BOB'S GAG BAG

Not long ago, while making one of his usual globe-girdling tours to entertain G.I.s, Bob Hope was taken on a guided tour of an Air Force installation by the Commanding General. Bob couldn't help express his amazement at the speed with which new models of jet planes superseded one another. "How can an ordinary citizen tell these models apart?" he asked.

"If you can see them," snorted the general, "they're obsolete!"

Another time, while visiting the recruit training station in San Diego, Calif., he was accompanied by a Marine drill sergeant. As they strolled by the house of Gen. Holland M. Smith, known as "Howlin' Mad" because of his snappy temper, Bob remarked, "What a beautiful garden of roses! I'd never think that 'Howlin' Mad' would raise them."

"He's not growing 'em for the flowers," the sergeant snapped back, "but for the thorns!"

But perhaps the most memorable incident occurred in England when the heating plant in the barracks his troupe occupied failed during a cold snap. Bob promptly hailed the sergeant in charge. "You want heat?" asked the soldier. "What for? It's 50 degrees outside!" "But it's only 46 degrees in here," Bob complained.

"Well," exploded the ol' sarge, "open the windows!"

One of Bob's favorite stories concerns two G.I.s from Idaho who saw the ocean for the first time while aboard a transport headed for the Philippines. "Ever see so much water in your life," asked the first one, gaping.

"You ain't seen nothing yet," was the second G.I.'s retort. "That's just the top of it!"

Bob cherishes this newspaper advertisement of an old movie playing in a London theater: "You've seen it on TV! Now see it on a 3,000-inch screen!"

While he was lolling around the lobby of a Paris hotel, Bob idly noticed a tourist checking in at the desk clerk: "What time are meals served?"

"Breakfast is from 7:30 to 11; lunch is from 12 to 3:30, tea from 4 to 5, and dinner from 5:30 to 9:30."

The tourist's face fell in disappointment. "Shucks, that doesn't leave much time for sightseeing, does it?"

Over the years, Bob has had many unusual requests for his autograph, but the oddest came from a frantic bobby-soxer, who, on thrusting her book in front of him, said, "It doesn't matter where you write it, Mr. Hope. I copy all my autographs over anyhow alphabetically in my scrapbook!"
