsham, the Boughen Nursery at Nipawin, and the operations of the Jardine family in pioneering country north of Love.

With the CBC Opera Company's 1949-50 season well into the rehearsal stage, Morton's "uneventful" career includes the title role in the forthcoming presentation of Benjamin Britten's Peter Grimes—the opening work of the company's second season.

Morton's role in Peter Grimes on October 12 marks his debut with the CBC Opera Company. However, it does not mark his introduction to the music of Benjamin Britten. Last year he sang the tenor role in the Canadian Summer Concert performance of the English composer's Serenade for Strings, a cycle of poems set for string orchestra, French horn and tenor voice.

Greatest London Character.—When it comes to real London characters, the palm undoubtedly goes to Winston Churchill, who breathes the spirit of London town and whose appearance in the streets is calculated almost to cause a traffic hold-up.—Robert Redi, on BBC.

Maurice Bodington A Former Trouper Author Of Bod's Scrapbook Has Theatrical Background

When Maurice Bodington was growing up in New Westminster, British Columbia, he decided that he wanted to be an entertainer.

His father died suddenly and he was faced with the problem of earning a living. The stage loomed up alluringly in his mind, but he decided to be practical and take a job in a bank.

"Adding and subtracting nearly drove me crazy," he recalls, "and when I was twenty-one I could stand it no longer, so I lit out for the bright lights of Broadway with fifteen dollars in my pocket."

An Irish policeman and his wife boarded him for two dollars a week, and filled him up with colourful stories of life in the old land, while he unobtrusively studied their brogue.

Then George M. Cohan offered him a job and he travelled across the country with him for two years, meeting hosts of actors and musicians, and storing up a fund of anecdotes about back-stage life.

He worked with Flo Ziegfeld for some time, too. Leon Errol, now in films, was the stage manager, and Lillian Tashman was in the chorus. Maurice says Ziegfeld was a cold, calculating man who seldom spoke but had an uncanny faculty for spotting future stars.

Stranded penniless in Chicago, having just finished a short engagement as a swimming clown in a tank of particularly cold water for fifty cents a day, Maurice was rescued by a kind stranger, who lent him the fare to Toronto. There, he enlisted in the Canadian Army as a forester. That was during the First Great War.

After his discharge, he cashed in on his experiences in vaudeville by doing impersonations for Toronto theatre audiences. He discovered he had a knack for dialects—Irish, Cockney (a year at School in England had helped that along), Chinese, and about a dozen others. He established himself as a comedian and story-teller, and then tried his hand at radio announcing. He announced on Toronto stations for twelve years, and conducted successful children's programs.

Three and a half years ago, the CBC suggested he do a program series of poetry and prose readings, dialect stories, and recollections of his days in show business. Maurice was in his element. After the first few broadcasts, when listeners started writing in by the dozen to say how much they liked his wit, wisdom and friendly philosophy, he decided his search for the right medium had been worth the effort.

Now, Maurice Bodington is heard regularly on Sunday nights at 8:15 p.m. on CBC Dominion. His programs feature serious and humorous readings from the classics and from the works of relatively obscure authors—and excerpts from Maurice's huge store of memories. Bod's Scrapbook includes old musical favourites sung by John Sturgess, who is currently subbing for the regular singer, Jimmie Shields, and organ music by Don Gordon.

Radio and Society

Radio in Modern Life: The Canadian National System

Filling The Dial

Radio fills up every second of the broadcasting day. The British believe that an occasional interval of silence on the radio is no disgrace; in America the show must go on—and on—and on. This split-second timing becomes a nuisance to discriminative listeners. A song is cut off in mid-stanza because the big studio clock announces it is 7:59:40, and that leaves just time for the station announcement before another song starts on another program at 8:00:00. Or the last bars of a piece of music composed by a master and played by a superb orchestra are faded out so that the station name and time may be announced—as if the listener cared about either in the presence of such music!

This is summer, and the same number of hours turn up every day to be filled to the brim with radio broadcasts.

