OH, SADLY THE CUCKOO IS CALLING NOW"

AND now, children—as Mrs. Pennyfeather might say—let us all gently go crazy together. Y-e-e-e-s! Because Raymond Knight and his Cuckoos are back to jitter through your loudspeaker—WITH Mrs. Pennyfeather, over an NBC network on Wednesday nights.

Thousands of listeners have missed the Cuckoo—radio's goofiest bird—during her absence of some months from the ether-tree. What you didn't know is that she was away sitting on some eggs, bless her! And now they are hatched—a brand new family, just a little loonier than her old brood!

Introducing this new flock of little Cuckoos is, of course, Raymond Knight. That young man is actually one of the wisest birds in the radio business. When he signed up his Cuckoos with an important sponsor, he performed a feat that few radio artists have been able to do; i. e., selling a feature that has been on the air for a long time in the column of sustaining shows.

But perhaps the sponsor is a wise bird, too, because he bought an act with a "ready made" following instead of trying to present some brand new, untried program. For the mental wanderings of Mrs. George T. Pennyfeather and the sour notes of Maestro Armbruster's Symphonic Orchestra have delighted countless radio fans everywhere.

One of Ray's new Cuckoo-lets is an extremely clever method of inserting advertising painlessly into the patter. This is done by introducing, into the cast, the firm of Button, Button, Hoosgotta, Button and Smith—who play the part of publicity agents for the sponsor.

By his invention of these characters, Ray Knight makes a rib-tickling game of the usually sober business of advertising over the air; the "publicity firm" continually tries to sneak bits of advertising into the program, and Ray attempts in vain to prevent them.

Incidentally, the members of the button-button-who's-got-a-button firm are all singers, who also perform on this program as the Sparklers Quartet. They have been appearing for some time with Bob Armbruster. The tenors are Carl Mathieu and Walter Scanlon, and the basses are Paul Parks and James Stanley. They not only sing well, but are versatile actors, as they prove in their advertising stunt.

In past years Mary McCoy and Jack Arthur have been using only half their voices—the talking half—on the Cuckoo Hour. Now they will sing as well as act. The assisting orchestra under Bob Armbruster features extremely smart and sophisticated arrangements. Where they used to play just the sour notes of the Cuckoo, they now play either sweet or sour, depending upon whether Bob says "rhythm" or "rib 'em."

WAVE MARKS

Curtain. Deepest sympathy goes to Jimmy Durante. While in the midst of preparations for his first broadcast in place of Eddie Cantor on the Sunday night program, he was called to the bedside of his brother, Al who died shortly after the comic arrived at the Polyclinic Hospital in New York. Al was a member of the police force for 25 years, and closely resembled Jimmy.

Signed On. Toots married Kaspar last week, and Kate Smith was maid of honor, when Lillian "Toots" Chudnuff and Kaspar Marcowitz, bull fiddler in Kate's orchestra, wed at Fort Worth, Texas.

Signals. A new show is coming up, mamma'd by Margaret Morton McKay and Lucille Fisher, papa'd by Jimmy Whipple, producer. It is now being auditioned commercially; its title, "The Sob Sisters."

Meter. Patricia Ann Manners, the former Gwen of "Myrt and Marge," and now with Musical Tintypes over WENR, recently took an annual bow to time the greater unseen audience. One pound of sauerkraut to the first listener writing to ask "How old is Ann?"

Meter. Station, like people, have birthdays. KHJ of Los Angeles, didn't find it unlucky to celebrate a twelfth birthday with an all-star CBS program this past Friday 13.

Meter. Bill Porterfield, of NBC's Galaxy of Stars Program, was the star of the birthday party on April 15.

Meter. Betty Barthen, CBS vocalist, sang her own personal old year out new year in on April 16.

Meter. Howard Clancy, announcer with Paul Whiteman's cheese program, added a year on April 17.

Meter. Benny Meroff had a birthday on April 19, while bandleading through the Eastern States. Benny recently finished theater bookings in the South.

AN HOUR AHEAD

This department is devoted to the service of all listeners, radio executives and sponsors eager to keep in touch with programs in the making—ANY hour ahead.

FLOYD GIBBONS returns to Johns-Manville, his old sponsor, on May 12. Jane Cowl will appear in an elaborate presentation of a portion of "Smiling Through" on the Fanny Theater May 6 when it is changed to a full hall hour. Joe Cook who made a guest appearance on the WEAH House Party program Saturday night, is waiting to learn how the sponsor liked his work, for if it clicked Cook becomes a permanent fixture with a new show built around his comic routine. The shaving cream sponsor has found that his programs have not been clicking since Singing Sam went off, with the result that the musical farmer will return to the air in the fall. Jack Denny opens on the roof of the Pierre on May 3. Joan Crawford and Franchot Tone will go radio after all, with an appearance on the Hall of Fame program May 6. Two radio sponsors are seeking to coax Thomas Meighan, star of the screen, to the air waves.

YOUR GROUCH BOX

GROUCHES are the pedestals on which mighty columns have been raised. Discontent is frequently the goad to better things.

Your pet peeve over some radio roughness may inspire the discovery of a formula for better radio generally.

Leibnitz, great German scientist, assured mankind that "evil has been permitted for the sake of greater good."

The evils that present-day broadcasters unintentionally do, will not persist if you will do your part.

Don't keep your radio grouches to yourself. Send them to "Your Grouch Box." By helpful criticism you will do much to turn faults into the greater good of improved programs and increased listener-enjoyment.

Radio Guide's Editorial Offices Now in New York

The editorial offices of RADIO GUIDE have been transferred and are now established at 551 Fifth Avenue, New York City. The executive and circulation offices remain at 423 Plymouth Court, Chicago, Illinois.

Here is one listener's thoughtful attempt to improve the Amos 'n' Andy programs.

Do you agree—or can you suggest improvements in any other programs?

Dear Editor: I want to protest at the "Amos 'n' Andy" broadcasts. I am not colored but they are a libel on the colored people who, as a race, are kind, considerate, generous and hard workers.

Amos and Andy, untrue to life, are always trying to cheat and get something for nothing. Andy is lazy and a fool. The Kingfish is a cheat and a crook.

When the President and most of the leaders are trying to get the American people to be honest, considerate, truthful and go to work, these broadcasts put a premium on lies, laziness, cheating, et cetera, and call it funny.

Such a program reflects on the goods it advertises, and makes one think they are no good, and frauds. I would never use any of these products, and do all in my power to keep others from doing so.

Give Amos and Andy a hint to revamp their ideas, change their thought and words, and become constructive, not destructive. J. F. W. J.

Dear Editor: The only grouch I've got against radio is that my local station gives time-signals with a lot of beats and pauses, instead of simply announcing the time. J. K.

Have you a grouch? Can you express it in few words, and is it likely to help do away with some radio annoyance?

If so, send it to Your Grouch Box, in care of RADIO GUIDE, 423 Plymouth Court, Chicago, Illinois.

The Fascinating Romance of AL JOLSON and RUBY KEELER

FIRST OF THE THRILLING SERIES:
GREAT LOVES OF RADIO STARS

The preceding two chapters have set forth how Al Jolson, superstar of the air, screen and stage, twice married and twice divorced, "led up" on Broadway and romance, met and won and married Ruby Keeler, the little "Texas" Guinan tap-dancer—

How his sensational announcement brought an aftermath of threats against his very life because a glamorous playboy who had been fond of Ruby, had friends who resented Jolson's intrusion into what promised to be a perfect Broadway match; and how the gallant young man not only stepped aside, but stopped all such perilous interference and gave the happy pair his hearty felicitations before and after a midnight elopement and a secret getaway on an ocean honeymoon.

This chapter relates the life of Ruby and Al after their honeymoon, when perhaps they were the only two people on earth who thought they had a chance to be happy—and even they weren't so sure—but—

Here it is:

By Henry Bentinck

BROADWAY, which had unanimously prophesied quick and dire disaster as the logical backfire of the marriage of Al Jolson and Ruby Keeler, a matrimonial team-up which brazenly challenged about every fixed rule of the ages in such matters, shrugged and said, "I told you so," a week after the Jolsons returned from their European honeymoon.

For the bridegroom hopped off for Hollywood to make a picture, and Ruby—the bride—the $1,000,000 bride who has so blithely fore-sworn her famous tap-dancing career "forever" to be the wife of the idolized super star—what was the reason Ruby didn't go West?

Ruby was staying in New York to rehearse in "Whoopee" for Ziegfeld—in support of Al's nearest rival, Eddie Cantor!

So, this was how she was going to leave everything behind her except her love for Al! So, this was what it all meant to her!

Surely she didn't need the money. Al had settled the round million on the penniless night club cutie; his earning capacity was almost anything he chose to make it; her future was to be embraced entirely in his life and love—and here she was letting him put 3,000 miles between them at this stage of their marriage, so she could go back into "show business."

The Broadway crowd had seen such occurrences many times and had learned to anticipate their consequences.

Ruby let them sizzle a few weeks. Then she suddenly let it be known that she had thrown up her contract. She said she wasn't going to open in "Whoopee"—and she didn't. She took a nonstop plane for Hollywood and Al.

The profession and the nightlife seethed with rumors. Reports were current that Ruby was making the trip to effect a "separation settlement"—maybe even a divorce.

Jolson met his bride at the Glendale, California, airport and, with radiant face, blasted such rumors as he held Ruby in his arms where everyone could see. He said:

"We're just hopelessly old-fashioned. I'm in love with my wife and she's here to tell the world she's in love with me. My theme song is 'Rainbow 'Round My Shoulder.' How can I have a rainbow 'round my shoulder if my rainbow is in New York and my shoulder is in Hollywood?"

One of the reporters chanced suggesting that rainbows come after storms—was this one of those rainbows?

"Nothing like it," chirped Ruby. "The way you see us now—we've never been less friendly since we said 'I do!'"

Broadway was still unconvinced. Such gestures were not uncommon, and frequently they were theatrical hokey for the ballyhoo. Filmfans are supposed to want their comedians "wholesome" in their domestic matters, and the romantic aura over Jolson since his widely reported romance with the gorgeous child lily of the night morasses had a definite value at the box office.

Ruby had said she was out to make stardom. What had changed her mind so quickly after she had changed it in the first place after she had said she had no further stage ambitions? Only a few days before she suddenly had handed back her small "Whoopee" part, she had said: "When a man marries a performer he must expect her career to come first and her marriage to come second."

One day nothing under the big, blue dome could

Ruby Keeler Jolson as she looked when she stepped from the plane that transported her across the continent, dispelling rumors of a rift—and Al Jolson's pose that he struck to fence off inquisitive reporters after his temporary separation from Ruby have dragged her from her beloved stage, and next day the pleadings of Ziegfeld, Cantor and her urge for attainment couldn't hold her to it.

Actually, it was just then that the Jolson-Keeler marriage was riding the troughs and the breakers through its most grueling test.

