The Ear Inspires the Pen

Mrs. F. Holden, 5832½ Harold Way, Hollywood, Calif.

Sirs: It would seem to me that we who live here in Hollywood are penalized for doing so, when it comes to getting tickets for certain radio shows and being awarded the larger prizes. I have been trying for a matter of years to get tickets to some shows I'd like to see.

On three shows that give away considerable prizes, and on one that grants lesser rewards, I have yet to hear that a person from Hollywood is the lucky one. All the gifts and money go to persons from Squeedunk Indiana, or other such faraway places. I certainly don't begrudge them getting their wishes granted, but why shy away from us Hollywood people?

Too, I have written letters asking for information about certain programs, and other items, and nary a reply! I think only common courtesy should have assured me a reply.

To our direct knowledge, there's no favoritism displayed on any of Hollywood's audience shows, either in the case of tickets or prizes. Some programs, it's true, have such an overwhelming ticket request that they're booked solid for the year almost before the season begins, but folks from Hollywood get in there as well as the next guy if their requests arrive early. In the matter of prizes, haven't you heard the nice things which happen to Hollywood and Los Angeles residents on Cal York's "Hollywood Tour," Jay Stewart's "What's Doing, Ladies?," and Ben Alexander's "Heart's Desire"?

Eva R. Seton, 3630 South Barrington Avenue, Los Angeles 34, Calif.

Sirs: I seldom miss one of the "Radio Life" magazines and always enjoy reading the letters to "The Ear Inspires the Pen."

In the issue of April 13th, I rather think Mr. Litsinger's remarks about people's stupidity in objecting to radio commercials are a little wrong. I do not think it is the commercials people object to, I think it is the excessive commercials. For instance: the Sunshine Vitamin program in the early mornings used to be one of my favorite western programs, with a reasonable amount of advertising. Lately, however, there is so much more gab about So and So ordered a trial size, and So and So ordered a $3.00 size that I have given up trying to hear the western music, and get it on a different station. Another thing, I did want to try the vitamins they advertise, so a week ago last Friday I mailed them $3.00 for the family size, which they say will be sent right out postpaid with cash order. I am still waiting for the vitamins, though, it is two weeks lacking three days since I mailed my order. Maybe they will send them when too many people get tired listening to too many commercials.

I really think people are interested in a reasonable amount of good advertising.

Yours for less, but better, commercials.

Rose Skaron, 3429 Arroyo Seco Avenue, Los Angeles 31, Calif.

Sirs: Certainly enjoy your Radio Life, weekly.

Can you please tell me the name of the announcer who advertises on "Grand Central Station" between acts and surmises the outcome of the play? It certainly sounds like Galen Drake. Have you any pictures of the latter? I like his little talks, daily.

Are there any programs pertaining to child training?

Galen Drake

Ella E. Morrow, 7424 La Jolla Blvd., La Jolla, Calif.

Sirs: All the letters I have read in your magazine have made me decide to add mine to the many requests for the return of Cliff Arquette to the radio. He was the cleverest comedian on the air, and my husband and I had more laughs at his clever impersonations than any other show. He should have an evening show once a week so everyone can hear his "Mrs. Wilson", "Cap", etc. We also liked Tyler McVey—in fact, the whole cast, and were disgusted when the program was taken off the air.

So many people ask for his return. He is one in a million, and should have won an award for his wonderful comedy.

Mrs. Wilma Lamers, 413 Elm Street, Anaheim, Calif.

Sirs: I've often wondered why Cliff Arquette did not come back on "Glamour Manor" as he said he would. I was sorry to hear he has been ill, and wish him a speedy recovery. But I also am enjoying Kenny Baker and his cast. A good laugh is a tonic, and for me starts the day right. Kenny Baker's singing is wonderful. I wish Ken and the cast continued success. I'm all for them.

John B. Christian, Box 21, Pasadena, Calif.

Sirs: Last Easter Sunday I made the mistake of going to church! I missed a program toward which I had looked forward for many weeks. It was Archibald MacLeish's "Son of Man". Why in heaven's name a program like that is scheduled at so odd an hour! Sunday all good church members are in church, especially on Easter!

It seems to me that we here in California who had the misfortune of having to go to Sunday School in our early youth get the royal brushoff by the radio stations. Think of it. Sockman on ABC at 10:00 a.m. in the East . . . but at 7:00 a.m. here on Sundays! I try to be a good Christian, but I must say I'm not that kind of an early Christian! Can't you do something about it?

Give us more stories on religious artists, local and national. We're sick and tired of Benny and Hope.

Ronald Colman, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Sirs: Mrs. Colman and I wish to thank the publishers of Radio Life for the Citation we have received. We are both very happy and delighted to be the possessors of your Distinguished Achievement Award.

Name omitted by request.

Sirs: Give me a seat by the person who wrote his opinion of "Amos 'n' Andy". I agree. When they formerly came on five nights a week they packed twice as much punch and humor into their programs as they now do.

I miss "Guiding Light", "Vic and Sade", "Death Valley Days", "Gospel Singer" and the "Hour of Charm". How I do long for them again! And what has become of our beautiful tenor voices such as Richard Crooks and Frank Munn, who formerly gladdened our hearts? Nearly all our vocalists are now women. Men's voices are more mellow and I think a musical program is not complete without them. Have the men deserted us?

I don't like guesting on our programs. It usurps so much of the time which properly belongs to the real program. Sounds like a lot of useless banter from those who have on their company manners and likely rehearsed for it beforehand. I think also that our broadcasts would be better enjoyed without studio audiences. Their shouts of laughter drown out the last of the dialogue by the actors. Will it ever stop?

Will you please give us a write-up of Hal Nichols and his "Memory Room"? His program is the best on the air. Thank you, too, for giving us such an enjoyable magazine.

"Guiding Light" is supposed to be back on the air soon. We agree about so much inane guesting. Too bad so many comedians play to the studio audience and forget dialers. We're still waiting to hear from the station on the "Memory Room" story.

Mrs. V. H. Telling, 626 Charter Oak, South Pasadena, Calif.

Sirs: We felt as though we'd lost a favorite friend when "Dr. Tweedy" went off the air. Pall Mall has made a big mistake, and I, for one, shall skip their show from now on. Will Frank be heard anywhere else? We want more Frank Morgan somewhere, sometime, on our radio!

Frank has no radio plans for the summer. But come July 1st and he'll have his hands full with that two-week yacht race to Honolulu. Mr. Morgan is one of the entries, you know.

Mrs. J. Peters, 505 South 3rd Street, Alhambra, Calif.

Sirs: I would like to see a picture of Ben Alexander. He has a very interesting program that never tires one, and a nice way of advertising. It is better than most. I also enjoy him on "Heart's Desire".

I cannot see why most of the gifts from programs are given to people in other states, where I should think they would have their own shows.

You can't beat KFAC for good music any hour of the day or night.

Winifred Duncan, 1349 Glenneyre Street, Laguna Beach, Calif.

Sirs: I am very anxious to hear why William Shirer has been taken off the air. He is one of our best and most reliable commentators. William Winter was one of our favorites, but who knows where he is now? I wrote to the station some months ago inquiring as to his return to the air, but got no reply. And what about "Four Freedoms"?

Recently I have become a soap-opera listener for a reason, "Lora Lawton". An exciting, well-written story, with pleasing background, presented by people with educated, well-modulated voices—a joy to hear. Sponsored by Bab-O—an excellent product. Could we have a story about "Lora Lawton," please?

We have no first-hand information about William Shirer's exit from the air lanes. Rumor has it he was removed because he was too "liberal." However, we were assured by those in the know that he would be back again. William Winter has just completed a tour of the Far East, where he transcribed a radio series, "This Is Your World." We have sent to New York for pictures on "Lora Lawton."

Mrs. Phillip Bischoff, 4146 Elmer Avenue, North Hollywood, Calif.

Sirs: My family have been reading your magazine since we came to California almost two years ago, and can, in all honesty, say we have never enjoyed a magazine more.

I would like to know why you have the same pictures over and over again. Not that we do not enjoy seeing them, but would also like to see some of the "unknown" players we hear on different shows, yet never see pictures of.

Now, Mrs. Bischoff, you've ruined our day, because we thought we WERE trying to bring you stories and pictures about some of radio's lesser known personalities. You see, folks are always interested in the top stars like Benny and Hope, but, in addition to material on these, Radio Life prides itself on going behind scenes and digging out stuff on folks whose work you hear and probably like but whom you don't hear as much about. However, we'll keep on trying to please and maybe we can squeeze in one more story of the non-star variety.

Mrs. W. L. Taylor, 25611 President Avenue, Harbor City, Calif.

Sirs: I would like to answer the letter from which the name had been withheld by request. No wonder they withheld their name. If he or she doesn't care for guest stars on Bill Leyden's program, or Al Jarvis' show, why don't they dial to another station?

And I didn't like your reply about the programs, such as "We think those who stress cracks rather than wax are talking themselves right out of listeners." To tell the truth you really don't think that way . . . or do you? If you ever had an ill child who needed radio, as I have, you would welcome any program that kept him happy.

Bill Anson, Al Jarvis and Bill Leyden are tops with me. Also Felix Adams on KGER has a disc show that's good. What's happened to Stu Wilson? He's great.