Sure to turn up in the hot weather is a vocalist who will rocket to radio fame with an inane verse about a choo-choo, an ill-rhymed quatrain about how "She wasn't at the dance Saturday," each set to a nursery arrangement of four or five notes. There will be "give-away" shows, too. Last year the four major United States networks distributed a total of $4,297,557 worth of prizes. Singing mice, preaching parrots and synco-pating coyotes; sneezing contests for hay-fever sufferers and yowling tests for hog-callers—all these will bludgeon our ears.

But for every bad program that's been on the air for years there are, according to Henry Morgan, the radio debunker of radio, five good ones that had to be taken off because nobody listened to them, or, if they did, they didn't write to the studio saying so.

News And Commentary

News reports get a high radio rating. Women seem to prefer hearing the news read to reading it for themselves. But persons who have a deep interest in events continue to read the newspaper because there they get the whole story and not a fifty-word high-light version.

The stream poured out in a fifteen-minute newscast discourages a pulling-together of events from past time into a whole for contemplation, though as everyone knows the past is needed to interpret the present.

How strong is the suggestive power of the radio has been shown in several instances. The Orson Welles tid-bit about an invasion from Mars is well-remembered. It was repeated recently by a South American station. Troops had to be mobilized to quell the mob that marched out to meet the imaginary invaders. When it realized it had been hoaxed, the mob wrecked the radio building.

It is not only in deliberate hoax broadcasts that the power of suggestion is seen: at the time of the Nova Scotia mine cave-in which buried three eminent men alive for several days, a broadcaster played Nearer My God to Thee as a fill-in between news bulletins. It was after midnight, but almost instantly every light on the switchboard went on, because listeners associated the hymn with the Titanic, and assumed that there was news of the death of the buried men.

"Highbrow" Programs

This suggestibility of radio audiences raises the thought that broadcasters might, by little and by little, lead listeners into appreciation of better than today's run-of-mill programs. As Mr. J. W. Barnes, who is chief instructor in radio arts at the Ryerson Institute of Technology in Toronto, said not long ago: "Give the people what they want to the extent that they'll keep listening with interest; but slip in some things that they wouldn't immediately choose to hear, in an effort to open new vistas of experience and enjoyment."

Response to the CBC pioneer effort in broadcasting Handel's Messiah and the St. Matthew Passion by Bach demonstrated beyond doubt that there is a worthwhile number in Canada interested in such things. The CBC Opera Company won so high praise from listeners that another five operas will be presented next season. The Sunday night Stages of the CBC were five years old in January. During that time they presented 169 different plays, of which 119 were new original works. Forgotten Footsteps, woven around Canadian historical episodes, won an immense number of complimentary letters.

Latest addition is CBC Wednesday Night. This new venture in North American radio is designed to give Canadian listeners programs of unusual interest in the realms of drama, music, talks and readings, with works by Canadian composers high on the list. An article in the New York Times gave this program high praise, and remarked that it is attracting attention of United States listeners.

Television

Television is the most dramatic of the wireless inventions. It adds motion to the pictorial content of facsimile, and vision to the immediacy and intimacy of sound broadcasting. Having extended his voice and hearing to the ends of the earth, man seems about to make his eyesight all-embracing.

Announcement was made this spring that Canada is to have a television system of its own. Montreal and Toronto will be the producing and transmitting centres. Although this first effort is to be a CBC project, financed by a loan of four million dollars from the government, independent stations are eligible for licence and have been preparing for years.

Television shows are expensive. Of the fifty-five stations operating in the United States in the spring, only three had broken even on the cost of operation, and these had not yet started to get back their capital outlay.

But there are great possibilities. Business men and dreamers alike agree on the large-screen program as a winner, when it comes. Theatres will be crowded, they say, with people watching events, transmitted instantaneously from all parts of the world. Six west-end London theatres are being equipped. A New Jersey theatre has added a television lounge, where a projector throws a clear picture six feet by eight feet. In Canada, plans have been shaped for utilizing a system which involves the recording of the television image on film. The picture can be picked out of the air, processed within sixty seconds, and screened immediately.