The truth of what happened, now revealed for the first time, is this:

Ruby, in New York, heard (whether maliciously mischievous, irresponsibly exaggerated or remotely founded, that Al was being seen frequently with his former wife, his second, the beautiful brunette Alma Osborne, professionally known as Ethel Delmar.

He had been divorced two years previously from Alma, and everyone knew that they had parted pals, if not still tied by more sentimental strings.

On their honeymoon, Al and Ruby had demonstrated to each other that they were both highstrung. The pampered star naturally was exacting and set in his ways and opinions; the charmingly amiable Ruby, now Mrs. Al Jolson, rich and suddenly far from the years through which she had toiled in the smoke and fumes of cafes in the Prohibition era, had bobbed up with a will of her own, too.

Jolson, like any sane person familiar with the primary proverbs of life among the showfolk, feared having two careers in one household. He had been quoted to that effect often. Ruby thought he didn't have any confidence in her campaign to reach the heights of the art in which he had made his way to the peak.

The long-distance wires burned and bristled.

But, what gave the decisive solution to it all was that Al really was tremendously in love with Ruby—and Ruby was as completely (Continued on Page 34)

Why We Must Dress for Radio

Annette Hanshaw shown at the closet that holds some of her wardrobe. Note the variety in color and design of the dresses that hang—as necessary as that she be in good voice when she broadcasts, she says

SO you think clothes don't make any difference in radio, do you? You imagine radio stars wear any old thing and get away with it because most of their audience doesn't see them? Well, pretty Annette Hanshaw disagrees. And the little girl with the big blues voice ought to know.

Wearing a filmy negligee of shell pink, the attractive vocalist sat curled up on a chaise lounge in her apartment. She looked for all the world like a Watteau painting, except that she pouted. Annette had just returned from an arduous shopping tour. And she gave her views on clothes with ready, decisive voice.

"Indeed we do need plenty of clothes!" she exclaimed. "The sales-girl in the shop I just left stared when I bought three dresses at one time. She couldn't understand why a radio singer should possibly need as many clothes as I buy. And I've discovered that the average person seems to be under the impression that we ladies of the air lanes never have to give a thought to clothes. I should smile!" She did. "They'd be surprised to learn that clothes mean more in radio than on the stage."

Little Miss Hanshaw went on to explain this apparent phenomenon: "On the stage," she said, "you'll find that actresses have one set of costumes that the play calls for. Outside of that, they need only such clothes as they require in regular everyday life. But in radio—why, you can never have too many clothes! In these days of studio audiences, you don't feel right unless you wear a different gown for every broadcast. Even if the audience is a different one, you don't feel right. Women will understand that."

"But there are a lot of other considerations. We have to think of all the additional gowns, afternoon dresses, and sports things that are really necessary for appearances here and there. We have to think of clothes that will wear well in the hustle and bustle of rehearsals, and of vaudeville tours that come our way every so often. And these clothes must not only wear well—they must look well, too. It's amazing to learn what a sizeable section of salary the average girl in radio has to spend for clothes."

Superstitious about clothes? Most show people are. Annette is no exception.

"When I have some fortunate experience or success while wearing a gown or a dress, I keep it, even after its days of usefulness have passed. I feel that just having it will bring me good luck. On the other hand, an unpleasant experience while wearing a particular dress means I won't wear it again. I don't even like to give it away for fear that I'll be bringing someone else bad luck. So here's the result . . ."

And with that she opened one huge closet after another to display long rows upon rows of dresses.

"Some of these clothes haven't been worn in ages," she sighed. Annette believes that colors exert a definite influence on her moods.

"Green, orange or tan always depress me," she confessed. She finds her new deal in blue. "Look at all those blue dresses! I always seem able to work better when I'm in blue. And I feel much better, too."

A further inspection revealed the evidence. There were closets crammed with dresses of every conceivable shade of blue. The colors ranged from the faintest of baby blue to the deepest shade of midnight blue.

Her own favorite, and the shade which predominated in the wardrobe, naturally, is a corn flower blue.

Maybe Annette Hanshaw prefers the color because she herself twinkles in the heavens of blues singers. Tune in on a WEA-F-NBC network some Thursday night and you'll see! But maybe you could say that it is only because in the spring a young lady's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of clothes.

RUBINOFF'S GRIEF: KEEPING BOOKS ON MUSIC

By Rubinoff

THOSE who listen to my Sunday night broadcast with Eddie Cantor are often under the impression, I have found, that the musical numbers we use are selected at random. Certainly they can have no idea of the thought and care that goes into the selection and preparation of the material. I am writing this to clear up the questions.

Our office uses an elaborate filing system which contains every musical number ever published. The most popular numbers are determined by sheet music, best seller lists and jobbing house records. Our piano music is placed in folders and classified according to tempo under the headings: "slow," "medium," "bounce," and "lively."

Every continuity is kept on file. Every arrangement in our library is classified according to type, whether it is a standard classical, popular, solo or novelty number. Each number is recorded and listed alphabetically and numerically.

In addition to the professional air check records always made of each number during broadcasts, I have my own recording machine. Rehearsals are put on records. I take home and study these records made at rehearsals; often I play them for the boys before we go on the air, to point out obscure errors to be avoided during the broadcast.

I find these records most valuable in my work. If a musician denies having made an error, the record can be brought out and guilt or innocence established.

In working with arrangers, we first discuss treatment for the numbers. A number most suitable for strings, needs one type of treatment. We must decide just how the brass should enter and when woodwinds should blend. I pay great attention to intonation, precision and balance. My orchestra may use an arrangement identical with that of another group, but our rendition is distinctive in these three points.

I discovered recently that a separate microphone for my violin solos gives the best results, and if I am too loud and don't catch the red light signal from the control man, he can cut down my volume without softening the orchestral background.

During my broadcasts in Hollywood, where the studio facilities were not so adequate as those in New York, I had to use the same microphone as the other performers. I devised a signal system of four electric bulbs—white, amber, red and green. The green light meant smooth going; the red, that my violin was too loud; the amber, that the orchestra was too loud; and the white told me to step back from the microphone.

Now then, if you think selections of musical numbers are made at random, maybe this will change your conception.

COLORED EVANGELS and WHITE CONVERTS

The Elder himself exhorts in a manner that is time-honored, clarifying his expoundings with neat metaphor, pointing them with concrete illustration. But his ever-ready catch phrases are new. They borrow from the modern vernacular, they translate the principles of his faith into the all too familiar terms of the stock market, the divorce court, the factory. Heaven is a celestial government. God is President, Christ the Son is treasurer, laying up treasures for every believer in his future home. "And God the Father, my precious ones, is on the Gold Standard! He ain't handlin' out no 60-cent dollar. God always gives out 100-cent dollars. Yessir, praise be!"

Fervent response. "Yeah man!" "Hallelujah!" It's the old time religion. But it's on the air! Seen close at hand, the Church of God can be regarded as even more the modern marvel. It is a plain, white building, almost new, standing sedately at Georgia Av-

Note the charge, the peremptory command, in Elder Michaux' attitude, in the picture on the left. He was photographed as he charged the devil to run and (below) as he exhorted his hearers to observe the tenets of the Bible enue and U. Street in Washington. But across its bare front is the glare of an electric sign advertising its name. A smaller lighted sign over the door enjoins the throngs that enter there to "Keep Your Lamp Trimmed and Burning."

And the throngs that enter? White men, even more of them than members of Elder Michaux's own race—lone pilgrims humbly approaching on foot—noisy groups descending from the specially chartered busses in which they have traveled halfway across the continent to reach this goal—the aristocracy of Washington stepping from private limousines and taxicabs. They crowd the tiny vestibule. They surge down the narrow aisles. They battle for seats. More than once fire and police reserves have been called out to handle those crowds.

On the narrow platform up front, separated by a railing from the foremost row of the "Mourners' Benches," and set with three elaborate plush chairs, appear two brethren in full evening regalia. Ceremoniously they take their places at either side of the platform. The service is on. Into the stalls immediately behind descends the choir, some twenty women in grey robes, followed, much to the observer's astonishment, by two men. The harpist tightens a string or two. The guitarist plucks a preparatory measure. The organ booms forth "Happy Am I . . . happy . . ."

It is a varied program, an elaborate one, compounded of song and prayer, of exhortation and testimonial, lightened by ripples of laughter, punctuated by ardent individual response, sweetened by tears, rocked by emotions unleashed. Mary Michaux takes part in it. She is the Elder's wife, and mother of his three sons. On their twenty-seventh anniversary, which came early this spring, he paid her tribute: "I thank God I love a godly woman. How do you hold on so long, I've been asked. That's easy, my precious ones, easy! Just love your wife like you did bee-fere you were married. And always love a good woman, 'cause if she ever gets bad on your hands, God help you, brother!"

"Ain't dat so!" "You said it, brother!" The crowd loves their leader for this sort of thing—loves him, and takes his words to their hearts.

Mary Michaux sings in a gentle, slightly husky voice. She also preaches now and then. Here is a winning personality, a ready wit, and the sublime knack of translating theological abstractions into homely and telling phraseology.

The trio sings, ending their spirituals with a flourish of mouth-organ music. A quartet appears. Two of its members trip and nudge each other in true vaudeville style.

The dignitaries in evening dress raise their hands. Time for testimonials. A stir, a sigh, a dozen people are on their feet. White people among them, as eager as their darker brothers, push and stumble to be first in proclaiming the joys of salvation. A colored girl sobs out a hectic tale of betrayal, despair and final rebirth in the Christ. "You tell 'em, sister!" "Praise the Lord!" Then come sighs of sympathy, shouts of encouragement, common tears. A wizened old man cries his glad faith in the life hereafter.

Somewhere a song arises. It is a hymn familiar to every Sunday School scholar, anywhere in Christianity. But the rhythm is unfamiliar, a syncopated beat that carries the singer along with it, that unlocks lips, sets shoulders to swaying. Once, when the Elder was holding services in a building not his own, authorities requested him to omit further singing from his program. They were afraid that the massed motion of bodies swaying in time to music might weaken the understructure and bring down the crowded balconies.

To their accompaniment of song and prayer and shouting the testimonials go on. A slender white man, his silver goatee quivering with his agitation, testifies in a marked Southern drawl to his debt to Elder Michaux. Song crowds in upon (Continued on Page 34)

A HUNDRED years ahead of his time? Elder Michaux, colored evangelist of radio's Church of God, believes he is. Some may contend he is as many ages behind.

Yet it is today that has acclaimed him. In the weary, disillusioned heart of today the curious combination of old-time religion, modern jazz and optimism for the future that emanates from the banks of the Potomac every Saturday night over a Columbia network, has struck a responding chord. Its appeal transcends race and creed, even time!

Elder Michaux has a theme song, "Happy Am I!" A novel way of opening a church service, singing that! The words are his own. The tune is a captivating rhythm that catches its breath and swoops and sways in a manner shockingly reminiscent of the dance hall. It was written during a revival meeting, while outside the huge Griffith Stadium in Washington a thousand people stood in patient discomfort in a drizzling rain, vainly waiting to get in. Inside was being expressed the peculiar brand of happiness that is Elder Michaux's. He dedicated his new song to President Roosevelt and sent the first copy posthaste to the White House direct from the stadium.