We agree with you, Mrs. Taylor, and think those who don't like one program should dial another. Sorry you thought we were hard on talkative disc jockeys, but we hold that folks are interested more in music than remarks. A few well-chosen words are okeh, but some jockeys, it seems, become entranced at the sound of their own voices and spin on and on. Many jockeys could take a leaf out of the books of men like Anson, Jarvis, and Leyden, who have learned to make their talk breezy and intimate and that's why folks like 'em. Stu Wilson is still heard on "Quiz of Two Cities."

Marjorie Oborn, 10308 South Paloma Avenue, Los Angeles 2, Calif.

Sirs: Could you tell me if Al Jolson is going to have a program of his own? I would enjoy it very much if he would.

I wonder if it would be possible for Eddie Cantor to sing more songs on his program instead of so much talking. Sinatra and Crosby have done so much for their programs, and I think it would also help Cantor.

Jolson, himself, has stated his intent on the air . . . he likes the guest shots. And no wonder! He can appear when, where and as often as he chooses, with none of the worries of a regular show!

Mac Boyd, 3162 Meade Avenue, San Diego 4, Calif.

Sirs: I wonder what became of Leo Gorcey on the Bob Burns show, and who is Lulu McConnell on "It Pays to Be Ignorant"? Also, what happened to Bobby and Cousin Cassie on "The Sheriff"?

And whatever happened to Roy Acuff? Is there any chance of his returning to the air? It would be nice to see pictures of all the above mentioned.

Leo Gorcey is confining his artistry to pictures at present. Lulu McConnell is an old-time vaudevillian. Bobby and Cousin Cassie, as we've pointed out several times recently, are out of "The Sheriff" cast because the format calls for less comedy. Last we heard of Roy Acuff, he was on Mutual's "Checkerboard Time." Does anyone have any further information?

Mabel Padgett, 1271½ West 37th Place, Los Angeles 7, Calif.

Sirs: Is there anything you can do to convince writers there are dialers, too? It seems all comedy, variety or audience participation shows are directed at the studio audience. Nothing is more puzzling nor boring than to listen to the unexplained laughter accompanying a show.

And as for the "giggling gerties" in studio audiences . . . why don't the studios ferret out these people and start a "black list"?

Any chance of an article and pictures of Art Baker and his notebook? There should be more shows like his.

Robert R. Person, 1665 W. 11th Place, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: This evening I accidentally tuned in on a new radio program, "Johnny Modero," broadcast locally over KHJ. If the program makes the same impression on all radio listeners as it did on me, it's sure to be a hit. I thought it was the finest program of its type that I've heard in a long, long time. It's fast, spicy and sure-fire. Jack Webb, I believe that's his name, plays the leading role and does a swell job. I'm just a listener who really enjoyed the initial broadcast, and I'd like to see a write-up of the show in your fine magazine.

Complete pictures and story on the new "Johnny Modero" show appear on page 6 of this issue.

Mrs. Murphy, Alhambra, Calif.

Sirs: I just have to get in my two cents' worth after reading the paper headlines about "Vice-Presidents of Radio Station NBC Quit Row Over Radio Kidding." It's about time they woke up. Such stuff and nonsense of them to make such an issue of a few clean jokes on the air. They could start cleaning up a few other smutty wise cracks besides.

Did you hear Eddie Cantor a week ago with that Frenchman he had on the air? Well, his mouth should have been washed out with soap. Eddie pulls some pretty smart stuff, and not too clean either. So do Phil Harris, George Jessel and a great many more.

M. L. Dailey, 1026 Florida Street, Los Angeles 14, Calif.

Sirs: I was very sorry to hear that Frank Sinatra is going off the air. Since the studio audience din has been subdued, it is one of the most listenable musical programs scheduled. Actually, The Voice is better than ever. There is a new depth and resonance in his singing, and a new and becoming maturity in his manner. That he is also a very deft comedian was proven on the recent, hilarious "Screen Guild" presentation of "Too Many Husbands."

Sirs: Please do a story on Fred Beck and get some pictures of his "Operation Avocado."

*Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m.
 KFVD*

IT was early enough on a Monday morning for us still to be yawning sleepily as we drove along the pretty tree-lined Beverly Hills street in search of the Frankovich residence. A car out front bearing a sign that read "Have Breakfast with Binnie and Mike" provided a fairly good clue. We parked and approached the house with caution, aware that it was but a few moments before broadcast time. Sounds of activity from within, however, made us know that it was still safe to knock.

Inside, in the center of a spacious, warmly furnished living room, at a small table scattered with type-written sheets and newspaper clippings, sat the Frankoviches (cinema actress Binnie Barnes and her sports-casting - Republic - Pictures - producer husband, Mike Frankovich). They waved a friendly hello without taking their attention from the minute hand on the mantel clock. Engineer Johnny Greene (whose car it was out front) was standing by in the next room, ready to signal them through the small square opening on one wall that was originally cut and is still used for the projection of home movies, which the Frankoviches frequently show. Their living room is soundproofed for the same purpose, and the room's furniture arranged so as to be easily turned about for a film audience's occupancy.

It was eight-twenty-nine and the closing theme of "Wakeup Ranch," the program preceding the "Binnie and Mike" show, could be heard over the KFVD outlet in the next room. Mike smiled across the table at his wife and called her attention to it. "There's your song, darling."

Binnie grinned and began to sing, injecting a twang into her brisk English diction, "—out where Mother Nature's really givin', all the things that make a heap o' livin'."

Then they were on the air.

"Good morning, darling," announced Mr. F. jovially. "How do you

The Johnny in Jack

We Meet Jack Webb, Who, in Turn, Introduces Us to "Johnny Modero"

By Lynn Roberts

▲ IMPORTANT INGREDIENTS in the new "Johnny Modero" series are, left to right, Jack Webb, who plays title role and formerly played "Pat Novak"; Harry Zimmerman, musical director; and Nat Wolff, producer.

Wednesday, 8:30 p.m.
MBS-KHJ-KGB

JACK WEBB crinkled his dark eyes and turned his broad grin in our direction. He was talking with earnest enthusiasm of "Johnny Modero." "Johnny" is Jack's other self—the simile-tongued hero of Mutual's new Wednesday night adventure series, "Johnny Modero, Pier 23."

"Johnny" has this to say about the business he's in: "It's a boat-house on the outside. But it's inside where I make my money. People come in the back door—and go out the same way. Most of the time they don't tell me their name and I don't ask 'em. For down here on the waterfront a set of morals causes no more stir than Mother's Day in an orphanage. Sometimes I get paid. Just as often I don't. But there's not much I can do about it. That's the kind of business I'm in."

Jack has this to say about "Johnny": "I like the guy. I like him because he doesn't carry a gun. I like him because he doesn't ask for a fight, but can always take care of himself when one comes along. He's the kind of a guy I think a lot of us would be under the same circumstances. I like 'Johnny'."

Dialers like Jack. A local boy, and somewhat of a radio veteran, having written, announced and acted for the ether medium a number of years now, Jack Webb gained the greatest amount of attention from microphone fans with his portrayal of the title role in the San Francisco-emanated series, "Pat Novak for Hire." Thriller addicts delighted in his low, flat, close dialogue delivery. "Before that," he told us, "I'd played character parts and mostly romantic leads, at which I think I'm lousy."

Asked about the mail response to his "Pat Novak" portrayal, he grinned and admitted, "It was mostly from women."

His "Johnny Modero" has the same attraction.

Heart Interest

Enraptured feminine dialers will be happy to hear that actor Webb is still a bachelor—but on the other hand it isn't likely that he'll remain one for long. He is engaged to actress Julie London. When they marry, he hopes to secure a home, but meanwhile he has an apartment and knows he's lucky to have found that.

He and Julie go to the movies a lot and consider it "a school." "I even like to see the bad ones," he smiled, "because I always learn something."

As for "private eye" portrayals, he picks Dick Powell as his favorite. "Bogart's good, too, but he looks the part so completely. Powell accomplishes the portrayal with an added dash because he doesn't look the part."

Jack confessed that he is no avid mystery reader, but when he does read them, he likes the English ones best. "They're better," he summed up.

He listens to the radio a lot, abhors the audience participation shows and doesn't approve of audiences at dramatic broadcasts. "It'd be all right if there were a glass partition placed between them and the stage."

Being watched while he's working, however, doesn't bother him in the least.

About acting, he has this to say.

OTHER ROLES IN SCRIPT (written by Herb Margolis and Louis Morheim from original story by Dick Breen) are Charlie McGraw ("Lieut. Bruger") and Gordon Grey (who does character parts).

Fishy Doings

Mel Blanc and Hans Conried Try to "Get Away from It All," but End Up Frustrated and Scarcely Speaking

IT'S A WHOPPER, or so Mel thinks, as he cries to Hans to give a hand with the net. Hans promptly responds by exerting every effort short of going overboard.

"IS THAT ALL IT WAS?" mourns Hans disappointedly. Mel whips out his fisherman's "de-liar", which weighs and measures catch on the spot.

HANS IS SKEPTICAL, makes Mel measure and weigh again. Verdict: four ounces lighter, two inches shorter than Mel claimed, so Hans smirkingly appropriates the day's haul.

NEWS and COMMENT

For Love o' Mike (General Comment)

Smart Sayings of Adults

In spite of the fact that we love revivals of the old tunes, we heard the other side of the story recently from a bright fifty-year-old, and we're inclined to think he has a case. "I wish to heck they'd start writing good new tunes," this long-time radio listener complained to us. "Revivals of the oldies are all right for the younger generation, but, darn it, I remember most of the old tunes the first time they were popular. I didn't mind them being revived in the twenties and then again in the thirties, but here it is 1947 and they're all being dragged out again. At this rate I've got three or four more revivals of the same tunes to go through again and I don't think I can stand it!"