The Power Of Radio

History is not only written in words, it is made with words. Witnesses could be called readily from the ranks of great and good men, but let us look first at what was said by a vicious man who nearly brought our world down in ruins around us: "The power which set sliding the greatest historical avalanches of political and religious nature was, from the beginning of time, the magic force of the spoken word alone." That is Adolf Hitler, in Mein Kampf.

If evil men recognize the power in words, the good that can be done by words is also amply demonstrated. A competent leadership well expressed has often raised group thinking and actions to a high level. When Winston Churchill told the British people, "I have nothing to offer but blood, toil, tears and sweat," he aroused a seemingly defeated nation to fight on. That speech was one of the resources of the British Empire, along with its men, guns, planes and ships.

One of the greatest benefits to mankind, and one essential to democracy, is to teach people to think—which is the opposite of passive acceptance—and to reason, which is far removed from being led supinely toward someone else's objective.

Perhaps another subject should be added to the school curriculum: teach children to demand evidence. Teach them to ask their parents "Why?" when they are told spinach is good for them and late nights bad. Teach them to challenge advertisers to say plump and plain how good their goods are, adding emotional appeal if they like, but never omitting the basic truths. Teach them to challenge what they hear on the radio in the way of news, comment, analysis, and information: is it objective, or is it loaded?

Our Brains Are Buzzing

Our brains are buzzing more than the brains of men ever buzzed before, and the scale of events around us has assumed a gigantic size. The buffer area between individuals and between nations has shrunk, every man feels called upon to react to the total environment and to every incident that affects his neighbours at the far side of the earth.

The radio enters this picture as an additional complicating force, because it distorts further our picture of the world by diminishing our opportunity to select and isolate the things to which we shall give attention. We grow accustomed to the weirdest of juxtapositions: the serious and the trivial, the comic and the tragic. The idyllic report of a princess holidaying on Capri is followed in a split second by a twenty-word record of the fall of Shanghai. Here is a collapse of values, a fantasia of effects that resembles the debris left by a storm.

CBC Wednesday Night

THE CHERRY ORCHARD

The Cherry Orchard by Anton Chekhov, adapted for radio by Harold Bowen and produced by Mary Hope Allen, comes to Wednesday Night through the BBC's transcription service. It features Fay Compton as Madame Ranevskaya, the owner of the orchard, and Edward Chapman as Lopahin, the wealthy merchant who buys it and cuts it down. This is the last of Chekhov's five important plays and is widely accepted as his masterpiece. It is different in its technique from the tightly-knit products of the English and French stage. For instance, there is no real hero or villain to provide an emotional compulsion of interest in the development of the plot; and the author tosses "atmosphere" lines in among the "action" or "plot-developing" lines, so that the listener has to distinguish between background and foreground, so to speak, to comprehend the play's central design.

7:30 p.m.; 9:00 p.m.; 8:00 p.m.

POETS LOOK AT CANADA

The theme for Dr. Earle Birney's program this week will be Canadians and the Passions. Dr. Birney will read from the Haida Song of Whip-Plaiting as translated by Constance L.

Skinner; Quiet (Marjorie Pickthall); Sonnet (Patrick Waddington); Low Tide on Grand Pres (Bliss Carman); Over (Robert Finch); I Wish My Tongue Were a Quiver (Louis MacKay); Sonnet (Roy Daniells). From Vancouver.
9:15 p.m.; 8:15 p.m.; 7:15 p.m.

DISTINGUISHED ARTISTS

Jean Belland, French-born 'cellist who came to Canada twenty-five years ago and made his home in Montreal. He has been first 'cellist with the Montreal Symphony and the Montreal Little Symphony and teaches at the Music and Dramatic Arts Institute of the Province of Quebec. He will play the Concerto in D Major (Haydn); the adagio and allegro from the Sonata for 'Cello and Piano, Op. 40 (Shostakovich). From Montreal.
9:30 p.m.; 8:30 p.m.; 7:30 p.m.