"Happy Am I." Lustily proclaimed by hundreds of enthusiastic voices, it catches at the heart and urges tired feet into ecstatic motion. The words carry conviction. They symbolize, perhaps, a crying need of the day, and so reveal the secret of the marvel that is Elder Michaux.

For a marvel he is—a personality to weld alien and contrasting elements into a whole that is as significant as it is preposterous, and of enormous appeal. In the Church of God "Beulah Land" is syncopated until it is as new as today, yet as old as tribal ceremonials in darkest Africa. A full-toned choir expends the best of modern training on wistfully melodious Negro classics through which surges the beat of tom-toms. A harp complements the organ on one side, a guitar on the other. A harmony trio sandwiches spirituals with imitations of musical instruments, bird calls and mouth-organ virtuosity. A fervent "Amen" from one corner is followed by an equally fervent "Ha-cha" from another!

ALONG THE AIRIALTO

By Martin Lewis

SINCE the memorable meeting of the radio comedians at the Algonquin to discuss the pros and cons of the studio audience (aside to Jay Faggen: You remember that meeting, don't you, Jay? And your $45?) I have been thinking the matter over, and I've arrived at the conclusion that the comics, perhaps, were talking out of turn.

I mean by that it was sort of silly for the comics to be affected by Eddie Cantor, Ed Wynn, et al., or would you rather listen to your favorite giggle-provoker without benefit of intermittent cheers? Write and tell me, and I'll print the result. Address your letters or cards to me at 551 Fifth Avenue, New York City. Sorry I can't invite you all to lunch, and talk it over there, but then—I'm no Jay Faggen.

HERE'S A tip for a prospective radio sponsor. Richard Bennett, veteran of the legitimate stage, is preparing a series

A photograph that shows news of the "man bites dog" variety—Jimmy Durante playing Rubinoff's Strad, while the maestro looks on in amusement talk to one another about studio audiences. The matter of studio audiences ought to be up to the vast majority of radio listeners whose enjoyment of their loudspeaker fare is most affected one way or the other by the applause or lack of it that trickles through their loudspeaker.

After all, when you come right down to it, studio audiences themselves form a very tiny minority of the countless thousands who listen to the radio comics. For every individual member of the audience present in the studios, there are perhaps one hundred thousand sitting in their homes from Maine to California, tuning in. So suppose the individual members of the studio audience voted in favor of the studio audience, and the one hundred thousand others voted against. Figure out for yourself who wins that election.

And as for the comic himself—he should not even have a vote. It is not up to him to say whether there shall be a studio audience. It is merely up to him to please the greatest number. That's what his sponsor is paying him for.

I take it that you, who are reading this, are a listener. What do you think? Let's take a vote on it right here. Would you as a listener prefer a studio audience, with its attendant applause, provoked to a great degree, remember, by such trick costumes as those affect of air scripts, in each of which he plans to portray some different famous character. So far, he has made no effort to sell the idea to either of the networks, or to any advertising agency, but when he completes the scripts, he will seek to market them.

However, if any sponsor, seeking to bring to radio a brand new and a great name from the stage, is interested, he may communicate with Bennett's son-in-law, none other than Morton Downey, in care of Columbia Broadcasting System.

Bennett, following in the footsteps of his distinguished son-in-law, will bring to radio all the artistry of character portrayal he has accumulated during his years of stage experience, and according to those who have seen some of the scripts in his series already completed, he has struck upon a novel idea for their presentation which should make the Bennett program, when and if it hits the airways, one of radio's most outstanding.

Vallee Learns to Gag

THE MORE I WATCH Rudy Vallee perform, the more I get to like him and admire his showmanship. Dropping into the Hollywood Restaurant where he performs nightly, I arrived just in time to hear him introduce his protegee, Eddie Peabody. The Banjo King does his stuff and after the ovation he thanks the diners and tells them how grateful he is for their generous response. He further adds modestly, that he was somewhat of a success on the coast, so much in fact, it was funny—they didn't want him to leave there. At this point Rudy chirps in, "There's nothing funny about that, they didn't want me to leave there either." The audience howls—after a few seconds of silence—Peabody says, "Just skip it," and the orchestra in unison shout, "He did." The laughter subsides many minutes later.

If you're interested in who Vallee's favorite vocalist is, let me tell you it's none other than Bing Crosby—Rudy says so himself when he introduces "Love Thy Neighbor," the hit tune Bing sings in his new picture, "We're Not Dressing," and if you're also interested in knowing what Vallee is going to do for the next year, let me tell you that he closes at the Hollywood on May 20. He then will vacation at his lodge up in Maine and from June 30 until Labor Day he and his orchestra will make the music and entertain the customers at the Pavilion Royal on Long Island, the same spot Guy Lombardo occupied last summer. For the fall and winter of 1934-35 Vallee will be back in the Hollywood.

First Hand Information

WHEN YOU WRITE a column, you become so accustomed to having press agents palm off a lot of O. Henry's masterpieces on you with the names of their clients substituted for the original characters that you develop an unfortunate habit of saying, "Oh, yeah?" to practically everything anyone tells you.

So was I skeptical about the little tale I am about to relate, until I checked up on it, and found (get this, Ripley) that it was true.

When Enric Madriguera, who is now playing at the Waldorf, first came to New York, he gave a concert at one of the larger auditoriums. One afternoon, walking down Fifth Avenue, Leon Belasco, maestro at the swanky St. Moritz, saw displayed in a store window an elaborate poster announcing Madriguera's debut.

He stopped to read it. By his side stood another man, his eyes intent on the same poster.

"Who is this Madriguera?" Belasco asked the man.

"Oh, Madriguera!" the other responded enthusiastically. "He is marvelous! Wonderful! Why he's another Whiteman!"

"What do you mean another Whiteman?" Belasco demanded. "How do you know he's so good, anyhow?"

"Well, you see," was the response, "I am Madriguera."

EDDIE DUCHIN was recently visited by a friend who just arrived from the coast. "How would you like to play at the Ambassador Hotel, in Los Angeles this summer?" he asked. "I know the manager of the hotel and I think I can arrange it."

"Nothing doing," replied the piano-tickling bandman, "the only place I'd like to play in Los Angeles is the Coconut Grove." The friend almost choked on the sandwich he was eating, and did Eddie's face turn crimson when he learned that the Coconut Grove is in the Ambassador Hotel! (Continued on Page 31)

Seeking a Radio Czar

REVIEWING RADIO

By Martin Porter

I HAVE come to the conclusion that what radio needs is a good five-sense czar!

One of his first duties would not be that of dictator, but that of a joke-dater.

If I were to be allowed to stooze a couple of days for him, one of the first things I'd do would be to prepare a list of helpful hints.

I would hint, first of all, that the passion of sponsors for dramatizing their commercial plugs is a pain

Judy Talbot shows that she can wear clothes as well as she can deliver a blues song. Judy's not yet out of her teens—and her photograph proves it in the neck. It's not good entertainment to dramatize tummy-aches and stained teeth. But if the sponsors kept on insisting on dramatizing, or making little sketches out of body-odors, athlete's foot, and the little unpleasanties that laxatives fix, then I would insist that the dramatizations be carried to their logical climax. I would demand that even the station-breaks be made histrionic.

Instead of just plain chimes and the mere announcement that "This is Station W-Something-or-Other," I would make real miniature dramas out of such events.

When the chimes rang, I would have a cast ready: There would be:

A husband;
A wife;
An announcer.
When the musical note died away, the scene would open thus:

Husband: "Z-z-z-sss-z-z!" (Indicating a heavy snore.)

Wife: "Ahem, John! JOHN! Wake up. You can sit up now, and listen. That terrible comedian has just gone off the air. The next broadcast is musical.

Husband: "Gluk! Er—ah (yawns!) Plub—Oh, is that guy off at last? Thanks, dear, for waking me."

Announcer: "This is W-F-O-G, folks, the station with the knock-kneed action wheels—New York."

And, then, the next show would go on.

Isn't that cute?

Next on the list, I would do a good turn to the sponsors. They are allowed at present only one minute in fifteen to tell about their products. I would get around this for them by importing a number of Swiss Alps echoes. Then the commercial announcer would have to mention the product only once. The echoes would take it up, and keep tossing the name around.

Augmenting the Mob

My third recommendation would be a sort of lift to the NRA. It would be in the interest of re-employment. I would urge a rule which would dispose of most of the mechanical sound effects, and demand that manpower be used instead. I would urge a rule placing a minimum on mob scenes and choruses. No mob would be legal in a drama or musical comedy if it numbered less than four persons. Three is a crowd, but it takes an extra one to make up a mob. No chorus would be allowed to sing unless it was big enough to get away from the title of octet.

I would do a good turn for those many old-timers, who helped build up radio, but who are now pathetic figures, haunting the booking offices. I would schedule on each network, a weekly full hour program, in which all the pioneers would have their showing.

The next rule would be a limitation on the use of tag lines by comedians. Joe Penner would be restricted on "Nasty Man" and the Duck, to fortnightly usage. Ed Wynin would be asked to drop his "So—oo—O!" which doesn't get laughs any more. Jack Benny would be forbidden to say "folks" more than once a night.

The very next thing on the list would be a regulation by which no announcers would be needed at remote broadcasts by dance bands. If bandleaders didn't know enough to talk about their own musical selections, then they'd have to do without the wordage.

And, before I forgot it, I would make it mandatory for columnists and press agents to limit themselves to short-raves!

I would then rechristen Fred Allen, and call him "Ol' Man Ribber," because "he just keeps drawlin' along!"

The first press-agent who put the word "flash" above an item sent in to me for publication, would be arrested and charged, along with other cheap echoes, of stealing Winchell's stuff.

In view of the fact that John Royal, in charge of NBC programs has ruled that no song can be played more than once a night, I would hasten to apply that same rule to comedians' jokes, even though it would practically paralyze the comedy shows.

For the good of everybody involved, I would re-

Tom Shirley, the announcer, showing that no chance is too great for him in relaying news. He is 35 stories above the street, broadcasting a description of Chicago quire press agents and radio columnists to change places every six months—and let the squawks and the plugs fall where they will.

I would get up a petition, then, and send it to the Income Tax Department, asking permission to publish the exact salaries earned by the great radio artists—and, then, call out the riot squads to control the battle that would start among the temperamental performers.

And, lastly, before presenting this list of hints to the five-sense czar, I would put the touch on him for railroad fare—so I could leave town!

By Irene Rich

I HAVE had the most flattering letters from fans who saw me first on the stage or screen, and more recently in my NBC radio series, asking me if there wasn't some favorite food that gives me the "lovely appearance" and the "expressive voice."

I'm afraid there's no mysterious secret about what I eat. My favorite food is the simple dish of crackers and milk for midnight lunch. Often it is my only food during the day when I rest from a heavy schedule of broadcasts or play rehearsals.