Whiffenpoof Contest

What does a Whiffenpoof look like? For a long time people have wondered, but nobody did anything about it—nobody, that is, until RCA-Victor cut a record of the Yale drinking song, warbled by Robert Merrill, and decided to stir up interest in its disposition. Inevitable consequence: a contest.

Southern California disc jockeys were enlisted in conducting a week's competition among their listeners, who were urged to draw their impressions of a Whiffenpoof. Two thousand listeners had ideas of what one looked like, and, spurred by desire for an RCA-Victor radio-record player combination offered as prize, transferred their mental images to paper. All eleven jockeys receiving entries were spurred, too. Each was to pick his three best entries for final judging and if one of his listeners received the prize, the jockey, sharing in reflected glory, received a radio-record player, too.

Last Friday the boom was lowered on the thirty-three final entries. Three stolid judges sweated through a session of eliminating the offerings, one by one, until a lone winner was agreed upon. Discarded were many clever concepts, ranging from the naive to the horrendous. Cueing her idea of a Whiffenpoof from the baa-baa-baa lines in the song, one contestant painted a man's face, composed completely of white lambs, with black sheep for beard and hair. The creation was framed in lambs' wool.

Judges were swayed in their ultimate decision by an evaluation chart stressing originality and appropriateness primarily and actual execution least.

Preliminary sifters reported that there seemed to be no age limit on those trying to nail down a Whiffenpoof. Some drawings were nothing more than pencil scrawls on pristine school paper. Others were professionally gotten-up affairs. Peter Potter, receiving 300 entries, topped the jockey list, but Jockey Berry from KFI pulled the one farthest away—New Mexico.

Too late arrived the entry from Lena

Now we've seen everything on Whiffenpoof, except perhaps the one thing we'd most like to inspect: Rudy Vallee's concept of the subject.

"Short Tip on Shysters"

Been bothered by a "racket" lately? . . . and we don't mean the neighbors having a party upstairs.

Latest bright little business going on about town, we're told, is a series of telephone calls here and there, near 9:30 every evening. Dialogue goes something like this:

"This is your radio announcer, representing the 'Pot O' Gold' program and the Eversharp Pen Company. You have been picked as one of four lucky people to report immediately at the _____ Drug Store before ten o'clock. First three there will win $_____ (amounts vary) but number four is a monkey's uncie."

If you say it sounds like bait for fish, a non-committal pause may ensue, before friend announcer patronizingly points out, "All right, but you'll be sorry." With that, what are you to do but clap on a hat and gallop out into the night, hating yourself as you go?

The rest, what you'd expect. Blank stares at the drug store and perhaps

KECA mike memos

BY VIRGINIA WEST

Something new . . . a dog will be star of a radio show . . . "The Story of Lassie", beloved canine of the cinema, debuts on a new fifteen-minute program over ABC-KECA, Sunday, June 8th, at 12 noon. Sponsored by Red Heart dog food, the series will be heard over approximately 162 stations for a period of 52 weeks. In addition to the dog star, the show will include her trainer, Rudd Weatherwax.

Also during the week, two ABC favorites get a new sponsor, when General Mills, Inc., takes over the bankrolling of "The Green Hornet" (Sunday nights at 8:30) and "Famous Jury Trials" (Friday nights at 9:30). Fast-moving mystery series, "The Green Hornet" deals with the adventures of the young newspaper publisher, Britt Reid, who attacks all wrongdoers in his secret guise. "Famous Jury Trials" has captured a vast audience of general listeners as well as the largest professional and pre-legal audiences known to radio, because of the realistic handling of the fictionalized cases. General Mills has also renewed "Hymns of All Churches", "The Lone Ranger", and "Jack Armstrong" for another year.

Other changes which take place during the week include a new time for "Warriors of Peace" . . . now 11 a.m. Sundays, "Bill Lance Show", which replaces "Gangbusters" for the summer at 9 p.m. Saturdays and the U. S. Open Golf Championship Tournament from St. Louis, which will be aired on KECA at 2 p.m., Saturday, the 14th.

... Always a Best Bet ... KECA ...

Johnny Olsen, headman of the 5-a-week "Ladies Be Seated" show (KECA at 3), considers the pre-broadcast or "warmup" the most important part of a broadcast. A lively "warmup" makes for a successful show, says Johnny, who has been in radio since 1927. . . . How'd you like to belong to the "Order of the Green Hat"? ABC commentator Drew Pearson, whose "Predictions of Things to Come" long have been a feature of his Sunday broadcasts (8 p.m.), now makes a weekly "Green Hat" award to those in public service who have distinguished themselves in "making democracy live". . . . Here's Frank Hemingway, famous for his humanized newscasts. Hemingway's entertaining slant on the day's happenings is aired over KECA-ABC every Monday thru Saturday at 5:45 p.m.

... Always a Best Bet ... KECA ...

HERE AND THERE: Paul Whiteman's hour-long five-a-week disc jockey shows have now been completely "sold out" . . . The sponsors are National Biscuit, Nestles, Camels, and Wesson Oil . . . ABC's "What's Doin', Ladies?"

show will be aired from the Pan-Pacific Home and Building Exposition in Hollywood, June 16 thru 20 . . . a waspish tirade on "Why do people keep tearing in here about that thing?" until you're ready to slink off into oblivion muttering you'll never answer the phone again.

This sort of tomfoolery enrages us as much as you, the fall guys. But we fancy a few more danders will be up when both "Pot O' Gold" and Ever-sharp hear how frivolously their names . . . and reputations . . . are being bandied about. And we hope we're standing on the sidelines when the proper squelching starts! Meanwhile, as the old "don't take any wooden nickels" slogan goes . . . "don't say we didn't warn you!"

Strictly for No Laughs

Recently at a most inappropriate place in the story, the sound of intense physical conflict in a "This Is Hollywood" drama was accompanied by waves of laughter from the audience. This is the sort of thing that makes the listening audience irritable. They feel they have a right to know what's going on in the studio, and a stupid reaction on the part of the spectators present demands an explanation.

The explanation is simple — an unsophisticated audience, instead of being emotionally involved in the plot line, prefers to watch the sound man scuffling with himself and taking falls for the actors because it makes the onlookers giggle. But no longer—at least on CBS's "This Is Hollywood".

Producer Frank Woodruff has now moved sound man Berne Surrey to a spot where he can be heard but not seen. Berne and his equipment have been screened from view and the listening audience will be relieved of at least part of the disturbing sounds that come from a studio attendance.

We hope this is a trend. Not that watching an ace sound man isn't a fascinating experience in itself, but the studio audience is present to help the listeners in their reactions, not mix them up emotionally.

Your Cue (Shows You May Like)

Merv Griffin

From San Francisco wafts fifteen minutes of pleasant morning music and song starring a welcome addition to the baritone ranks, Merv Griffin. Merv is a little more robust than the average swoonsation and for that reason may attract his own type of audience. In fact, in his rendition of the "Anniversary Song" he sounds almost like a young Jolson.

Music is supplied by Lyle Bardo and his orchestra, which occasionally breaks into an abridged classic for variety. Griffin includes a memory tune on each program and prefaces it with recollections of the events that were taking place at the time the tune was popular. "Penthouse Serenade,"

"Did You Ever See a Dream Walking?" and "Three Little Words" are some of the oldies but goodies that have returned for a brief melodic whirl on the show. The program is heard on KHJ at 8:45 a.m. Monday through Friday, and following it a transcribed program "Kate Smith Sings" comes on giving you altogether a half hour of pleasant lyricism with a minimum of commercials.

"Wake Up"—Evvie Scott

As one of the Southland's few feminine disc jockeys, warm-voiced Evvie Scott attractively holds her own on KMPC's daily "Wake-Up!" at the dim hour of 6:45 a.m.

You may remember Evvie not long back on KHJ's old "Rise and Shine" with guitarist Muzzy Marcellino. Now, in her own quarter-hour she's back, with her same breezy views and news, chipper and cheery in spite of the "alarm clock" time. One thing we've always liked about Evvie, too, she knows good morning music. Her choices are rhythmic without being "bang! bang!" and pleasantly sentimental without being "schmaltzy."

If you're one of those people who can't speak to a soul before ten, who snaps and snarls through breakfast, and who resents the very "ha-ha! I've been up since four myself" tone of most spinners on the early dial, you'll find Evvie's manner as soothing as a cool hand across your brow! We're lots less grouchy ourselves since we enthusiastically became fans once again!

"So Proudly We Hail"

Even if the light touch of romanticism hasn't yet colored your grapplings with American history, and your predominant associations are of heavy books reeking with endless dates and data, you still may have termed a recent "So Proudly We Hail" show as "swell".

Recently, Thomas Mitchell starred in "The Spirit of '76" as the ghost of Revolutionary War hero Paul Revere, descended from that slightly higher echelon inhabited by spirits.

Corporal John Larkin, 1944 G. I., hard at transporting dynamite to the front, was aided in his chore by this charming ghost who later informed young Larkin that in the days of the powder horn and blunderbuss, when Lexington and Concord were topics of the time, it was Grandfather Larkin's horse that Paul Revere had ridden on that memorable night. There was masterful comedy in G. I. Larkin's understandable assumption that Ghost Revere was simply a fellow G. I. whose battle fatigue resulted in his self-delusion of being the Paul Revere who had been pretty well regarded about Boston.