BERTRAND RUSSELL

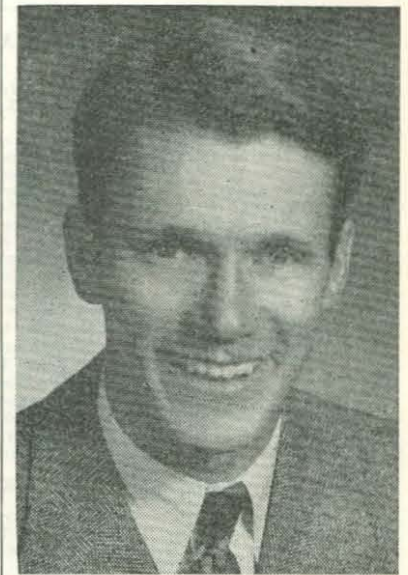

On the CBC Wednesday Night programs since July 20th, the eminent British philosopher, Bertrand Russell, has been discussing Authority and the Individual—the question of how we can "combine that degree of individual initiative which is necessary for progress with the degree of social cohesion that is necessary for survival." Lord Russell's series of transcribed talks ends this week with an examination of Individual and Social Ethics. For those who are interested in obtaining Lord Russell's six lectures in permanent form, they became available in book form a short time ago under the title Authority and the Individual, published by Allen and Unwin.
10:00 p.m.; 7:30 p.m.; 6:30 p.m.

MOZART QUARTET

The Solway String Quartet, in String Quartet in G Major, K. 387 (Mozart). The members of the quartet, all of whom play with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra, are Maurice Solway, leader and first violin; Jack Groob, second violin; Robert Warburton, viola; and Marcus Adeney, 'cello. The Solway Quartet, which made its debut in March, 1948, has made a name for itself recently by departing from time to time from the standard chamber music tradition. Convinced that a large section of the general public can be interested in chamber music, the Solway String Quartet has included a large number of "pops" concert selections in its repertoire. These it has performed in various concerts and broadcasts and also in its recital tours of Ontario under the sponsorship of the Ontario Department of Education. From Toronto.
10:30 p.m.; 10:30 p.m.; 9:30 p.m.

The English Housewife.—Friendliness and helpfulness I have met all along. It is the English housewife who deserves praise. She has had to battle with the 101 restrictions and shortcomings of daily life, and after nine years she is exceptionally cheerful about it.—The Begum Ikram-Ullah, on BBC.

CBC Announcers—XIII

ALBERT EMANUEL NELSON, CBC announcer stationed at Edmonton, is the latest addition to the announcing staff of CBX, Alberta. He joined the CBC in Edmonton in May of this year.

Bert was born in Haynes, Alberta, attending Public and High School in Lacombe. After high school he spent the next four years in the R.C.A.F. and following his discharge he entered the University of Alberta. He now holds the degree of Bachelor of Education and in addition has completed part of the work for his Master's degree. He hopes to do his graduate thesis on "The Role of Radio in Adult Education." Bert has been interested in radio for some years, first as a listener then as a broadcaster when he took part in a series of University-sponsored dramatic programs for children while he was attending University.

Aside from radio, his other chief hobby is writing, most of which has been published in University student publications. He was chosen winner recently of a writing contest sponsored by the Cultural Affairs Branch of the Alberta Government. Bert is also interested in sports, but as a family man going to University he has had little time for active participation. However, he hopes to be able to remedy this situation soon.

Far East Broadcasters
Study Canadian Radio

Nine South Korean and Japanese broadcasting executives, visiting North America by arrangement with the Rockefeller Foundation, arrived in Toronto on August 14 to start a study of radio broadcasting in this country. They have been touring in the United States for the last two months. In Canada, they will also visit Ottawa, Montreal and Quebec City, accompanied by W. John Dunlop, the CBC's supervisor of international exchange.

A BOOK I LIKE

This week's speaker will be Dorothy Livesay McNair, one of Canada's best-known poets. She will talk about the book, Human Destiny, by Lecomte du Nouy. From Vancouver. 3:48 p.m.; 3:48 p.m.; 2:48 p.m.