The Voice of the Listener

Defending Music

Dear VOL: Rochester, Minn.
I have at last sufficient courage to write to "Voice of the Listener" in defense of our popular songs of today.

So many classify all popular music as jazz.

Gordon Wheeler
Dear reader, is that giving tin pan alley a fair break? Let me say here that I detest real jazz but enjoy the melodious music of our leading dance bands. I am sure that thousands of listeners will agree there is a startling contrast in the "honky-tonk" rhythm of Cab Calloway or Duke Ellington and the soothing music of Wayne King's or Guy Lombardo's boys. In other words, compare "They Call Me Sister Honky Tonk" to "Under a Blanket of Blue," "Spin a Little Web of Dreams," "Seeking Shelter From a Shower," or "The Old Spinning Wheel."

With due respect to those who prefer jazz, allow me to tell Dad not to turn off the radio while tearing his hair or using profane language, but sit down, Dad, and find out whether it's jazz or music worthwhile. Gordon Wheeler

The Graham Cracker

Dear VOL: Cleveland, Ohio
Now that the funny men have decided to keep studio audiences, what can be done about Ed Wynn with his constant repetition of "Graham?" I counted 68 "Grahams" in one of his recent broadcasts. That's too many for one to swallow. Now if it were crackers it wouldn't be so bad although even too many of them stick to my throat.

Now if Wynn took his multitude of Grahams and substituted as many funny words and jokes in their place, what a knockout he would be.

While I'm at it, I would like to express my opinion of Eddie Cantor. Does he have to be the whole show? I appreciate Cantor in pictures but over the radio he seems sort of "I Want To Be the Whole Show." His razzing of Rubinoff isn't as funny as it used to be, and we all know by now that he has a wife and five daughters.

But I'm not all knocks today. I want to give three cheers for Joe Penner and Jack Benny, and how about more of Helen Hayes?

Josephine Justin

The Radio Routine

Dear VOL: Philadelphia, Pa.
Here is a suggestion for a complete routine for any husband on his day off:

First, brush your teeth with Amos 'n' Andy, then gargle with the Goldbergs. Wash with Bing Crosby then place Henry Burbig and the Rhythm Boys in your razor. Lather up with Edwin C. Hill and finish your shave with Wayne King and Lady Esther.

George H. Woolbert
Then down to breakfast for a cup of Show Boat with one or two Joe Penners and Phil Bakers with eggs. After breakfast light a Glen Gray. If you're overweight don't forget a dose of Easy Aces. Help wifey wash the dishes with Clara, Lu 'n' Em then give her Mary Small to help clean the bathroom while you polish up the floors with Lazy Dan. Dab around those dull spots with Smilin' Ed McConnell.

Finish dinner with a plate of Jack Pearl. Have wifey doll up a bit while you run Fred Waring out of the garage. Tank up with Ed Wynn and Lowell Thomas and don't forget a bar or two of Ethel Shutta and Walter O'Keefe. Wifey will want a stick or two of Myrt and Marge. Before retiring how about some Paul Whiteman? And so to bed!

George H. Woolbert

You are at liberty to speak freely so LET'S GET TOGETHER AND TALK THINGS OVER. Address your letters to VOL Editor, care of RADIO GUIDE, 423 Plymouth Court, Chicago, Ill. Full-Harmonic Sympathy

Dear VOL: State College, Pa.
That letter of R. A. Davis' did a good job of getting under my skin. He has a grievance against symphonies and against classical music in general. All right. In answer to his question "Did you ever hear anybody whistling or humming a composition by an old Russian composer?" I would say "Dark Eyes" isn't altogether an unpopular composition.

Personally, I like what classical music I am fortunate enough to be able to appreciate, and I like jazz which doesn't hit that note of "Gimme a kiss, kid, I'm wild aboutchu" too sourly. The fact is that my pet hobby is composing and arranging jazz music.

In other words, the point of this letter is, R. A., that you're not to be blamed for your dislikes, but for your intolerance of other people's likes. Why begrudge other people the enjoyment real, solid music gives them?

And in closing I might say that your crack about the only persons who appreciate those symphonic orchestras being the richer people who "have nothing to do seven days a week but seek pleasure" makes me laugh. I happen to be a senior in college who has worked throughout the four years just ending this June and have lots of friends—lovers of symphonic music—who also find pleasure-seeking a rather small incident in their "seven days a week."

Vincent F. Paladine

Dear VOL: Port Stanley, Ontario, Can.
I simply cannot stand the narrow-minded ideas about classical music, expressed by a Mr. R. A. Davis in a recent issue of RADIO GUIDE. Apparently Mr. Davis has no taste for the finer arts.

If he would listen to the New York Philharmonic Symphony next Sunday, he would find much to his astonishment that there is little likelihood of this great organization's going on the rocks. He would find that the working people are coming to the rescue and are more than willing to do everything in their power to save the symphony from the disaster which recently threatened it.

He speaks of up-to-date music. I don't suppose he knows that Beethoven composed music so far ahead of his time that we have not yet come abreast of it. Mr. Davis thinks he is entitled to jazz music all day Sunday. He forgets that practically all of Sunday morning is devoted to the lighter variety of music. Must he be pleased all the time?

Bob Nicholas

An Appreciated Guy

Dear VOL: Los Angeles, Cal.
In each issue of RADIO GUIDE I give particular notice to the Stars of Stars contest. I find it extremely difficult to choose a winner as all artists seem to be holding their own nicely.

In my mind there are only two outstanding radio artists, Bing Crosby, who needs no introduction, and Guy Lombardo. As for Lombardo and his boys, well, I think they have the sweetest music on the air. Guy has just finished a successful engagement at the Coconut Grove here, where he was known as having "The Sweetest Music This Side of Heaven." After hearing him in person, I believe it.

Broadus F. Cox
Without his music the White Owl program would be a washout. But at any rate here's a big hand to the RADIO GUIDE prize winner.

Broadus F. Cox

Dear VOL: Huntley, Ill.

R. A. Davis' jazz-minded opinion of classical music and symphonic programs, by its unreasonableness and unfairness has aroused my ire. He says he can easily see why the Philharmonic has to ask for help from the listeners. Very well if he does, but that does not prove his point in any way. The Philharmonic was obliged to seek help, because it is a privately supported organization and its programs does not have a commercial sponsor. There is no reproach in its need.

Davis' invitation to us to imagine someone asking to have Eddie Cantor replaced by the Philharmonic Orchestra is entirely beside the point. No doubt there would be protests, even by lovers of symphonic music, who enjoy Cantor as much as anybody else—just as there would be protests if Ben Bernie or Guy Lombardo or Eddie Cantor were to replace the Philharmonic Program or the Music Appreciation Hour.

Davis makes the ridiculous statement that symphonic orchestras are appreciated only by the "richer people who have nothing to do seven days a week but seek pleasure." Nothing could be further from the truth. I invite him to write to Mr. Toscanini and find out who the majority of the people who have responded to the Philharmonic's appeal for funds are. Certainly the thousands of contributions of $1-$5 did not come from "richer people" but from working people who enjoy good music in their leisure time. J. Kubaitis

Dear VOL: Lancaster, Pa.

Mr. R. A. Davis, the hard-working up-to-date Southerner, gives an exhibition of ignorance that has rarely been surpassed. Because Mr. Davis doesn't like the Philharmonic, it must be taken off the air. According to the listings there seems to be plenty of trash on the air on Sundays. If there isn't, Mr. Davis can cultivate his mind reading the latest copy of "Nifty, Naughty Stories." He also brings up the "tank town" idea that only rich people listen to good music. It's strange he didn't mention the equally insane idea that only older people like the classics. I cannot understand why Joe Penner's isn't his favorite comedian. That comedian certainly is the worst on the air and the worse programs are the better Davis seems to like them.

And, RADIO GUIDE—if you don't print this letter you need cod-liver oil!

Carl J. Campbell

Penner-tration

Dear VOL: Chillicothe, Ohio
Hurrah for the critic of Joe Penner. If Shakespeare were alive I am sure he would criticize Penner, too, but Shakespeare is dead, just like the others who don't know a good joke when they hear it. Why does Penner generally lead in the voting?

Why? Because with his witty, humorous expressions he can make the whole world laugh. Even Caesar, if this critic ever heard of him, would enjoy Penner. The public, as a whole, is the judge of his wit; from what we hear everywhere, with his "wanna buy a duck?" he is the saviour of the comedy world.

I am glad to see Bing Crosby is up near the top in your contest because what the radio needs is more vocal talent and Bing Crosby is exclusive from the rest of Radioland's songsters. Eno Crime Clues are thrillers, too.

Fred Filsinger

From A New Reader

Dear VOL: Brooklyn, New York
To be frank with you, the March 3rd issue of the RADIO GUIDE was the very first copy of this interesting magazine which fortunately, I happened to read.

I had no idea that the information with which you fill your pages could be so interesting. After reading word for word, every page in the above mentioned issue, it seemed that I looked forward with great pleasure to a pleasant rendezvous with my radio that evening. I could understand how fans would follow up their movie favorites in real life but I didn't think the same principle existed in Radio. Now I know better.

If I may, I wish to F. W. Salmaggi voice a few of my pet dislikes; why must some orchestra swing into a tune without the name of said piece being announced? Many times I have tried to name a familiar tune being played but without success. Another thing is the insistent interruption by some droll comedian in the midst of a popular selection. F. W. Salmaggi

They Only Know What They See in the Paper

History and Les Aimes Vallee Fan Club of Long Island City, N. Y., require that an explanation be recorded in RADIO GUIDE. At least, this is the belief of Miss Marie Basile. A letter from Miss Basile in a recent issue of RADIO GUIDE, through an error, included this statement: "I am an active member of the Rudy Vallee Fan Club and we are pretty close to his divorce case and all of the details which led up to it."

Miss Basile insists that this statement might lead to confusion concerning Miss Basile's Vallee Fan Club. RADIO GUIDE cheerfully affords space for this statement from Miss Basile: "I know nothing of Mr. Vallee's divorce case other than that reported in the newspapers. I received no other information through my fan club. We fans are not interested in Mr. Vallee's domestic affairs."

Bronx Dial-log

Dear VOL: Bronx, New York

Members of RADIO GUIDE gather together your bugles and proclaim with loud exclamation—that for outstanding quality in Western music such as cowboy songs and mountaineer tunes why, you just have to turn your dials until you hear the well known cowboy voices of lovable Ed Costigan, Tex Ritter and Tex Fletcher.

I'm positive when I speak of the fact that these cowboys should be shown more appreciation. Take for instance their singing of those lovely old Western ballads and other old songs. Why if it wasn't through their knowing and singing these songs to us via the radio, why we would never even know what a Western song was.

You're just about fed up on the regular every day type singing that we hear constantly. But I can assure you one and all that as far as Cowboy songs go, you will never tire of them. Especially when they are sung by the boys that I have mentioned above.