C. P. McGregor produces this War Department program sponsored by the Hollywood Co-ordinating Committee, and the dressed-up pitch for recruits to the service lay only in the wistful parallel on the part of the gentle ghost concerning the equipment, billeting and particularly the benefits of the Revolutionary soldiers and the G.I.'s of today.

The show was one of the most charming bits of drama and delicately handled presentations we have heard, outranking some of its pretentiously ballyhooed brothers and sisters by far. If the forthcoming "So Proudly We Hail" presentations continue in the same caliber, 4:15 p.m. on Saturdays is a very good time to tune to KFI.

"Pianists of the Future"

Like many friendly offerings from Pasadena independent KXLA, this sincere little quarter-hour daily is a small package, enclosing a diamond of unusual listening luster.

A well-chosen organ theme sets the quiet salon background, as Scotchman Bob McCune graciously steps forward as host. Thereafter follows an unhurried fifteen minutes of quality listening . . . and by that we do not mean that the keyboard entertainment is spectacular (although it usually is), but that the entire atmosphere manages to remain soft carpets and velvet, intimately restful. You'll sigh back comfortably, without fear of being clattered or chattered, before the program's barely begun.

At the Steinway are aspiring pianists from four to forty-four, no age limit considered. We happened to hear a ten-year-old boy who played a straight program of our favorites, including "Claire de Lune," with astonishing grace and lightness. Sometimes, however, three or four artists share billing at one appearance, representing a particular piano school in the Southland area. Programs are cast in this manner, in fact; by instructors who select and send their most promising material.

Due to the charm of Bob McCune, advertising messages are inoffensive and courteous, bowing themselves pleasantly in and out of the surroundings with perfect ease and poise.

Time for being entertained by the "Pianists of the Future" is any Monday through Friday early evening at 5:30. We repeat, it's on Pasadena's KXLA, which may require some wheedling on your dial, but will be thoroughly worth it!

Victor Lindlahr

For fifteen minutes a day at 9:15 a.m. what you eat is Victor Lindlahr's business—that is, if you happen to be listening to KHJ. With threats, pleading, cajoling he tries to make his audience mind their calories. In addition, with a down-to-earth appeal to his listeners' common sense, he tries to shake them out of their bad eating habits. He infers that those who say they just can't seem to learn to like a food they know is good for them, are most likely those who have taught themselves to like things like cigarettes and beer—two tastes which take a good deal of learning.

Don't live in the past as far as your diet is concerned, is another of his messages — just because you've always adored fried pork chops with the grease poured on top, don't insist that you wouldn't also like them broiled.

On each broadcast, Lindlahr includes a suggested meal and then amends it for the over-weighty.

Victor has been a radio dietician for many years, but we're reminding you of his interesting program because this week he starts his reducing party for those who think they need it. Maybe you're as thin as a Lindlahr-recommended string bean, but if you want to hear how the other half eats, tune in and listen to Lindlahr.

NEXT WEEK

Ah! Fathers, yet! Yep, they come into their own next week as Radio Life salaams in the direction of dear dad. On our cover you'll see Johnny Nelson with a twin son on each arm and inside you'll glimpse some of your favorite ether stars in their favorite real-life roles of playing (and working at) being pater.

And for the girls! Jean Sablon! Swoonez-vous when you perk an ear in Jean's direction? Then you'll love Joan Buchanan's intimate view of "The French Crosby."

When Fulton Lewis jr. and family recently visited Los Angeles, the news commentator took a whole day off to devote to sightseeing with Mrs. L. and the children. Accompanying them was a Radio Life reporter, who describes the tour as "every day being Father's Day" . . . pictures, too, taken of the Lewises at Farmers Market and other local spots.

John Storm is our mikeman of the week and "Deacon" Moore is highlighted in our music department.

Did you know that "This Is Your F.B.I." is based on actual cases from the files of the Bureau and that writer-producer Jerry Devine attended F.B.I. school for an overall course before starting the series? Read how this powerful program is put together — in next week's Radio Life.

you don't care for bridge, or if you care less what an opening bid on anything outside of an auction means, don't bother to listen to the Signal Oil Company's show, "Bridge Club".

But for those established devotees of the game or for beginners desirous of a proper and winning game, Robert Lee Johnson, most popular radio bridge authority, lines up the hands, then suggests the bids and reasons behind them. Later in the show dialers get a chance to win one of his two excellent books on better bridge.

Nightly at 10:15 KMPC presents your authority. Monday and Wednesday nights Mr. Johnson verbally deals the hands and gives the questions to be answered for the prize. Three correct out of possible four win. Tuesday and Thursday are given over to bidding and discard information, and Friday evening sees the questions by the listening audience answered. A few weeks of this and you can pull your chair up to a table of experts with nary a worry . . . at least about your bridge.

'Downtown & All Around'

Nothing is more conducive to stirring yourself out to go see your own town than hearing about it from someone who has rambled through the zoos, the cactus gardens, the museum or the parks.

Mary and Harry Hickox fog the fact that they are sponsored by and working in co-operation with the Downtown Shopping News by the very lightness and unrehearsed sound of their Monday-through-Friday four o'clocks over KFI. Resumes of their own brushings with the cinema or botanical world or even sports are as refreshing as though they were done over a steaming cup of tea. Amazingly, the five days don't seem to deplete their font of interesting places to go and people to see. One day they may have a public officer visit their home and all play a make-believe game of how to keep from having the house burglarized. Next day they may take you on a word tour of MacArthur Park or the Griffith Observatory. Or maybe they play up the old gag of "how to get into the movies" with some nonsense and lots of sense about schooling, grooming and who's who.

Probably because it is homey talk, it occasionally gets a little off the track with local jokes and ramblings, but not enough for that oh-hum feeling on the listener's part. Mary and Harry keep things going.

"Frontiers of Science"

Are you one of the group with a wee bent for the scientific tucked away in a corner of your mind? Even to the layman, information regarding the world of science as it affects us can be pretty interesting, provided it's dished out in simple terms.

11:15, as latest news from the realms of science in relation to our everyday life. That statement might turn the first-time listener's mind immediately and fancifully to visions of a better eggbeater, a quicker cold-killer, or an oilier motor oil.

But Mr. Howell's ideas run along such lines as tracing the current continental European food shortage, or the work, in all countries, of old debbil weather man, who flies the flag of no country.

Or touching lightly on atomic research by pointing out that it would expedite mass production, then paralleling with this the Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons' report that there are thirty-three viruses known as usable that could further facilitate this wholesale killing should some nation care to resort to these measures during wartime.

If you're among the first to agree that subjects like this, or questions such as whether or not the men from the Kremlin will portion out their tiny wheat supply to buy the loyalty of the world's starving are of far-reaching importance to us, listen to these pertinent factual matters discussed Tuesday nights.

If you garner your facts and viewpoints from a pet editorial column or magazine, and "science in relation to us" means to you that "better mousetrap" for immediate home use, listen anyway. We'd expected news of a new plastic gadget or kitchen aid, but wound up just as happily with this worthy and interesting fifteen minutes.

"Jobs for Juniors"

Do you need someone to tie fishing flies? . . . draw cartoons? . . . do office work? . . . file papers? . . . clerk in a pet store?

Try listening to "Jobs for Juniors", an interview show with a purpose, heard on KECA every Thursday at 6:00 p.m. The purpose is just what the name implies—to find the right job for the right young person. Students from the high schools (if they're seventeen or over) are afforded an opportunity to advertise their capacities to a large audience of prospective employers. Eight young people are heard on each broadcast and their talents and training qualify them for a great variety of tasks.

The program is presented in cooperation with the Work-Experience Section of the City Schools with Lou Cook as emcee under the direction of Rollo

by Bill Wagner

AND NOW FOR OUR RECORDED COMMERCIAL —

Hunter, production manager of KECA.

That the program is performing the task it set for itself is evidenced by the fact that an average of forty job offers are received on a show.

With summer coming on, many of these young people are looking for work to keep them busy until the school term starts again. Meet your prospective employee via radio on "Jobs for Juniors"!

Playbacks (Critical Comment)

"Pet Program"

Notes on the care and feeding of a marmoset monkey might not be a matter of major concern to you right now, but who knows . . . someone may leave one on your doorstep. Maybe you do have a fat-tummied puppy whose welfare keys your contentment.

KLAC's "The Pet Program" heard Mondays at 4:15 p.m. is dedicated to pet owners and pets of all kinds, and based on the belief that in this hurried world there is a need for information regarding them.

"Irene" and Luther Newby present data on the origin of Siamese cats, on bathing and clipping for various pets, and a few little human interest stories of dogdom and the goings on therein. It's done by means of a record which we thought the engineer hasn't yet learned to handle very well, but once he gets going it's worth hearing.

Really best feature of the show is the "Worry List." At this time anyone who has lost a pet, or desires to find a home for that extra member of the crowded household whose claim to being canine has made him expendable, can list the little friend for reward or disposal.

"For You"

"Once again time for the regular session bringing the listener music by transcription and messages of importance about the community." That's the come-on to a fifteen minutes labeled persuasively "For You" that KFI presents Saturday afternoons, at 4:00.

We sat up with some attention awaiting these messages of importance about our community. Times aren't all they could be, with strikes in the offing, the outcome of jury trials establishing civic and labor precedents, and elements good and bad (according to individual perspective) eddying about.

Of course, of no less interest to thousands within the community to whom holidays spell fun and freedom are the facts about community entertainment . . . air circuses, speed races, etc.