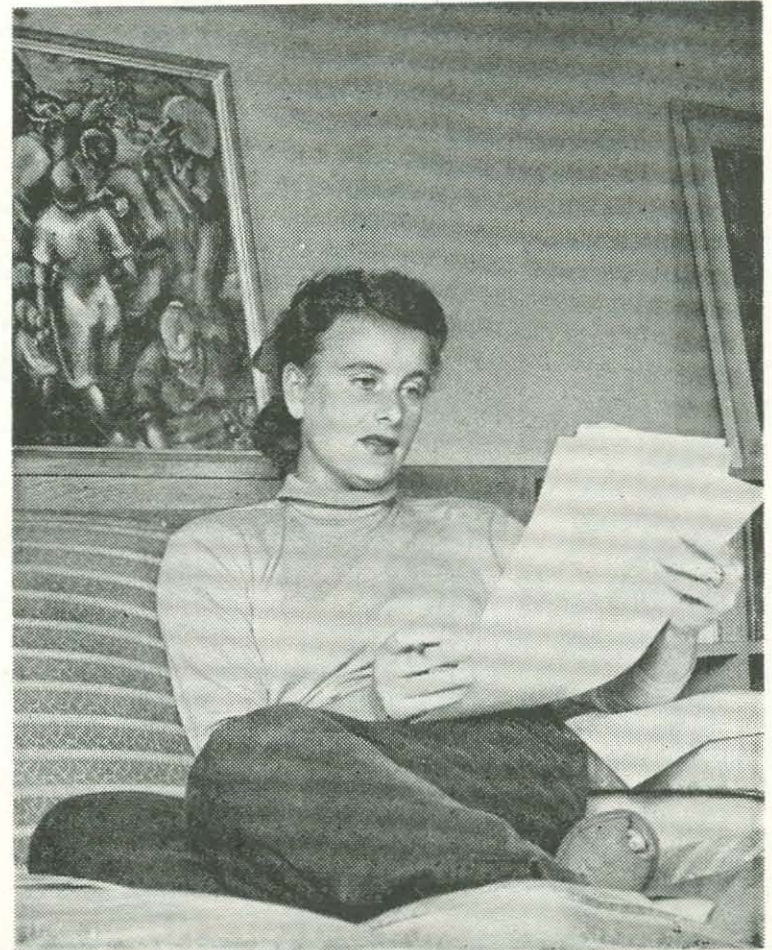

VOICE OF CANADA

First of a series of five weekly talks on the CBC International Service and its shortwave broadcasts to other countries. The broadcasts will be produced by Elspeth Chisholm and the host will be Ralph Marven—both of the International Service staff. By means of anecdotes, brief interviews, samples of programs broadcast to listeners overseas and excerpts from the more than a hundred thousand letters received since the "Voice of Canada" began four and a half years ago, Mr. Marven will take Canadian listeners back-stage, showing how the International Service helps to build trade and make new friends for this country. From Montreal. 7:30 p.m.; 11:15 p.m.; 10:15 p.m.

TORONTO PROM

Toronto Philharmonic Orchestra conducted by Fritz Mahler. Prelude to the third act of Lohengrin (Wagner); Symphony No. 1 in C (Bizet);

RITA GREER, Vancouver writer whose two-part musical drama, Holidaying From Home, will be heard on August 16 and 23 (CBW 11:30 p.m., CBK 10:30 p.m., CBX 9:30 p.m.)

Symphonic Picture of Gershwin's Porgy and Bess (Russell Bennett). From Toronto.

Dom. 7:30 p.m.

(Weber); Arioso (Bach); Autumn (Moskowski); Nocturne in D Flat, Opus 9 (Scriabine); Scherzo in E Major (Chopin). From Saskatoon.

11:00 p.m.; 7:00 p.m.; 6:00 p.m.

EVENTIDE

Dedication is the theme of this week's broadcast and appropriate readings will be presented by E. V. Young with familiar hymns by the choir under Dalton Baker. E. V. Young: The Living Chalice (Susan Mitchell); Nicodemus (Andrew Young); The Gettysburg Address (Abraham Lincoln); Sir Galahad (Tennyson). Choir: O Jesus I Have Promised; Thine for Ever God of Love; O Happy Day That Fixed My Choice; Take My Life and Let It Be. From Vancouver. 9:30 p.m.; 8:30 p.m.; 7:30 p.m.