"Down in the Valley" is one out of their choice selection that you will just simply crave to hear again, once you have heard it. I never yet so far, have had an egg or tomato thrown at me for siding in with the Cowboys. Won't you all try to write in some comments pertaining to Cowboys Costigan, Fletcher and Ritter? Ruth F. Confessions of a Bandmaster

Abe Lyman in the very latest photograph to be made of him (left) in his favorite avocation, card-playing. Abe doesn't mind "kibitzers." His favorite relaxation, next to cards, is sleeping. A candid camera caught him, as shown below snatching forty winks before rehearsal time.

Striking testimony of the keen interest aroused by "The Confessions of a Bandmaster" continue to pour into RADIO GUIDE. In the eighth instalment of this remarkable narrative, presented herewith, Mr. Lyman leads his readers into the most intimate considerations of the lives and experiences of other orchestra leaders and orchestra musicians. The confession now becomes a mirror of revelation.

Especially absorbing are the frank recitals of the clashes between marital undertakings and artistic temperaments. Here we find ourselves standing by the very hearthstones of orchestra leaders, peering into their careers through the lens of a pal and sympathetic chronicler

By Abe Lyman

HERE is a pointed commentary on the advisability of girls marrying musicians:

While we were doing the theater circuits one year, I remember that the wife of one of the boys decided he wasn't spending enough time with his children. She was forced to remain in one place, while he traveled about the West Coast playing engagements in theaters. He quit, and when he quit he started going down. He is on the Coast now, having a tough time getting along.

Wives made so much trouble in the band at one time that I finally decided I'd try to prevent the marriages of single members of my band. I wrote a clause into their contracts which provided that they couldn't marry so long as they were playing with me. But I found out you can't beat love. Now I don't write contracts.

It isn't only wives who make trouble. I can remember an affair between a noted Chicago society woman and a vocalist I once employed. This woman told him he had a marvelous voice, and that he shouldn't waste it on dance music. She prevailed on him to leave the band while we were playing in Chicago. She managed to get him a part in a musical show in New York. He was, in the vernacular of the bandmen, a "floperoo." He finally admitted it, left the show and went back to Chicago, where he organized his own band.

He was successful for three years. Now he's singing again with a band on the Coast.

Another romance which almost turned out disastrously for one of my band, concerned a mercenary little girl who married the musician because she knew he had a sizeable inheritance. When she married him she didn't know that the money was tied up, and that she couldn't get her hands on it.

When the girl discovered it was impossible for her to touch the money, she started running around, and getting unsavory stories told about herself. Of course the boy heard, applied for a divorce and got it, with moderate alimony payments. His ex-wife then became the paramour of a Chicago gangster to whom she told untrue and horrible tales of inhuman treatment she received at the hands of the musician. The gangster, however, believed them and went gunning for my musician. It was only through my acquaintance with some of the members of the gang, whom I had known in my cafe-playing days, that I got them to let the boy alone.

If, on the other hand, the separation and divorce is the fault of the bandsman, I do not hesitate to take the girl's side of the controversy. Once a former wife of one of my boys came along with the tale that he was badly in arrears with his alimony payments. The girl was on the level, and it didn't seem any of my business that they couldn't get along together. I made it my business, though, when I learned that he was neglecting to support her. I called him on the carpet. "Look," I said to him, "I hear that you're neglecting your wife. It isn't because you're not making enough money, I'm sure of that. From now on I'm taking $25.00 a week from your pay, and I'm going to send it to her. Will you take it or leave it?"

He took it.

All of the above doesn't mean that I'm a tough boss and that I am a guardian over the morality of my men. I'm no saint myself, and I believe it is the privilege and the right of any man to lead the kind of a life he sees fit. But when a boy's negligence affects an innocent party that's another matter.

I'm selfish in that respect. A musician cannot play his best music when he is unhappy or when his conscience is troubling him. Dance tunes are happy tunes. And a man with a long and troubled face is a liability in any band. The crowd notices it immediately. It is, therefore, to my own interest to keep all the members of my band in a happy frame of mind.

Most of the men in my band at present are married, some of them for the second time. And, of the men who are unmarried, three of them are divorced. Marriage seems to be popular among musicians, despite the terrific handicaps they face when they say "I do."

At one time the band's families included 22 babies and 21 dogs—real proof of domesticity.

Some of the wives of the bandmen frequently form a clique which can foment much trouble. They get together at baby showers, at teas, at receptions and at parties, while their husbands are working.

"Did you notice that Pet's wife got a new fur coat?" one of them will ask.

"How does she do it," another will query, "on his salary?"

One wife takes a trip home. The rest learn of it immediately and they, too, want trips home.

Sometimes, when they get together they put me on the spot.

Joe's wife will declare that he is doubling on two instruments and yet isn't getting as much money as Bill. There is always a reason for it. Probably Bill has been with the band longer than Joe. But the wives can't see that, and they declare themselves when they get home. Unless the husbands handle things diplomatically, they are drawn into a quarrel which disturbs the harmony of the entire band.

All of the foregoing was written with the band of the near past in mind. Conditions have changed somewhat today. Radio keeps a band longer in one place and permits men and their wives to become settled in homes of their own. In the days of barnstorming and cafe engagements of uncertain length, it was a hit-or-miss existence.

Were it not for my radio contracts, the band probably would be on tour today because, when our engagement at the Hotel New Yorker ended we would have nothing to do in New York. Now, three radio programs a week keep us busy rehearsing and planning.

Radio has changed the status of the "name" band. Dance music has become a systematized business, and the bandleader and his manager must be business men as surely as the head of a corporation must be a business man. The bandleader has an opportunity, for the first time in his life, to keep regular hours, even though they take him almost around the clock.

Radio, however, has been a great break for the men in the band. It gives them the opportunity to spend more of their lives at home with their wives, and to keep from mixing business and pleasure—a mixture which any business man will tell you, sours rapidly.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

IF YOU feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, I don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c.

If you are not satisfied with the way you feel, send this coupon for your free copy of this extraordinary book entitled "The Interesting Story of What Makes You Feel Good—The Most Glorious Thing in the World is to Feel Good." With it we will also send you a free sample of Carter's Little Liver Pills. If you would do the best thing you ever did for yourself and your family, send for this free book before you forget it.

THE COVER KING — WAYNE

GLIDE along with the man who sways every audience, Wayne King, the smiling Waltz King of the air waves, whose portrait appears on the cover of this issue. Once he was a small town boy who sobbed so diligently into his saxophone that he had to stuff a pillow into the bell of the instrument to keep from being thrown out of his living quarters. But now the master of lazy rhythms is a big-town batoneer. And he has taken the pillow out of his saxophone. He grew up in Savannah, Illinois, and went to Valparaiso University. There he studied to be a certified public accountant. He still draws neat figures in seductive dance rhythms. While at the university, where he played football and won his varsity letter, Wayne picked up the saxophone. He has never laid it down for very long since. Upon graduation, Wayne came to Chicago looking for a job. He had a unique and somewhat naive way of finding it.

He combed an entire office building, the Insurance Exchange, knocking at the door of every office until somebody hired him, as an accountant. But he did not forsake the saxophone. For several years, at the YMCA where he lived, he practised. One day he took the pillow out of the bell and decided maybe he was good enough to drop accounting for music. He was. His first job was with J. Bodewalt Lampe, then director of Karzas Amusement Company. He played under Bodewalt and Dell Lampe for several years, at the Trianon Ballroom in Chicago. A few years later, Wayne was invited to bring his own orchestra into the Aragon Ballroom. His distinctive waltz music brought him instant popularity that has never receded. In 1932, the King waltzed beautiful Dorothy Janis up the aisle, and their marriage has been a happy one. Both are regular fellows who like the out-of-doors. Wayne is also a clever airplane pilot.

PEEPING INTO THE STUDIOS

By Orville Revelle

THIS week's pillar could be called a "standing column"—having scribbled it out after a trip to the opening game, along with 30,000 other worshippers of hard-seats. Powell Crosley's Reds were whipped but that's a story that's already been told numerous times since. But the trip there well paid for itself, for I was lucky enough to see THREE great artists in action—No. 1, being that great hurler Lon Warneke of the Cubs; No. 2, happens to be $125,000 worth of human flesh—Chuck Klein, a great batsman; No. 3, probably, wouldn't bring one-tenth of the Klein purchase price on hoof or as a matter of fact, in anyway or in any form but just the same he's one of the greatest—I'm speaking of Pat Flanagan (ace sports announcer of WBBM in Chicago). Pat came to Cincinnati with the Cubs for the ice-breaker and the Chicago fans can well afford to be proud of such a chap, who can so easily describe each play of our national pastime without working the radio-fan into a lather, trying to figure out who is on the bases and which player is out.

While I'm on the subject of baseball announcers, I don't have to tell you (but I am) that all of Cincy's sportcasters did a very neat job on the same day—Harry Hartman of WFBE giving them an excellent ether-description—C. O. Brown calling them for the WKRC audience—"Red" Barber and 'SAI trying to make the Reds look good against Warneke, which of course they didn't. Cincinnati may not have a Flanagan or Totten (neither have they a Klein) but you can wager that the trio of 'casters are of big league calibre. Just give them a few winners and then watch Hartman, Barber and Brown go to town, as it were.

They All Wanda

THAT certain something in Wanda Edwards' melodious voice is enticing more and more fans to welcome her into their homes through the speaker . . . The saddest blow to local music-circles was when Maurice Thompson resigned from the Mendelssohn's chorus as director . . . He was well liked and always put on a marvelous show . . . WMAL in Washington beckoned to Sidney Ten Eyck and he answered . . . The former WLW star will work beside Ted Shawn, who at one time received his mail at the Nation's Station . . . Some have it (but don't believe all you hear or read) that Sid went to the Nation's capitol to offer certain Senators (who will be let out in the cold next fall) positions as announcers on local outlets.

Try and picture this kaleidoscope of an ether-nightmare—Melville Clark of Syracuse can play two harps at once—Mr. Clark and the Mills Brothers would make a good symphony for anyman's radio station . . . Many of you fans missed the opportunity of a lifetime to get even with the radio artists, that you don't prefer—WKRC played host to numerous stars atop the Crosley field roof, where the hill-top's baseball mike is located, on opening day . . . Every time a Redleg struck out, Chuck Wise and Ray Lawill almost did a parachute-jump minus the usual equipment.

WGBF, in Evansville, now has a special short-wave transmitter, duly licensed, kept in readiness for communication purposes only in case of a major catastrophe, such as the tornado that swept Southern Illinois and Indiana last year—proving again that radio is a necessary-EVIL!

Ford Attends Broadcast

"HONEST MUSIC." That's how Henry Ford described the singing of children in his Greenfield Village school, to Leo Fitzpatrick, general manager of WJR, Detroit.

"This is much better than 'tra-la-la' by grand opera singers, and some of those we hear on the radio," added Ford, who is especially proud of the way his boys

MISS RADIO OF 1934

At least that's her title in the Cincinnati area where she was adjudged winner of a contest conducted by Station WCKY. She is Christine Fryman, 19, of Covington, Ky. Her material reward was an all-expense trip to Miami, Fla. Tune in WCKY at 9:45 p. m. EST April 30 and girls sing "The Last Round-Up."