That's what we heard. So if you welcome the latest word in this sports-wise line-up, this show's "for you." But if you might feel taken in by the advertising, you'd better listen with only music in mind. It's good. The records touch on the popular, old and new, and you can always hear the news another time, labeled "news."

On Mike (About Studio Happenings)

A Saint Is a Saint

The late Gertrude Stein was one of those people whose endeavors supplied radio comedians who had never read anything by her with an occasional joke about what they imagined she did write. Up until last Sunday that was about Gertrude's most solid contribution to radio.

Last week, however, in the time usually allotted to the CBS Symphony, the radio premiere of her opera, "Four Saints in Three Acts," with music by Virgil Thomsen, was presented. The cast was practically the same as that which was heard during the opera's first presentation in 1934.

Most listeners, including us, probably thought that their ears were deceiving them. The words were there, but the meaning was not. The most we could reasonably hazard that we had learned from Miss Stein's libretto was that there were some saints—we weren't even sure about the four.

Curiosity led us to the public library to find some clue as to just what the "Saints" were doing in the "Three Acts." And in a book which included some of Miss Stein's more lucid prose we learned that her premise is simply that after you have said that a person is a saint, there is nothing more you can tell concerning him.

In other words, if the radio listeners who heard the opera concluded nothing more than that it was about saints being saints—they were right.

And the next time an intellectual assails radio, we're just quietly going to ask him how he liked the CBS production of "Four Saints in Three Acts." And if he finally has to admit that he missed it—we're going to explain it to him!

Daily Devotion

Maybe you who have your favorites in the music realm sometimes forget that the men who make the music go round and round may have a spot in their hearts too. Last week platter spinner Andy Mansfield broke down and admitted that he liked Monica Lewis. So over a period of three months he's sending her lovely voice listener-way at least once a day.

"Be Specific!"

Several of actor Jerry Hausner's very best chirps failed to fill the bill when he was recently auditioned for a "cricket" part on Columbia's "Baby Snooks" show. Producer Walter Bunker elaborated. The cricket had a very important part in the script, he explained, if that made any difference.

Inspired with such information, Hausner "chirped" once more. "That's it!" yelled Bunker.

"Oh well," shrugged Hausner, "why didn't you say you wanted my dramatic cricket?"

Angel's Flight

Many, many interesting and amusing things take place on the air that we are unable to hear or report. So it's nice to be able to relay to you an incident reported to us by Fanny Schulein, whom you may have already met via our "Ear Inspires the Pen" department. Miss Schulein writes: There's an old expression, "It was so quiet you could hear the angel's wings when he flew through the room." Well, the other day during Ben Alexander's "Heart's Desire," the proverbial angel flew.

Toward the end of the show Ben goes into the audience and asks a member what her heart's desire is. If her answer coincides with the object in the "Heartbox", the prize is hers. Paul Flynn, the announcer, goes into a glassed-in soundproof room and tells the listening audience what the object in question is. The other day the prize was a diamond ring, and the second lady who was asked said that her heart's desire was a diamond ring.

The very much surprised Ben Alexander asked the lady how she happened to guess, as sometimes it takes two weeks before someone hits it. A bit embarrassed, the lady confessed that when Paul Flynn told the secret over the air, she read his lips!

The show was stunned into silence by the truth. The lady got the diamond ring and the angel flew for several seconds!

Off Mike (Personalities)

Maher Home Burns

Big and little folks from all parts of Hollywood recently expressed the true "heart" of the town to radio's Wally Maher and family. Awakened by fire early one morning, Maher rushed his wife and three youngsters to the street, and there watched his lovely Burbank home burn to the ground. Hardly had the tragedy occurred before letters of sympathy, encouragement, and actual proffered aid came pouring in from every direction . . . complete contradiction to that stuff you always hear about the "hard-boiled" folks in show-business.

Jeannie Hospitalized

Radio songstress Jeannie McKeon was rushed to the California hospital Sunday night, May 25, and operated on at midnight for acute appendicitis. At last report Miss McKeon was doing well.

Stork Dept.

Veteran KFOX announcer Fred Moore was speechless when the doc said, "It's a boy!" last Saturday, May 24, at Harriman Jones Hospital in Long Beach. The arrival led the fifteen derby entrants for the day, weighing in at eight pounds nine ounces. Fred and Virginia are in throes of deciding on a name.

GAGS OF THE WEEK

Cyril Buyer Wiener, 818 South Broadway, Los Angeles 14, Calif.

Heard on the Fred Allen show:
Fred Allen: I was born in the Boston Back Bay area.

Kenny: Where's that?
Fred Allen: Well, today the bay is in front.

Mrs. George E. Redding, Box 396, Harbor City, Calif.

Heard on the Red Skelton show:
Red: And when it rains, the driver moves the bus so that the passengers have to step in the gutter.

Guest: Why does he do that?
Red: Well, the fare is so low that it is the only way the company can soak the passengers.

Mrs. C. D. McClenathen, 1217 South Highland Avenue, Los Angeles 35, Calif.

Heard on "Breakfast in Hollywood":
Corny: Why do cowboys like to die with their boots on?

Tom: I don't know, why?
Corny: Well, it must hurt their toes to kick the bucket.

Mabel Kincaid, 5523 1/2 Fulcher Avenue, No. Hollywood, Calif.

Heard on "House Party":
Art (to small boy): What do you think a doughboy is?

Boy: Oh, a guy with a lot of money.

Maurine Norsworthy, 1148 South Marianna Avenue, Los Angeles 23, Calif.

Heard on "It Pays to Be Ignorant":
Miss McConnell: I know a man who can play the piano and he doesn't have any hands.

Tom Howard: Well, how can he play the piano when he doesn't have any hands?

Miss McConnell: He plays by ear.

calculated to keep you in "Suspense," June Havoc stars as "The Stand-In."

Saturday, June 14—"This Is Hollywood," KNX, 6:00 p.m. (30 min.) "That's My Man!" stars Don Ameche and Catherine McLeod in a half-hour of light-hearted romance.

WHAT'S SPECIAL

Commentary

Monday, June 9—Victor H. Lindlahr, KHJ, 9:15 a.m. (15 min.) The renowned food and health authority begins his famous annual reducing party, the only feature of its kind in radio today. Monday through Friday series.

Sunday, June 8—"Open Forum," KMPC, 9:00 p.m. (1 hr.) Roundtable consideration of "Should candidates for president and vice-president be selected by direct primaries?"

Mrs. Thomas Harlan, 12530 Paramount Blvd., Hollywood, Calif.

Heard on "It Pays to Be Ignorant":
Tom Howard: Mr. McNaughton, is it painful to be a moron?

McNaughton: I don't know. Are you suffering much?

Mime Tonkins, 5356 Lexington Avenue, Hollywood 27, Calif.

Heard on the Dennis Day show:
Dennis (into phone): Your wife is going to have a baby and you don't know what to do? You'd better humor her, I guess, and let her have it!

Mrs. Lucile Stone, 2927 Mayfield Avenue, La Crescenta, Calif.

Heard on "Breakfast in Hollywood":
Corny: Did you hear about the baby who cried when his three-cornered pants shrank?

Tom: No, why did he cry when his three-cornered pants all shrank?
Corny: He hated to be short-changed.

Mrs. R. E. Talbot, 5716 Virginia Avenue, Hollywood 38, Calif.

Heard on "Amos 'n' Andy":
Andy: What is this lend lease they is always talkin' about?

Kingfish: Well, dat's where some country want us to lend them something and the lease we can do is let 'em have it.

Mrs. Harry Harlow, 244 South Wilton Place, Los Angeles 4, Calif.

Heard on the Judy Canova show:
Pa: Lukie, you look all wore out.

Luke: Yes, I've been sortin' 'taters all day. The good ones from the bad ones, the bad ones from the good ones.

Pa: Was it hard work?
Luke: The work wasn't so hard, but it was terrible makin' all those decisions.

Sally Darnall, 2329 Alsace Avenue, Los Angeles 16, Calif.

Heard on the Jack Benny show:
Dennis (as "Pa Kettle"): Well, gotta go home now and teach my pig how to write. All I have to do is spell the words, he's already got his pen and oink.

Cyril B. Wiener, 636 South Burnside Avenue, Los Angeles 36, Calif.

Heard on "Charlie McCarthy":
Monty Woolley: I want you to understand, when I was young I was very handsome. That's why I grew this beard.

Charlie: Well, you can come out of it now.

Mrs. Myrtle Windle, 1858 North Berendo, Los Angeles 7, Calif.

Heard on the Jack Benny show:
Dennis: My mother says she went out with you before she met my father.

Jack: What was her name then?
Dennis: I don't know, I didn't know her then.

NEW JOCKEYS

Jerry Fields has joined KGER, Long Beach, as a disc jockey . . . Recently released from the Merchant Marine Corps, this twenty-year-old platter spinner brought his own show to KGER. It's "The Hall of Records" which runs from 3 p.m. until 5 . . . He also has a one-and-a-half-hour segment in the mornings from 9:30 till 11:00.

★ ★ GABBY

The two-millionth word of the nearly eight-year-old "Blondie" show was spoken during the CBS 400th broadcast of Sunday, June 2. Reckoning reveals that the show has broadcast over 200 pounds of words in all (half-pound script each show), each word weighing .0016 ounce!

MAMA'S LITTLE MONSTER

Lurene Tuttle is taking care of her seven-year-old nephew during the summer months while his mother takes a much-needed rest. Seems the little character has a deep-seated hatred for baths and an equally deep affection for lizards. His name is Peter but Lurene calls him "Webster" because "single words can't describe him."

