

Old Country Club

1890-1900

The Old Country Club was founded in 1890 by a group of men who were interested in the game of golf. They had heard that the game was popular in Scotland and they wanted to have a place where they could play in America. They found a piece of land in the town of Old Country and they built a golf course. The golf course was very small at first, but it grew as more people came to play. The men who founded the club were very rich and they wanted to have a place where they could play with their friends. They also wanted to have a place where they could play with their children. The club was very successful and it became one of the most famous golf clubs in America. The club was built on a hill and it had a very beautiful view of the town and the ocean. The club was very expensive to join and only rich people could afford to join. The club was very exclusive and it was not open to everyone. The club was very old and it had a very long history.