More than a hundred boys and girls of Dearborn, Michigan, attend school in Greenfield Village, Henry Ford's memorial to Thomas A. Edison. Ford frequently

WHEN JACK SHILKRET conducts his band for Julia Sanderson and Frank Crumit during their Sunday afternoon broadcasts, he often takes a turn at the piano for a chorus or two. Frank immediately grabs Jack's baton and goes through the motions of leading the instrumentalists. When questioned, Crumit assured me he possessed a union card, so it was all right . . . Pretty Vera Van has two programs immediately following one another on Friday night—one on CBS ending at 8 p. m. and one over WOR beginning at 8 p. m., so she has a motorcycle police escort to take her from CBS to WOR . . . Was WHO mortified? Well, Jimmy Durante was, for one, when those who heard him told Schnozzle he couldn't play the fiddle as well as Rubino—and then Rubino was mortified when they told him he couldn't tell jokes as well as Jimmy. So it's even . . . Judy Talbot, Ace Brigode's CBS-ing petite, brunette songstress, has her own formula for good singing. "Stand straight, and the notes will be, too," says she . . . Tom Shirley, attends the fifteen-minute singing service, conducted before classes daily, in the Marta and Mary Chapel. Recently he arranged with Fitzpatrick to have his service broadcast once a week through WJR.

At the first broadcast, Ford was present, and his fifteen-year-old niece opened the radio program by ringing the chapel bell, made by a son of Paul Revere.

Two of the five periods in which Nancy Martin, torch singer, was starred prior to her new commercial schedule on KDKA, have been assigned to Miss Ethel Harris, sepia songstress and pianist. Miss Harris will be heard every Tuesday and Friday night at 10:45 a'clock. Miss Martin's commercial series opens Wednesday, April 18, at 7:15 p. m. and the popular KDKA star will be heard each week at the same hour under the sponsorship of the Philadelphia Company.

WCKY Briefs

RAYMOND MOLEY, famous brain-truster and professor of public law, Columbia University, will discuss the New Deal and International Relations over WCKY Saturday, May 5, 5:30 to 6 p. m. Norman Thomas, executive director of the League for Industrial Democracy, is to take part in the discussion.

Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink opens a weekly program over WCKY and the NBC blue network Sunday, April 29, from 9 to 9:15 p. m. EST. Mother of eight, grandmother of eleven, and great-grandmother of four, "Mama Ernestine" will be presented as the "world's best loved mother."

WJR Time Changes

THE SEMI-ANNUAL shake-up of radio programs takes place Sunday, April 29, when daylight saving time is adopted by many of the larger cities. Inasmuch as the NBC network goes on the new time schedule while Detroit retains eastern standard time, listeners in this area will be hearing most of their favorite programs and hour earlier than before.

On WJR the most important shift is in the Amos 'n' Andy period. From now until daylight saving time is dropped Amos 'n' Andy will be heard in Detroit at 10 p. m.

The National Farm and Home Hour is another exception to the rule, this program remaining at the same time. The popular Vic and Sade skits which have been following the Farm and Home Hour shift to 11:30 a. m. daily.

"Lavender and Old Lace," featuring Frank Munn, Madelon Gist and Gustave Haenschen's orchestra, moves from 7:15 p. m. to 9:30 p. m. Tuesday nights and Professor Faxon Figures' program has been changed from 7:15 p. m. to 9:45 p. m.

the Myrt and Marge announcer who couldn't hold a piece of script without the paper rattling last year, now climbs on the roofs of forty story buildings doing stunt broadcasts for CBS, such as the day, he miked the Chicago Wheat Pit.

RUMORS have it that before long there will be a big shake-up on the Old Gold show due to the Ted Fiorito-Dick Powell feud. Boys will be boys . . . Hear ye! Hear ye! Clark Gable fans, your favorite will be guest on Sunday's Hall of Fame Show. Will you be listenin'? What a question, Lewis . . . Another flicker favorite is due to bob up on that perfume show as guest star; Bob Montgomery is the name, folks. Bob did okay on his recent airing with Vallee. You should have heard the ah's and oh's from the gals in the studio when he came out on the stage . . . Speaking of Hollywoodites on the air, John Barrymore drew down $6,000 for his appearance on that recent Hall of Fame broadcast, while Carole Lombard, who appeared with him in two scenes, worked for nothing!

PLUMS AND PRUNES: Stage Leans on Radio

By Evans Plummer

ED SULLIVAN, who writes a mean column, and master-of-ceremonies the Wednesday evening Musical Airship (NBC) quite well, passed a counterfeit when he intimated it was odd that radio had never yet contributed to the stage—had only taken away from it. Wasn't it Shaindel Kalish, the 19-year-old lead and star of "Girls in Uniform," now playing at the Blackstone Theater in Chicago, who was hailed as the "stage's latest discovery"? Wasn't it she whom the dramatic critics enthused over as the next to join the immortal Cornells and Barrymores?

It was. And here's the funny part of the Kalish story:

Radio is and has been supporting Shaindel. She'll never have to pay income tax on the salary "Girls in Uniform" is yielding her. In fact, "Romantic Melodies" and a second program (name of which cannot be divulged) which is placed through the Blackett-Sample-Hummert advertising agency, have been buying Miss Kalish her bread and butter.

So well is radio supporting the young star, that she is able to indulge a bit in stage for art's sake and contribute to the stage, so to speak.

How Far Is Up?

CINCINNATI'S NEW giant WLW, with a 500,000-watt voice, is on the air and soon may enter regular service. Radio-Paris, in the capital of France, may soon raise from 75,000 watts to double that. Roumania is talking of a 150,000-watter; Algeria is shopping for a 250,000-watt broadcaster; Russia—already boasting several 100,000-watt stations—is considering one with 1,200,000-watts power, and—

The morning mail brings a stock-selling prospectus of Station COD, Havana, Cuba, along with a ratecard and the startling news that COD, when and if built, expects to fling 1,000,000 watts on the 690 kilocycle channel.

More power to you!

ON THE OTHER HAND, Sinclair Minstrel produced, Gene Arnold writes, in objection to and rebuttal of the comedians who gathered in New York City not so long ago to decide the audience and the applause issue:

"Well, well. So the 'representative' (?) radio comedians of Noo Yawk got together and decided—for all of us—whether we shall or shall not have studio audiences. Pardon us while we lawf up our shiny sleeve.

"Of course, we realize that Chicago is just a 'water tank' in the lives of the dear boys of Manhattan; we know that to most of them, Chicago is just the site of an old fort that echoes each night to the yells of Indians and howls of coyotes, but let me raise up my hind legs and announce to the tall timbers that completely hide the Merchandise Mart, that them durned New York upstarts can't take MY studio audience away from the little Minstrel Show.

"It may be true that this laughter and applause we earn DO interfere with the representative (?) comedians copping a gag for later use on the BIG New York show, but, by heck, them there now audience help us to gauge our laughs and wait 'em out so that the listening audience won't miss the lead up to the next joke—and I'm for em. And I believe that our Minstrels would be disappointing if we didn't have that good old studio audience. Another thing: we never yet asked them for applause."

SUCCESS STORY—After eight months on the NBC network, Irna Phillips' powerful family saga, "Today's Children", drew requests for 300,000 books telling the story, to date, of the serial drama! So great was the demand that grocers in many cities found their supply of the sponsor's flour (the purchase of a sack of which was required for the book) completely exhausted. . . . Here's a hint. Many plums to Father Coughlin on his season's final broadcast April 14, and we'll be anxiously awaiting his resumption in the fall. . . . And a plum birthday cake to Old Maestro Bernie for that third year on the air for Blue Ribbon. May it be ten. . . . CONFESSIONS OF A BANDMASTER—BY ABE LYMAN

riage. Women are a bandleader's greatest asset. One woman, however, is his greatest liability.

Taken collectively, women can make a bandleader famous. If his personality appeals to them—if the music he produces is the kind that spells romance—if, by eliciting a smile from the man on the platform they can generate a gleam of jealousy in the eye of an escort, the bandleader's popularity is assured.

Women put the stamp of approval—or disapproval—on a bandleader, a band and the music the organization produces. Women are the more fond of dancing. Women write the fan letters to radio band leaders. They prompt requests for special numbers. Men have very little to do with the popularity of a bandleader.

Inasmuch as the approval of women—many women—is necessary to the successful career of a bandleader, it is to his advantage to win the women over to his band. But when he sets himself to the task of winning the approval of one woman—THE WOMAN—he is pretty sure to lose the others in his admiring female audience.

Must Please All Women

I could name at least a dozen bandleaders who could, if they were so disposed, place the blame for their loss of popularity to marriage. I could name a half-dozen others who are slipping, simply because they are trying to please one woman instead of all women.

As I have said elsewhere in these "confessions," the man who engages a band to entertain his patrons, expects the bandleader to retain his popularity and add to his following. Popularity is a fickle wench who must be courted assiduously by any bandleader who desires her favor.

A bandleader must make friends. He must exude personality. Above all, he must be cheerful. In a cafe, he must greet the old patrons and meet the new ones. He must mix with the crowd and so impress them with his personality and good-fellowship that they'll say, after he leaves them:

"What a swell fellow that leader is!"

Cafe owners expect it. They know that their places are popular because the bandleader is popular.

A chronic grouch has few friends for the simple reason that his unpleasant disposition makes the people about him uncomfortable. And, because the cafe is a place to which people come to have a good time, the bandleader who carries a grouch is all the more noticeable and undesirable.

No matter what business a man is in, he cannot do his best work when he is worried about one thing or another, and a bandleader is no exception. It shows in his disposition and in his music. It spreads to the members of his band.

Every leader of popular dance bands, almost without exception, got his start playing for dances or in cafes. They are the steps up to the theater and radio. And a cafe is no place for the wife of a bandleader. I'll tell you why:

As a general rule, wives have very little to do in the evenings when their husbands are playing cafe engagements. The wives consequently kill time in the cafe, sitting at a table in an obscure corner and watching their husbands. The wife of one leader who is now without an engagement of any kind, was a woman of this sort.

She used to sit beside the door leading to the dressing rooms of the showgirls in the place. She wouldn't trust him near the beauties of the chorus. When he stepped down from the platform, she made it clear that it was his duty to come to her table, passing up friends and acquaintances to whom he should have spoken.

The girl has her bandleader all to herself now, because his audiences have turned to other bands.

The Bandleader Wife

In some cases a bandleader's wife is his manager. One such wife has made herself terrifically unpopular about the place in which he works, because of her unpleasant and officious manner and her indiscreet use of profanity.

"Come here, you—," she'll say to a head waiter. "I want service. Do you think I'm going to look all over the place for you?"

A bandleader must be popular with everybody. Waiters don't keep their dislikes to themselves.

Why don't I get married? Do you think I want a woman of that sort hanging around where I'm working?