SMALL FRY GUY

The babbling infant which creates such a studio sensation during those CBS "Jack Carson" broadcasts is actor Jerry Hausner, an expert on portraying children. He ought to be . . . he was a baby photographer for years.

NOT YOU TOO?

Jack Webb, Mutual's "Johnny Madero," had been announcing for years, but when he walked into the office of his aunt, Fay Pattee Smith, coast traffic head for NBC in San Francisco, it was the shock of her life. It seems Jack's family, while keeping her posted on all other activities of her nephew, had neglected to mention he was in radio.

GILDERSLEEVE PEP-TALKS

Recording a series of talks to bobbysoxers, aimed at promoting safer driving in behalf of the National Safety Council, is Walter "Leroy" Tetley, of NBC's "Great Gildersleeve" show.

THE WORD

Informed by letter that his Broadway show, "Tenting
Tonight", was closing, NBC's Jackie Kelk stuffed the bad news into his back pocket just as he was called to mike for his "Aldrich Family" rehearsal. "Pardon me,
Jack", whispered Ezra
"Henry" Stone over his shoulder, "but your notice is showing."

SPECIAL PERMIT

NBC's "Duffy's Tavern" is the only legitimate tavern in the whole state of California! State law prohibits use of the word "tavern" as the title of an eating or drinking establishment. The prohibition, however, doesn't stand in the way of a "Duffy's Tavern", proudly serving the district around 2032 West 6th Street, Los Angeles. Playing "Duffy" there is owner Sam Kamboorian.

CRACK!

To be found every afternoon in his avocado grove, grimly sitting with a Winchester across his knees, is CBS "Haymes" show producer, Harry Kronman. Squirrels have been attacking the trees on his ranch in such numbers that Kronman has received special permission to knock off a few. His score: four tin cans, two neighbors' windows.

DAD'S DAY

Passing out cigars is CBS "Whistler" actor Gerald Mohr. It's a boy, weighing six pounds, one ounce at birth, and christened Anthony James.

ALL WASHED UP

Comforting words for discouraged young writers are offered by CBS "Crime Doctor" scripter-producer-director, Max Marcini. Prolific Marcini recalls that about seven years ago, before he had finished the first in a series of thirteen scripts, he asked to be released from his contract because he felt "all written out." He was, however, persuaded to try a few more — and he's been turning out the equivalent of a full-length play every three weeks since!

ALMOST A DRAW

"The most beautiful band this side of Phil Spitalny's" is the latest word attached to Victor Young's orchestra on CBS' Tony Martin show. Eight of the thirty-four musicians in the group are girls, and lovely ones at that. Likewise four of the twelve-voice chorus heard in obbligatos behind Martin and Evelyn Knight are definitely "whistle bait."

"THOSE WEBSTERS"

"Those Websters", family funfest heard on KHJ-Mutual Don Lee Sunday afternoons, received approval from two more of the nation's P.T.A. councils. California's 10th district and the Chicago P.T.A. are the latest to approve the rollicking "Websters",

BOTTLE, BOTTLE

"Blondie" (Penny Singleton) and "Dagwood" (Arthur Lake) Bumstead of the CBS "Blondie" show have been named honorary bottle collectors by the milk and beverage industries. The reason behind the personal closet, basement, garret and garage roundup of the Bumsteads is that all money received in return for wayward bottles goes to the Red Cross.

SPIRIT OF THE THING

"Who's your favorite relative?" quizzed MBS "Double Or Nothing" emcee Todd Russell of a recent contestant. Came the quick and thirsty reply . . . "Old Granddad."

RECORD NOTES TO YOU

By ANDY MANSFIELD

ALBUM OF THE WEEK

When nine of the label's Big Names contribute all-time Buddy De Sylva hits in a tribute to one of America's great songwriters, it's just GOT to be tops—and we do mean the eight-sided "Somebody Loves Me" Album featuring artists Mercer, Tilton, Russell, Cole, Whiting, Derwin, Pied Pipers, Clark Dennis and Peggy Lee, with orchestra backing by Paul Weston and Dave Barbour. Fine selection of tunes coupled with excellent artist performance easily puts this one in the Chord in G class! (Capitol Album).

SING WITH THE STARS

FOUR-STAR-RHYTHM SECTION: With four sides of the first and fourteen of the second series available, here's what the amateur singer or musician has always desired: accompaniment records. Standard pop tunes are selected for both series and played in keys suited to average voice or instrument, minus the melody . . . Full orchestra is used for the vocals, and four top jazz rhythmists (Wrightsman, Van Eps, Stephens & Fatool) for the instrumentals . . . fact is, some of the rhythm sides are good enough to stand on their own as is! . . . For singing or jamming at home, they readily fulfill their purpose three notes' worth. (Rhythm).

FATS WALLER and ORCH.

Formerly collectors' items, ten sides by Waller have been re-issued and include some of the best waxings ever made by the dusky Eighty-Eighter . . . Especially outstanding are "There'll Be Some Changes Made" and "Everybody Loves My Baby" . . . All have vocals and plenty piano by Fats to land in the three-note department. (RCA-Victor).

BING CROSBY & LIONEL HAMPTON ORCH.

If you're not a boogie woogist, better listen while Hamp plays "Pinetop's Boogie Woogie" and Bing gives a dancing lesson . . . talks, not sings—that is . . . While the reverse "Sunny Side of the Street" has Bing vocaling against Lionel's vibes and droll comments . . . Here's a BIG three-notes' worth. (Decca).

Food for Talk

feel this morning?"

"Awful," retorted Mrs. F. curtly.

We sat back and listened intently. Ad-libbing your way through thirty minutes of airtime is no simple stunt, but the Frankoviches managed it with a maximum of ease and a minimum of awkward silences and repetitions. Their cook, Olive, served them coffee as they talked, and they even managed to drink that down in between ad libs.

They talked of many things—of an item in the morning paper, the opening of the baseball season, of a movie they had seen the night before, of Mike's annoying habit of leaving his clothes strewn around the room (this from Binnie, of course). Meanwhile, Olive shepherded the Frankoviches' three lively youngsters—twins Mike and Michele, and Pete—into the carpeted hall, then, on a signal from their father they sidled shyly up to their parents' side to say brief hellos to their mother and father's radio friends.

Infrequent Appearances

"We don't like to have them on the show very much," Binnie explained to us later. "Only for a few moments once a week. Your own children always appear to you to be the brightest, cutest, most entertaining kids in the world, but other people can become darned bored by them."

As for ad-libbing a half-hour airshow five times a week, Binnie exclaimed that, although in the beginning she had sweated through just ten minutes of the show and thought that by then they must have talked overtime, the thirty minutes is gradually seeming less ominous. "You know," she told us, "in my picture work I've always been allowed to ad-lib. I would be given merely the gist of what was to be done and then could do it in my own manner of speaking. I'm much more at ease then."

We found the striking-looking Mrs. Frankovich heartily sold on radio, to the extent that she may abandon her screen career almost entirely.

"I didn't like radio at all before," she grimaced. "But now—oh, I can't get enough of it! I'd like to do another show in addition to this one! I would love it!"

Asked how the "Binnie and Mike" show came to be, the actress related: "I don't know exactly. Our friends were always remarking on our exemplary family life—we are home a lot, we don't go night-clubbing, our neighbors all know us so well and the kids are known by everyone. Anybody who sees them says, 'There's Binnie and Mike's kids,' you know. So the thought somehow grew for a radio show that would present all the little amusing and heartwarming things that are a part of everyday family life—particularly a large family. Ours is comparatively small," she smilingly observed. "I was the youngest of sixteen in our family. One of my sisters now has fourteen children and another has twelve. So," she concluded, returning to the subject at hand, "we made a sample record of this family 'Breakfast' show, and here we are."

Even while we were talking, Binnie was intent on garnering tidbits for the next day's broadcast. Mike had kissed her goodbye immediately after their sign-off to head for his office at Republic. But a few moments after his departure, the three children, who had raced out to see him off ("He has a loud exhaust on the car just for the children's amusement," grinned Binnie. "Our poor neighbors are nicely indulgent.") came racing back in with the lament, "Daddy's car won't start. Mommy, and he wants you to give him a push!"

"Now, there," announced Mrs. Frankovich, turning to us, "you see? Every morning I find myself out in the driveway heaving at the back of Mike's car. Tomorrow I'm going to talk about that at breakfast!"

AUDIENCE RESPONSE

When Frank Brock recently offered his listeners his latest work, the "Is It A Fraud" pamphlet, during Mutual-Don Lee's "Special Investigator," he underestimated his audience. Brock reports the pamphlet, listing frauds practiced on the unwary, is now going through its fourth printing.

D. C. CALLS DURANTE

Jimmy Durante may or may not reach the White House in his comic campaign for President, but his role as Treasury Department aide is an accomplished fact. With his CBS comedy partner, Garry Moore, Jimmy has transcribed a special 15-minute Savings Bond Show.

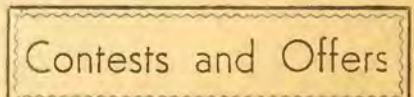

THEY'RE WITH IT

Two of radio's newest comedy stars, Donald O'Connor of the CBS "Ginny Simms Show" and Peter Lind Hayes of CBS' "Dinah Shore Show" get together in the Universal film, "Are You With It?," based on the Broadway musical hit. Picture goes into production soon.