TALES THAT PEOPLE TELL

Ted Allan will tell two Chinese folk-stories on tonight's broadcast. They are The City of Yen Ch'eng, in which a Chinese god loses face; and The Casting of the Great Bell, a Chinese Romeo and Juliette story with Juliette throwing herself into a cauldron of boiling metal instead of taking poison. From Montreal. 10:00 p.m.; 9:00 p.m.; 8:00 p.m.

Edmund Hockridge Has Engagement with BBC

Baritone Edmund Hockridge set out for England the end of last month loaded down with color film for his magazine-loading, sixteen-millimeter movie camera.

Young Mr. Hockridge is to be featured on a series of six BBC broadcasts and in all probability will fill engagements on other programs.

He also plans to spend some time with the man who was his music teacher during four and a half of the years he spent in England with the R.C.A.F.—the famous George Baker who did all the patter roles in the original D'Oyly Carte Gilbert and Sullivan records made twenty years ago. Then, too, he hopes to find his way to the Edinburgh Festival.

The young Canadian baritone returns the middle of September for a season that will include the resumption of his weekly series Edmund Hockridge Sings, CBC broadcast performances of Don Giovanni, Fidelio and Peter Grimes, and a stage presentation of Don Giovanni.

C.N.E. OPENING

His Excellency, the Governor-General will officially open the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto.
5:30 p.m.; 6:00 p.m.; 5:00 p.m.

SUMMER CONCERT

Orchestra conducted by Alexander Brott. Italian Symphony (Mendelssohn); three dances from The Bartered Bride (Smetana); Coriolanus Overture (Beethoven). From Montreal.
7:00 p.m.; 9:30 p.m.; 8:30 p.m.

RADIO CARTOONS

Picture your dilemma if you had to sit and entertain the Weather (not the weatherman) some evening in the privacy of your living room. Although everyone talks about the weather, the humble citizen becomes quite tongue-tied when he has to talk to the weather. At least so it happens in the whimsical piece scheduled for tonight called Weather Enough For You? Script by W. Gilmour Clark, a former weatherman with the Department of Transport; Ross McLean, producer. From Vancouver.

7:15 p.m.; 6:15 p.m.

PRAIRIE SCHOONER

Orchestra conducted by Jimmy Gowler; Joan Maxwell, contralto. Orchestra: Circassian Circle (Scottish); Wilhelmus-Dans (Dutch); La Bou-

Board Rulings.

CBC Governors Report

The CBC Board of Governors, after a meeting in Ottawa on August 2, announced that it had declined a request by the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, representing privately owned radio stations, that regulations be changed to permit broadcasting of "spot" announcements on weekdays between 7:30 p.m. and 11:00 p.m.—the only periods during which such announcements are not already permitted.

The Board noted that a number of stations have been broadcasting "from five hundred to two thousand announcements a week" and pointed to the view expressed by the last Parliamentary Committee on Radio Broadcasting "against excessive commercialization of time on community stations."

The Board also reported its opinion that the "prohibition of spot announcements in the evening hours should be continued, as providing some check in the interests of listeners against saturation of good listening time with commercial announcements."

Patent Medicines

The Board also decided against two other requests from the Canadian Association of Broadcasters—one to permit the insertion of "spot" announcements during intervals between network programs, the other to permit stations to submit "continuity" for the advertising of products coming under the Proprietary or Patent Medicines Act or the Food and Drugs Act, directly to the Department of National Health and Welfare, instead of through the CBC.

In the first case, the Board said: "It would not be in the interest of the public when listening to network langere (French dance); Strask (Czech); Pilot's Waltz (Swedish); Johnny Waggoner (breakdown); Round Dance (Latvian National Dance); Finnish Polka; Kitty O'Beil (Irish Straight Jig); Mountain Ranger Hornpipe. Joan Maxwell: I Hear a Shepherd's Pibgorn (Welsh); My Little Welsh Home (Welsh traditional); Heav'n, Heav'n (Negro spiritual). Norman Lucas, producer; Norman McBain, announcer. From Winnipeg.