One of the standard questions in use by wives of bandleaders is this one:

"Who was that woman you were talking with?"

More than likely the woman was beautiful. She probably showed her admiration for the man who could direct a big orchestra in a dance tune of which she was especially fond. It's flattering to the bandleader but it's poison to his wife.

"Hm!" she'll say. "Are you sure that's all you were talking about? How do I know you weren't arranging to meet her later?"

What argument has any man for a question of that sort?

The wife-manager is all the more objectionable because she has a legitimate excuse for frequenting the place where her husband is playing. Then, too, she knows the ropes. She knows more about the temptations which face her husband in the form of "another woman," but usually she doesn't credit him with too much power of resistance.

Abe's Own Experience

Some band wives conduct rehearsals. One in particular ruined the music of a favored band by appearing at every rehearsal. There she would criticize everything the bandleader tried to do. Now he's a has-been.

I have had my worries along this line. While broadcasting on a sustaining basis over a California radio station several years ago, I was in love (more or less) with a woman who lived in Los Angeles. I bought her a radio so that she could listen to my programs, which were two hours in length. I did my own announcing and, between numbers, carried on conversations with the crowd. She never visited the cafe, but she sat in front of the radio and took notes of the informal conversations which leaked through the microphone.

Afterward she would refer to her notes and call me on them.

"Who was that woman you spoke to after that second blues number?" she would ask. "Whom did you call 'sweetheart' at half past ten?"

She bothered me too much. Finally I tired of her fault-finders and told her so. After many scenes I quit it all, but I was pretty much distressed by the process, and my music showed it. She's married today to a prominent financier, thank the gods!

In next week's issue of RADIO GUIDE Abe Lyman's confessions include further discussion of the effect of wives on bandleaders and their music. He names names. He supplies additional views and facts to support his conviction that music and marriage don't mix—in the majority of cases. Don't fail to continue this fascinating series in RADIO GUIDE, Week Ending May 12.

"EXPERIENCE" BOOK WINNERS

CONTINUING the award of prizes for solution letters, the Voice of Experience this week names ten more winners. Their letters were addressed to "Puzzled," who while attending a New York sports event with her fiancé without the permission of her parents, saw her father attending the same event with his lady secretary. Whether she should confront her father with her discovery of his indiscretion, and thereby reveal her own misdemeanor, is the question she put to The Voice.

The advice received from readers of RADIO GUIDE in response, ranged from reminders of "people who live in glass houses," to suggestions of tolerance for the "first slip." The consensus was that more harm might result from the charge of deception, than from silence regarding it.

Ten copies of the book, "The Voice of Experience," were awarded the writers of the most helpful letters. Five of them received copies of the deluxe edition, autographed by The Voice. They are Mrs. E. W. Bennett, 1016 Ridenbaugh Street, St. Joseph, Mo.; W. W. Young, 1111 Eighth Street, Huntington, W. Va.; Mrs. F. W. Baumann, 175 V Street, N. E., Washington, D. C.; Miss Reba Baker, McClusky, North Dakota, and A. M. Weill, 4625 North Mervine Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

The other five to receive copies of the regular edition of the books are Miss Barbara Schuyler, 401 N. Briggs Avenue, Hastings, Nebraska; Edward W. Kozlik, Pilgrim State Hospital, Brentwood, I. I., New York; Gean L. Griffith, Box 1, Rockton, Illinois; Miss Catherine McKaine, Eureka, Montana, and Harry J. Zempter, Cleves, Ohio.

Although no more problems will be submitted, writers of letters already submitted, which, in the judgment of The Voice, prove worthy of prizes, will be announced until the completion of the series.

Solution to last week's X-Word Puzzle

THE FASCINATING ROMANCE OF AL JOLSON

"that way" over her jazz-singer. And, in the crisis, she decided to chuck her hopes and aims at stardom to rejoin him and merge her life into his.

The Jolsons spent that Winter together in sunny Southern California. They lived on a lavish scale. Ruby was partied and feted. She realized how mighty and momentous a factor her husband was in the world of notables and geniuses. But she still was not happy. She could not repress regrets over abandoning the stage. And their dispositions still met sharply and threw sparks. Such friction caused sporadic reports that the great romance was nearing the rocks. As a fact, it never came anywhere so near a serious break-up.

But, when Jolson came East in '29, and this time Ruby remained behind in Hollywood—did the tongues clack! Al stopped them cold by flying back to his wife within a few weeks, before he had planned to. Then came another occasion for eyebrow-lifting, when the wires carried the bulletin that Ruby had signed for Ziegfeld's "Show Girl," and that Ruby was coming back to Broadway—and Al was staying in Hollywood.

Both, almost wearily now, denied that there was any rift, and said that it had been mutually decided that Ruby was to have her fling; and that the sole and simple reason he was not accompanying her was that he had to do a picture. When the newshounds and inquisitive insiders pressed Al for more details, he just shrugged and said, rather tartly:

"Ruby can do anything she wants. Let me alone!"

And it was true that Ruby returned to New York and to the stage without Al's blessing.

But he did rush on to New York for her opening at the Ziegfeld theater, one of the most classy (in the Broadway rating of such things) in the history of that classic glorifier, Zieggy.

Ruby had the soubrette lead role, a long upward leap from her last public appearance as a "Texas" Guinan girl, dancing in a floorshow to the stew and suckers. Around her was a heavy cast of seasoned principals. It was a magnificently appointed revue. But the interest concentrated on little Ruby Keeler—who had left Broadway a $100-a-week cabaret hooper and had returned to it a Ziegfeld prima donna, rich, publicized, and Mrs. Al Jolson, no less!

In a box sat His Honor the Mayor,

New York's pet bad boy, Jimmy Walker, boldly flaunting (he was still married) the beauteous brunette Betty Compton, the same Betty with whom Jolson had been seen numerous times in the night hangouts before he had fixed his gaze solely on Ruby Keeler.

Park Avenue was liberally represented. The first-string critics were there to a man. Ermines and pearls, high hats and high names sparkled in the highlights of that apotheosis of the Manhattan rialto, a Ziegfeld premiere. And on the right main aisle, in the third row, a nervous little man sat biting his polished fingernails—the husband of Ruby Keeler!

Ruby's Premiere

The show hit off a lively pace. Ruby's first entrances were met with solid salvos. But the big moment was yet to come. Ruby was to lead a love-song. The last time Ruby had led a song it had been in Guinan's resort, and no one had heard—or listened. No one ever thought then of Ruby as anything more than a tap-dancer, classified in theatrical parlance as a "dumb act." Now she was to sing the song-hit of a Ziegfeld extravaganza—to an audience like this.

She looked ravishing enough. Her costume was a confection. The orchestra struck the introduction, played 32 bars, and then the awaited climax came—Ruby "went into her song." The tension was terrific. And the break was terrible. . . . The lovely Ruby had a pipey little voice and her rendition was as feeble. There was a little fluster of applause—half courtesy, half sympathy. And then happened one of the most thrilling dramas in the long story of the American theater.

On his right knee in the aisle a slender little chap was poised. His two hands, those eloquent, expressive Jolson hands, were outstretched and held aloft to his Ruby. And from the golden throat of the mammy-minstrel rolled forth and filled the auditorium the chorus of that love-song. The crowd sat stunned, fascinated and enthralled.

Even Ziegfeld perhaps never had heard such artillery of applause. Al took another chorus—encore—encore—then turned and blew a kiss to the audience—and then he turned and blew a kiss to his wife.

The premiere was saved.

But Ruby, tearfully thanking him after the final curtain, confessed that she realized she was not yet ready. She withdrew from her engagement shortly thereafter and began intensively training, studying, working. She so completely applied herself that she lost many pounds from that slender, girlish body.

But now came an extraordinary psychological metamorphosis.

Al Turns Tutor

Al Jolson, the artist, the gambler, hates and always hated a loser. He loved and always loved a winner. He saw his Ruby had the heart of a real trouper and a real champion. Where he had discouraged her before, now that she had failed to click as she had hoped, and had refused to be licked, he was for her, with her and behind her with all he had.

It is doubtful whether a human being ever lived who had a more inspired flare for the art of entertainment than Al Jolson. He had demonstrated it as a clown in burnt cork, as an immortalizer of the world's ballads, as a concert star, in every medium of public showmanship.

And under this tutor the talented young Ruby carried on her gallant battle to stand beside her husband as an acknowledged star of the realms in which he is supreme.

And, when finally she did reach the heights, no one was more happy than he. Day after day, as he sees her advance in films, where as a musical comedy ingenue, fully flowered, with a voice that is becoming rich and expressive and a youthful beauty which is growing and mellowing, he shows more and more how he adores her, and all the world of the theater today can boast no more felicitous union.

When they are separated, they talk on the long distance never less than twice a day. They spend hundreds of dollars a week this way. And, when one of them has a week-end free, it means a flight across the continent and back again for the joy of a few ecstatic hours together.

An episode that demonstrates this state of Jolson's mind transpired last summer. Joe Schenck, a famous "ribber," arranged with several other merry wags to get Jolson on his yacht. Al protested that he didn't want to leave Ruby, but Schenck assured him they'd be back before sundown. Jolson is a passionate fisherman, and so he went. They started ostensibly for Catalina. But when they were half a mile off the island, Schenck broke it to him that he had ordered a change of course, out to sea, and they wouldn't be back for days.

Jolson dived overboard, swam to Catalina, engaged a special plane and flew back to Hollywood!

And Jolson has maintained his affection and pride in his wife after all the disturbing vicissitudes, despite several serious set-backs in his own procession of successes.

First Radio Trials

Jolson suffered a comparative falldown in his first and only return to the revue type of stage-work in "Wonder Bar," in which he starred shortly after his marriage, under the banner of Morris Gest. While the show was not an out-and-out flop, it was a considerable declension from his Winter Garden records, which, meanwhile, had been broken repeatedly by male stars who a few years back would not have been mentioned in the same week with Jolson.

One film was disappointing. And then came his high-priced first really big radio contract on the Chevrolet program, taking off in New York on November 18, 1932.

NBC was all agog over the forthcoming event. The ace of managers, William Morris, handling Jolson, was massing all resources to assure a transcendent triumph. Jolson was in California and the long distance costs were forgotten in lengthy conference, arguments, even quarrels. Jolson was stubborn and peevish. He insisted on arranging his own routines and material. He would sing his songs and snap his gags his own way. He came East and his friends were alarmed at his appearance. He was haggard and run down.

The critics always have loved Jolson, and they stood by to cheer for him. Here are extracts from two radio-reviewers' reports, following his initial broadcast:

"This is the first opportunity I've had to comment upon Mr. Al Jolson's bow to the audience last Friday night. On such occasions we scribblers, I believe, are expected to pass remarks on the first performance. I think the idea is basically wrong because no newcomer can give you a real sample of his work when he's nervous and half scared to death—" (New York Evening Journal.)