No. 9 of a Series

Basil Ruysdael

By Robbie Cole

Believing in What He Says Plus Background of Operatic Delivery Are the Winning Combination for This Friend of Those Tobacco Auctioneers

READING a Lucky Strike commercial is as exacting . . . and as much fun . . . as singing at the Met!"

Oh, come now! But that's what the man said.

Startling words, indeed, yet they came from a man who does one, and has done the other.

Nearly all of us have heard Basil Ruysdael, during his years with the American Tobacco Company-sponsored "Hit Parade" or Jack Benny show. We've heard him tell us about those Lucky Strike cigarettes being round and firm and fully packed. Some of us may have heard him as featured bass singer with the Metropolitan Opera Company during those golden years from 1910 to 1918 when the Met was featuring such voices in its company as that of the notable Enrico Caruso.

Mr. Ruysdael is a great big man, with a humorous, kindly face and a straightforward manner. And he has the most delightful and flattering interest in other people. One has only to meet him to find himself shortly telling all about his own work, interests and pastimes. Radio Life almost fell into this attractive pitfall, but we rallied enough to pull our switch and find out a little something about this announcer. And quite an interesting array of facts turned up.

Mr. Ruysdael had mentioned the "Met," and in answer to our surprised query, "Metropolitan Opera?", he answered almost matter-of-factly.

"Oh, yes, when I was in Berlin years ago I was engaged from there to sing with them. I stayed with the Met in this country from 1910 until during World War I."

"Was Europe originally your home, then, Mr. Ruysdael?"

"Oh, no . . . I'm a New Yorker." Here he laughed. "I'm one of those 'Cornell men' you hear about. I had just been in Berlin for further musical study."

He also explained how he came to leave the Met, that greatest of opera companies, after his eight years with it.

"Nineteen eighteen was during the first World War, you know, and I joined the Marines. Well, I went back overseas with them, and it wasn't to sing, believe me. Then when we returned, and I left the service, I decided I would go into that thing called radio, so I got an announcing job at WOR."

Just that easy . . . "got an announcing job at WOR." But Basil Ruysdael had been trained according to the rigid requirements necessary to an operatic delivery, and got off on the right foot in interpreting these lines of a different nature simply by adhering to a principle of his. He still employs this principle.

Is Sold

"I won't announce any product unless I'm convinced it's the best in its line and I'm sold on it myself."

That sincerity is very real. We might have been dubious talking to anyone else, but in Ruysdael's good, basic, man-to-man way, sincerity shows up in every word.

"If you were selling soap from door to door, you wouldn't greet the housewife with a well-read babble of words concerning the soap. It's the thought behind the words that counts, and if you think it's a good product, you'll sound all right. That's why I enjoy my work so greatly . . . it just doesn't seem like work, talking about things in which you believe, to people you know will benefit by what you say."

Basil Ruysdael joined the "Hit Parade" as a regular quite by accident, thirteen years ago. He had been doing the voice of a cigarette in a commercial on the show and when an announcing spot was left open through illness on the part of the regular announcer, he took over the task. "Took over" is certainly the term. He's done their announcing since that day, with only two weeks of vacation from radio in thirteen years. That isn't exactly as confining as it may sound. The present work with the Benny show and the "Hit Parade" enable Mr. Ruysdael to commute to and from the six-passenger cabin cruiser he calls home while he is here on the coast with the shows. The big boat is anchored off Avalon, at beautiful Santa Catalina Island, and proves an ideal place for this ardent enthusiast to live.

It didn't need such a real taste of California to convert New Yorker Ruysdael, however. "I had been in California for two years around 1923, when I was engaged in instructing Lawrence Tibbett. I later announced on the same show Tibbett sang on . . . the 'Hit Parade,' you know. But knowing a little about California, wasn't I glad to get back to the coast, though! More than by your sunny clime, however, I'm impressed by you people out here. No one in

One Man's Home (Work)

Today's Disc Jockeys Are Leaders to Their Fans, but Here's What Happens When One of Them Turns "Fan" for a Favorite of His . . .

By Jane Pelgram

Monday through Saturday, 1:00-4:00 p.m.
KFWB

WE went up the hill to Bill Anson's house the other day, and had a most entertaining time. Bill, whom we met when he came here from Chicago last year, is a disc jockey at KFWB.

You probably know about disc-jockeys, and how they have disproven the old adage that "there is nothing new under the sun," by the manner in which they have risen to heights unprecedented by almost any other radio figures. From the obscurity of being the guys who swept out the studios between changing records, they have swept to a popularity now, insuring them great faithful audiences at even the most improbable hours. And all the songs, articles and stories appearing about them that depict them as a pretty glamorous bunch of boys do so with cause.

California won Bill in a contest. KFWB early sensed the phenomenal success of platter appeal as a ruse to beguile listeners with commercials. So a panel of advertisers staged a huge nation-wide audition for a top-notch with a mellifluous voice and an easy delivery. Mr. Anson, of Chicago, belonged to the voice that won the "eyes" and found himself on short notice transplanted to our sunnier clime.

Emerging victor in a contest of any sort shouldn't have been a surprise to Bill. As a teen-ager he won a scholarship to the Chicago Art Institute in a competitive commercial art exhibition. Then a submitted publicity stunt won him a good spot in the advertising game. The result of entering, as a gag, a record he made doing a series of imitations won him a place with Paul Whiteman's group, with whom he toured for a year. This taste of the entertainment world so intrigued Bill that he went into vaudeville. Stunt night participation won him a nightclub engagement, which, in turn, led to work on the stage. A year after the advent of Anson meeting radio, he found himself doing seven air shows a day and more than that each week in vaudeville.

Not Haphazard

But background has paid off, and that's why Bill's show today is just a little bit different. He's an emcee at heart, and likes people. And there's no glancing at a page of carelessly scribbled ad lib reminders, nor a casual dipping into stacks of records for any old platter his hand happens to light on. One of his delights is scouring through listings from the smaller off-label recording companies to find forgotten melodies and appealing arrangements. Then he listens to the records he chooses. Bill's own home has a special niche for his excellent collection of everything from an album of riverboat jazz to a group of Kostelanetz.

Invincible in his rank, he has established himself, through some thirty-odd thousand fan letters a week, as being enshrined firmly in the hearts of his followers. No wonder disc jockeys command plenty of respect these days! But we came across someone who bows not to any prophet of the platters. It occurred during our entertaining day at Bill's house.

The Anson home is high on a hill-top overlooking Hollywood. It's a streamlined, uncluttered place of sliding glass panels, patios and terraces, on a three-quarter acre site, and commands a magnificent view.

The day we visited, we were greeted by a tiny, fair-haired child. She was Ruthie, and qualified as being Bill's eldest by having reached the ripe old age of three. It seems that this was mother's day to shop. "Mother" is Gerry, the lovely blonde ballet dancer whom Bill persuaded to become Mrs. Anson shortly after he met her in Chicago. The Ansons' nursemaid was busy that day with the new baby, April, just six months old, and Ruthie, left to her own devices, wanted to play. "Daddy" was putty in her hands, even when "play" turned out to be a pretty big order. It seems that playing house is just impinging itself on the child's mind, so that started it. Even a network president who would order one of today's mighty knights of the turntables to sweep up would be regarded as out of his mind, but not so with little Miss Anson. A word from her sent Bill scurrying to a broom closet to don apron and man the mops.

Our pictures tell you better than any words we could employ just what went on, when one of radio's high-powered boys of that group whose opinions can either cement or undo even a record company's best efforts, fell into the right hands.

We stayed quite late to watch the fun. And do you know who had the best time of all that day? That's right. Bill Anson.

Nice to Get Up in the Morning

But It's Nicer to Lie in Bed and Listen to Two KECA Guys Who Can Start the Day Off with a Bang

By Virginia West

*Monday-Friday, 5:30 a. m.
KECA*

IT DOES something to you, we've always maintained, to get up as early in the morning as KECA's "dawn patrol", Ralph Langley and Doug McKellar. They have to rise and shine, week in and week out. But the funny thing is that in the case of these two KECA announcers who head the first shows on the station's broadcast schedule, hustling around early seems only to have given them a keen sense of humor and helped them to see the cheerful side of life.

You'll go far to find two members of radio's numerous announcing profession who have more fun at their work—Ralph Langley, who starts the day with "Morning Watch" (5:30 until 6:30 with a quarter-hour out at 6 for the news), and Doug McKellar, known to his audience as "That Feller McKellar" (6:30 until 7 a.m.). Besides enjoying their work, they radiate good fellowship to their fans, as the mail bag proves.

In a way, you might say that KECA could count these two early shows in the "public service" column, for they definitely help citizens of this area off to a more cheerful start, especially those whose pursuits make it necessary for them to be up at the crack of dawn.

Likes Change

Master of his own particular brand of zany humor, Langley says his new "Morning Watch" (recently changed from the "Musical Clock") offers him more inspiration. Think of the possibilities, he says. He's now able to watch the clock and get paid for it, watch for all kinds of new ideas to pass along to his fans, and watch for lively recordings with which to entertain the customers.

Doug, "That Feller McKellar" to you, presents a fast moving half-hour of sense and nonsense. Corny waxings and lively rhythms are features, as well as his own gems of wisdom and sage advice on such weighty subjects as how to get "junior miss" out of the bathroom so that the old man can get shaved in time to catch the 7:05, and what to do with Bobby when he uses the available supply of hot water to make a bathtub lake for his boat.