8:30 p.m.; 7:30 p.m.; 6:30 p.m.

OUR SPECIAL SPEAKER

Author Ted Allan is going to rise to the defence of the lowly and much maligned cockroach when he appears tonight as guest speaker in this series. From Montreal.

9:15 p.m.; 8:15 p.m.; 7:15 p.m.

VANCOUVER DRAMA

The Lucky Devil, the first of two plays by Joseph Schull of Montreal. Next Friday's play will be The Life of a Man. From Vancouver.

10:00 p.m.; 9:00 p.m.; 8:00 p.m.

broadcasting to have commercial spot announcements inserted between network programs, and . . . such a development would not be in the general interest of good listening."

Concerning food and drug announcements, the Board noted that the Association made its request "in order that clearance of these continuities should be accelerated." However, the Board said most such continuities had been cleared within a few days and there was no evidence of them being delayed to any great extent by the CBC.

On the same point, the Board said the Department considered the present system satisfactory and that in the event continuities were not handled through the CBC, the Department itself would still have to require copies at least two weeks in advance.

Licences

The Board recommended that the licensing authority should refuse applications from La Societe St. Jean Baptiste de Montreal, for a licence to set up a new station, and from Station VOWR of St. John's Newfoundland, for permission to transfer its licence from Wesley Church Radio Board to The Pioneer Broadcasting Association of Newfoundland and to operate on a commercial basis.

The reason in both cases for recommending denial was stated as follows:

"Only a limited number of air channels are available. There are not nearly enough channels to accommodate all organizations or groups of different viewpoints or interests which might wish to have stations of their own. If some groups had licences they would be in partial monopoly positions and channels would not be available for licences to other groups.

"It is important to emphasize the 'common carrier' aspect of broadcasting; to make it clear that licensees controlling the use of air channels should be in impartial positions and should provide for the maximum fair expression of different views and concepts and the meeting of different needs.

"It has not therefore been the policy of the Board, and is not, to recommend granting licences for commercial broadcasting stations to non-commercial organizations connected with different social, economic, religious or political points of view, beliefs or interests.

RADIO IN MODERN LIFE

We do not blame radio for it all, because much of our inability to comprehend is caused by failure of our mental capacity to keep up with our physical progress, but we do, surely, need all the help radio can give toward simplifying for us the chaos to which it, itself, contributes so much.

One way of assistance might be by placing emphasis upon the facts which underly the problems of the day. Another effort might be directed toward raising standards of criticism and choice.

Shadows On The Wall

We are not discharging an undoubted responsibility by adopting a scornful-eyed attitude. Educators who organize radio programs have told us that there is nothing more difficult than to persuade people who are fully qualified by background, education, experience and standing in the community to speak constructively on subjects which others, less qualified but more vocal and energetic, are attacking destructively.

The radio is a tool, one of man's latest inventions. Just as the first tool, a digging stick, was so readily converted into a club with which to fight, so radio is in danger of being perverted from its possibly high purpose.

This is not a time for watching and waiting in ivory towers. A day may come when man can go back into silence again and be no less great on that account; think more, bear his own company better, settle his problems more honestly and more wisely. But just now he must make his contribution toward building a state of affairs in which such an existence will be possible.

Everything that any man can do in managing radio or in using radio to clarify the thinking of people is such a contribution.

We recall the celebrated figure of the cave given by Plato. There were prisoners in the cave, chained with their backs to the entrance so that they could not turn around. Upon the wall before them were cast the shadows of persons and animals passing the mouth of the cave, lit in daytime by sunshine and at night by a huge fire. All they knew of life was gathered from the fitting distorted shadows.

The function of educated, experienced people, surely, is to interpret the shadows if they cannot turn the audience around. It could be one of the great functions of radio to supply complete, accurate and uncoloured information about what is happening to cast the shadows upon the wall; to discriminate between what is a significant movement and what is trivial; to show that the distorted shadow world is not precisely a reflection of the real world.