"It was soon apparent that something was amiss. The meeting, instead of being an occasion of spontaneous cheer and cordiality, began to show evidence of strain and restlessness. The strain was Jolson's. The restlessness was of the arm-chairs. . . . One thing is certain: Neither Jolson's old-time songs nor his old-time jokes have their old-time appeal."—(New York American.)

Conditions did not improve much, and the alibi that Jolson was air-conscious or mike-frightened proved to have been only a friendly defense.

What could he do?

NEXT WEEK—The hitherto untold story of Jolson's comeback, and of his second great love, his courtship, marriage, heartaches, divorce and still undying affection—despite his third marriage, the amazing romance with Ruby . . . in which is told the equally stirring story of Jolson and Alma Osborne. Look for it in RADIO GUIDE, issue Week Ending May 12.

ELDER MICHAUX' FLOCK

song—a melody out of white-washed slave quarters under a long-ago harvest moon—a hymn dear to those who remember some prim little white church in a northern valley. "Lord help us all!"

Two old-timers crouched in the Mourners' Bench are contending to introduce new numbers. One cracked old voice drowns out the other. Meanwhile, stronger voices in the center of the hall steal their moment and launch a song of their own. Laughter is heard down front. "Try agin, brother, you bound to git there sometime tonight!" More laughter.

A whispered word goes around the church. Heads turn. Down the aisle, preceded by three attendants, hurries a tall, vigorous man in a brown business suit. There is a smile on his face and his white teeth gleam between generous lips. His is a look of alert intelligence, softened by the sadness which so often haunts the faces of ministers of the Gospel, and of his race. He springs to the platform. He launches his sermon. Straight into the expectant faces before him he talks. Eyes, lips, voices, respond to his every word. "Happy Am I . . . When the devil comes, folks, just yell out, no matter where you are, 'I got you on the run, Satan! I got you on the run, you devil, you!'"

"Dat's right, brother!" "Hallelujah!"

Bread of Life

"The devil ain't no reformer, but a transformer. You never recognize him, 'cause he never comes as the devil. He comes as your good friend, my brethren. He can sing like the mocking bird. I don't care how wise you are, brother. If you're a sinner, you're a fool! The devil started all this sin business, so those who sin are in business with the devil. An' dat's dat, my precious ones!"

It is the bread of life he is giving them, a wholesome, generous loaf, cut into slices easily eaten, buttered by a rich flow of happy, telling phrases. Elder Solomon Lightfoot Michaux!

He comes from Virginia, this popular preacher of the air. He was born near Newport News, and for some time he made his living peddling the fish caught at Buckroe Beach. "I was like the two brethren Simon called Peter and Andrew his brother," he explains, "for they were fishers, too. And the Lord said to us, 'Follow Me and I will make you fishers of men.' And we all straightaway left our nets and followed Him . . ."

In 1917 he entered the ministry at Hopewell, Virginia. It was a small parish. But when its new minister held his first baptismal services, some 20,000 people lined the banks of Chesapeake Bay to watch the ceremony. That baptism was broadcast. Elder Micheaux was on the air!

In 1929, under the auspices of the Gospel Spreading Association, he established his Church of God in Washington. Here he soon became a familiar figure. The local station, WJSV, took on his early morning services as a sustaining program.

The program cost the church nothing except the expense of the one operator who must be on the job every morning. It was enormously popular. In 1933, when WJSV became part of the Columbia network, most of its local programs were dropped. Harry C. Butcher, vice-president and general manager of the Old Dominion Broadcasting System, interceded for the Church of God. Elder Michaux was given an audition. As a result he was put on a network.

Key Is Happiness

His is a religion of happiness. The Gospel Spreading Association under which he works, believes that man can live without sin. The man who so lives, who abstains from drinking, smoking and gambling, who provides for his family and serves his Master and his fellow man, is happy. Religion is humanity's greatest drama. And if religion is happiness, who not stage the drama with laughter and song? Thus Elder Michaux testifies his faith in his God and in mankind.

But happiness is not a mere state of mind. One day each month the members of the Church of God fast and give the money thus saved to the unemployed. When the church assumes a debt, the congregation fasts an additional day to pay it off. All offerings are free will. There are no money-raising activities, no rented pews. The choir sings for no other reward than the joy of singing. But the Church of God supports homes for evicted families, for the blind and otherwise disabled, in three cities.

The Elder has no salary. The church provides him with a home, and once a month they take up for him a free-will offering. This system has one advantage, as the Elder himself points out. "Solomon Lightfoot Michaux is not hired, so he cannot be fired, no matter how hot the devil may get in the folks he preaches to! God is his boss. He plays no favorites but God. Well, glory!"

Don't miss the next chapter of this colorful story of Elder Michaux in the forthcoming issue of RADIO GUIDE. It will tell why and how no current radio program commands so strange a mixture of emotions and sentiments, smiles and sighs, as the broadcasts from the Radio Church of God. This second instalment will appear in the issue of RADIO GUIDE dated Week Ending May 12.

SURGE OF NEW CANDIDATES IN STAR OF STARS ELECTION

STILL they come, new candidates crowding into the lists, to make their bid for top honors in the Star of Stars Election. The tellers report that during the past week, six new stars, five new programs and one new team have been added.

A fac-simile reproduction of the design of the silver medal to be awarded the team that polls the greatest number of votes, is presented on this page.

The full list of awards will be a gold medal to the star, a gold medal to the program and a gold medal to the orchestra that wins. A certificate suitably inscribed will be presented to each member of the winning orchestra, and to each person participating in the production and presentation of the winning program.

Multiple Voting Excluded

The tellers in RADIO GUIDE'S Star of Stars election will accept only those votes which bear within themselves evidences of genuineness such as may be supplied by a written signature. No vote will be counted that is unsigned or that shows unmistakable evidence of having been spuriously signed. There can be no group voting, unless each member of the group acts as an individual in casting his or her ballot.

If you have not yet cast your vote for your air favorites, don't delay.

All entertainers, orchestras, programs and teams that have been on the air since October 1, 1933, are eligible.

Balloting closes June 1, 1934. Awards will be announced as soon thereafter as results can be verified.

A ballot has been provided on this page, convenient in size for pasting on a one-cent postcard.

In it you will find a few questions that will help us to get better acquainted. However, your vote will not be invalidated by your failure to answer all the questions incorporated in the ballot. Vote now!

"Burns and Allen"—"Amos and Andy"—whose name will appear in the space allotted on the silver medal (of which the above is a fac-simile of the design) to be awarded the winning team? Is YOUR candidate near the top?

LEAH RAY

As She Appears Under the MIKEroscope

By Lee Mortimer

LEAH RAY is next to Baby Rose Marie, one of radio's youngest stars. She was born nineteen years ago in Norfolk, Virginia, and has a cute Southern accent to substantiate the fact.

Ambition as a kid led her to want to be a literary critic. She was most enthused about Dickens and Thackeray. But now she's glad she didn't pursue the pen, because she makes as much on one radio broadcast as most literary critics make in a year.

When seventeen years old she was taken by her mother to Los Angeles, where she was to finish school. She was all prepared to enroll in the Hollywood High School on a Monday, when on the previous Friday her uncle, who is in the music business, introduced her to Phil Harris. This was when Harris played at the Coconut Grove. Phil needed a girl singer. Leah used to sing at parties, so she asked for an audition. After hearing her voice Phil hired her. Her first salary was $50 a week. So it transpired that the world lost a literary critic.

Greatest thrill in her life came when Harris brought her to New York. Frequently she had visited the big town as a kid; always had dreamed of the day when she'd live there.

Leah likes to knit. Sweaters and mufflers are her passion. She also reads, and adores music, but her hours in the Palais Royal, the Broadway night club where she's appearing, prevent her from visiting opera or concert hall.

Tremendous appetite makes her eat everything she can get. Mother tries to keep her in check because overeating affects her weight. She's just right now for her five feet, six inches in height, weighing 120 pounds, but if she ever lets go she might blow up like a mountain. Candy, nuts and pop-corn are her special weakness.

Leah is a happy child; has absolutely no dislikes. She goes in for extreme styles in clothes and hats, but wears only black and white. Once in a while her accessories are in pastel shades. Her hobby is collecting hair-ribbons in all colors and patterns. She usually wears hair-ribbons in public. It makes her look cute. She likes all fussy things.

Her only real love affair came when she was in high school. It's all over now. Leah prefers tall men, but has no set ideas about their complexions. Blonds, brunettes—they're all the same to her, despite the fact that her own hair is black. She doesn't care how old the men are, either, just so long as they are companionable and do not jar her. But she's never going to marry. She'd rather work.

Leah has regular habits, and keeps a strict routine. Never does she smoke or drink; she gets to bed immediately after the show. "I'm just a hillbilly at heart," she insists. She prefers dancing almost to anything in the world; gets a dreamy look in her lovely dark eyes when she dances.

Leah is a sound sleeper; never snores; sleeps in pajamas, pink ones. Her undies are simple, usually plain white. She likes costume jewelry and diamonds.

Ambition drives her continually. She'd like to work in pictures; appeared in "Bedtime Story" with Chevalier, and has made a few shorts. She got a kick when she saw "Bob Hope and Leah Ray in 'Going Spanish'" advertised in lights on Broadway; laughed for a full day after seeing the sign. "Can you imagine me in lights!" she said to herself again and again.

Her favorite movie actress is Joan Crawford, but she has no favorite man. She loves them all. Hardly ever does she listen to the radio. She's crazy about animals, but living in a big New York hotel allows her to have no pets. She compromises with a big, stuffed dog which she keeps in her room.

About one thing is she set: She doesn't want to settle down. She is heartfree at the present time, and likes it. She doesn't pet. "That's kid stuff," she says.

MUSEUM NOVELTIES IN CONTEST

AMONG the thousands of solutions received in the recent $10,000 Radio Stations Trail Puzzle contest, are many remarkable novelties, some so clever that they deserve public exhibition.

One is made in the form of a midjet radio set. Where the loudspeaker would be, the trail is pasted. On each side is an illuminated, working dial. When turned, one dial reveals the call-letters and the number of times each letter was used in the solution; the other gives stations and their locations. Another is in the form of a miniature billboard. This is illuminated too; the trail is invisible until hidden lights are turned on to reveal it. The letters and stations are shown on one side, while a flashing sign advises: "your puzzle is easily solved when you consult RADIO GUIDE for your favorite programs."

Locations of stations are ingeniously indicated in one entry which takes the form of a relief map of the United States. Other forms include an imitation box-microphone, a hand-carved fan and a revolving lamp-shade.

Meanwhile, an augmented staff works overtime separating and classifying the solutions.

No matter how clever or ingenious the novelty, it will not assist in the winning of a prize if the solution fails to comply with the requirements laid down for all contestants, correctness, the assemblage of stations of the highest power and neatness.

The 157 cash prizes will be awarded by a Board of Judges consisting of the following outstanding citizens: Major-General Roy D. Keehn, Chairman; Mrs. Ernest Byfield, Dr. Preston Bradley, Mr. H. L. Kaufman and Judge Joseph Sabath.