We're sure it really must be getting up at the crack of dawn which heightens the Langley and McKellar senses of humor, for the things that go on around KECA's usually business-like studios in the early morning happen at no other time in the day. On a recent morning when George Irwin arrived for his 7 o'clock newscast, he found all the studio furniture removed and a gay red hobby-horse the only available "seat" from which to read the news. It was George's birthday anniversary, and the early morning boys had to have their joke.

Then they're given to all sorts of ideas. Recently Morning Watcher Langley has been afflicted with that common ailment, the housing problem. Making conversation in front of the mike one morning, he mentioned that he'd soon be living in the back seat of his new automobile. Two days later he received a letter from one of his regular fans saying she was saving old nails for him, and since her husband works in a lumber yard, she might also be able to save him some second-hand boards! This gave Langley an idea, so he announced if his listeners would each save him a bucket of dirt, he'd soon have a lot on which to build a house—if he could find a place to put the lot!

Both Langley and McKellar bring into the fun the members of the engineering staff who turn the dials on their early shows... and listeners feel they also know the fellows behind the controls, like the two Bobs, Binkey and Besser, who twist the dials on most of the early five-a-week airings.

Helped Build Station

Ralph Langley, blond and genial, has a long record of experience in radio though at the outset, he admits, he got into the business by accident. He was working as an engineer in an eastern Arizona town, when a friend decided to build a radio station, KGLU, at Safford. Adaptable Langley, intrigued by the idea of a new field, helped in the station's construction and remained to become its program director, doubling as emcee and newscaster.

He later became announcer on KTAS, San Antonio, Texas, and on KTUG, in Tucson, Arizona. An Oregonian by birth, Ralph returned to his native Portland, where he worked on stations in the northern city, before finding his way to Hollywood and KECA.

Doug McKellar hails from the neighboring city of Pasadena, but he's been anything but a "local boy" since he reached man's estate. After attending Stanford, U.S.C., Pomona College, the University of Arizona, and the University of Hawaii, he found himself an announcing berth on KGU in Honolulu. Later returning to the mainland, he worked at KMTR and KFI-KECA. Then came the war, and Doug joined OWI over-

Men of Music--

No. 38 of a Series

Frank Holiday and Carl Mahr

FOR the past several years, variety and musical shows on the air, as well as recording companies, have in some way featured choral groups in accompaniment to their artists. On an air show they may simply provide background, they may liven up the commercials with a rollicking jingle about the sponsor's product, or they may be a featured group.

In looking into the background of one of such featured groups of vocalists, the Carl Mahr Singers, Radio Life came across a happy combination whose pooling of talent and skills has led them far. Most consistent radio listeners have heard them, over a period of years, under various names, and with groups of from three to forty members, on such topflight shows as the "Ford Hour", on which they appeared as the Landt Trio; on the old Frank Fay

An Artistic Duo Who Hold Friendship Close and Let Good Sense Rule in Place of Temperaments

By Jane Pelgram

"Tums" show as "Beverly and the Boy Friends", and more recently on the Drene and Philip Morris shows, under their present name.

The happy combination we referred to is Frank Holiday and Carl Mahr. Carl is the arranger and conductor of the group, and their meeting came about when Mr. Holiday was adding his fine tenor voice to the Ken Darby Singers on the Westinghouse show three years ago. Through illness, Ken Darby was forced to relinquish his spot, and Carl took over, using the same group. It was then he came to know this fine young tenor, the big Irish Frank. By the time Mr. Darby was able to resume his duties, Carl Mahr had so well established himself that he and Frank decided to join their talents and efforts, and branch out on their own, with Frank as manager.

Despite dissimilar backgrounds, the two get along famously and can probably be pointed out as one of the most consistently placid duos of musicians around this radio center.

Musical Heritage

Carl, smaller and blond, who benefits musically with the German heritage that gave him his blue eyes and light hair, was the son of accomplished musicians, and through his parents' interest was released from academics to benefit by private musical tutoring. Now this fine pianist and arranger of choral groups is known from coast to coast. While in the east he did arranging for such names as Andre Kostelanetz, who had the Coca-Cola show, and for Beatrice Kaye with her "Gaslight Gayeties". Boston-born Carl has been turned by time and California into a native at heart, and he is now employing every spare moment in the building of a ranch home in beautiful Simi Valley, located between Hollywood and Santa Barbara.

Carl laughed when he spoke of his work on the new home, and explained that Frank was usually on hand to help. "That man's never without a stamp or a hammer in his hand when he gets time." True. Frank is an ardent philatelist, and his stamp collection is outstanding. Time must not be plentiful for Frank with his work and his interest in Masonry, which has led him to the degree of a Royal Arch Mason.

Tenor Holiday's ability as a singer is more a natural outgrowth than a result of heavy training. Born in San Francisco, he couldn't have been more than five years old when he started piping childish melodies. "My mother used to play piano very well, and while I was so little—I could barely see the keyboard I'd insist she play the only song I knew, 'Dear Little Boy of Mine', so I could sing, loudly and not well." But much water has passed under the musical bridges since that time, and it was no child with a one-song repertoire who later sang with the San Francisco Symphony orchestra, and went on to appear on Broadway as early as 1938, and later to join the hard-to-crack eastern networks.

It seemed impossible that Carl and Frank share the same tastes and work, even to both being extravagant admirers of Bing Crosby and John Charles Thomas, with never a disagreement. When asked if differences ever arose, they answered almost as one, "Differences of opinion, certainly, but we never argue them. We sit down and discuss them casually, as though they were topics of no great importance. That way we can arrive at a conclusion of the difference with no time wasted and a clear understanding by each of what the other thinks and feels."

Carl Mahr and Frank Holiday share that rare understanding of the fact that radio is a very flexible thing, and that they must keep their medium, a choral group, abreast of the changes in all types of show. Their adaptability in their work was best evidenced by the fine showing they made on Xavier Cugat's first Hollywood Bowl concert, when they employed, arranged and conducted the use of forty voices in the Latin rhythms necessary for a Cugat performance.

We don't know what name the group will carry, possibly the "Carl Mahr Singers", but with the return of the fall shows this year, listen for some of their fine choral arrangements, and remember the two nice guys who arrange all this for you.

seas branch, and later the navy, before returning to KECA's announcing staff several months ago. Reflecting his life in Hawaii, McKellar still lists as his hobbies spear fishing, grunion-hunting and "snail-watching"—but this rugged-looking brunet young man also admits that he likes raising chickens and vegetables!

Maybe getting up early has something to do with his choice of hobbies, too, for Langley also lists fishing and working in his garden as his chief hobbies.

Robert L. Besser, "one of the Bobs" frequently at the controls when "Morning Watch" takes to the air, says that he also got into radio quite by accident (though we doubt it). He says he was going very nicely as a grocery store clerk and filling station attendant when someone gave him a crystal set! Besser studied radio, radar and television, and during the war installed radar equipment on planes at Lockheed. Before that he worked at WMT, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, his home state.

Robert A. Binkey, the "other Bob" behind KECA's early morning controls, comes from Pennsylvania. He's been interested in radio since '33, when he built his first amateur set. Since then he has worked as transmitter operator at WHJB, Greensburg, Pennsylvania, and at WCAE, Pittsburgh, and was radio and motion picture operator while in the U. S. Army.

We're not recommending that all of Los Angeles' citizenry start arising at 5:30 each morning... but if the sun shining in your window, or the birds singing outside just happen to wake you up, then we do recommend that you dial 790 for "Morning Watch" and "That Feller McKellar"... They'll help the day off to a better start!

Now, Just a Minute!

"Ozzie and Harriet" admit that their weekly CBS radio household sometimes sounds confused, but they still can't understand why the program has been named "required listening" for the University of Arizona psychology classes.

Mikemen—Basil Ruysdael

California is consumed by anxiety over themselves. They're friendly, helpful people."

Nostalgic?

Jack Benny's comedy show and the "Lucky Strike Hit Parade" in no way resemble a Metropolitan Opera Company production, and we wondered if once in a while Mr. Ruysdael didn't hark back with real longing to those old strains in the classical vein. We had recalled something humorous to him, and he laughed as he answered.

"Oh, no. I suppose I am a classicist in my musical tastes generally, but I sincerely like popular music. It offers a lot, and then too, I've worked with such wonderful people on both these shows, Benny's and the 'Parade.' And there is such freedom from strain on these programs. So when I do any reminiscing about my operatic career, it's not with longing. I am more often inclined to remember a rather frightening incident. It happened when I was singing with that grand old man, Toscanini. I didn't know at the time that he never, never gave singers a 'cue'. In my part I had to come in right in the middle of a bar of music. Well, not knowing any better, I asked Mr. Toscanini to cue me. He agreed to, finally, but I'll never forget the look he gave me. Later, when he and I became such friends, I learned what a precedent he had violated. So I guess my one claim to distinction is that I've been cued by Toscanini!"

Unless, Mr. Ruysdael, you can count having your voice recognized by millions who can almost repeat your commercial verbatim as a "claim to distinction."

"I don't think it's good when the actor has to work at concentrating on his portrayal. The only thing that is necessary is that he believe what he is speaking. If he believes in his script, then his performance can't help but be effective. That's why Elliott Lewis, for one, is so good. He believes in what he is doing."

Returning to talk of "Johnny Modero," Jack declared: "With no false modesty, the fact remains that I can't miss with 'Johnny.' The scripts are so good. I don't have to 'billboard' a single smile. 'Johnny' will never run out of 'em.'"

Questioned about his own eventual aspiration, Jack's broad grin spread across his face again. "Well," he answered with disarming earnestness, "I'd like to make a lot of dough."
