IT'S UP TO YOU!

TODAY'S radio is based on a get-together of those who, on the one hand, care enough about their radio fare to let others know of it, and those who, on the other side of the bargain, want to please the greatest number of people.

This listener - sponsor get-together is accomplished by radio polls and elections. One way these polls are handled is for the radio editors to tell their own opinions. Such polls, soliciting votes from radio editors only, are the New York World-Telegram and the Hearst Editors' polls. The other way is more troublesome, but more effective: it is to go to the listeners themselves, learning their preferences, their desires. And the greatest poll of this sort is the annual RADIO GUIDE Star of Stars Election.

The 252 editors who voted in the most recent World-Telegram poll think tomorrow's radio will drift away from participation in the program by the studio audience; toward a greater appreciation of classical music. They think Jack Benny the greatest star on the air; Guy Lombardo the best light orchestra conductor; Kate Smith the finest feminine popular singer; Nelson Eddy the greatest male classical singer. But the listeners themselves are not in agreement in every case. They have shown that in the early voting in the Star of Stars election. Perhaps you do not agree with these radio editors at all.

If you don't, your opportunity to do something about it is here—now! The way to do it is to vote in the greatest listener poll ever conducted—the RADIO GUIDE Star of Stars Election. That will be your contribution to the radio of the future. Vote today—for greater enjoyment tomorrow!

Kinks and Queens

BY

GLADYS OAKS

DO YOU have those blue nights when you lie awake hour after hour, wondering why you acted like a fool at just the time you wanted to make a hit? Do you look enviously at girls not a bit prettier or smarter than yourself, and have to watch them grabbing off the prizes you never win?

Lady, have you a "kink"?

Well, if you have some personality failing, you're in distinguished company. The first four up-and-coming radio stars we queried each confessed she'd had just such a self-handicap to overcome before she could get her stride. And here's their testimony:

If you have a mother or sister or aunt who's the most popular woman for miles around, it's easy to want to be like her. If you put in your time imitating her, instead of trying to "be yourself," the tale of Lucy Monroe should show you a lesson.

Lucy is the daughter of a famous actress, Anna Laughlin, one of the most famous soubrettes of America's last generation.

Lucy is a tall girl, her poise and serenity crowned with red-gold hair. But when she was younger, her loveliness never satisfied her, because she was always comparing it with her mother's quick, gay, brunet beauty. When she was quite young, singing lessons developed a resilient, sweet soprano that made her teachers talk of concert and opera. But Lucy didn't listen. She'd always dreamed of a success in musical comedy—like her mother's. So she went after a job in Ziegfeld's "Follies," and for a year was a glorified chorus girl.

ANNA wasn't satisfied. She knew Lucy had unusual talent, and with all her heart she wanted to help her. "I'll write the managers I know," she said. "Pull always helps!"

But in this case pull was a boomerang. "If you've anyone famous in your family, don't take his introductions to prospective bosses," advises Lucy. "They hate to see you because you're sent by someone to whom they're obligated. They decide beforehand you must be no good!"

Still, Lucy was so pretty and her voice so appealing that she landed several small parts in musical shows. Fred Stone heard her, and asked her to try out for "Criss Cross." Whenever she had a chance like that, Lucy would spur herself on by conjuring up visions of Anna in her heyday. She knows now that was why she got small parts instead of big parts.

Lucy is a cheerful girl, but during those years in musical comedy she wasn't herself. She was unhappy because of that.

The day she heard "Criss Cross" was going to close, she came home blue as indigo. There'd be tryouts again, waiting around in managers' offices, letters of introduction.

HER mother came in from shopping, her arms full of bundles. There was something lost-looking about the girl sitting by the window.

"I met your old singing teacher on the street," Anna told Lucy, dropping things anywhere. "He says it's a shame you're wasting yourself in musical comedy."

So began the talk that has changed the whole course of Lucy Monroe's life. "I've thought and thought about it," said Anna. "You've gone about your work the wrong way. You must stop trying to be like I was. I must never give you another letter. You must never tell another soul in the profession you're my daughter."

"And she was right," Lucy told me. "To try to be like another person is to stand convicted of inferiority in your own eyes."

So from then on, Lucy tried only for serious engagements. And because she was being herself, the way ahead wasn't long. In 1933 she was starred in popular classics at the Hippodrome, as "Marguerite" and "Juliet" and "Nedda." Then radio! Now she is so well established that her old kink has ceased to be painful.

Dolly Dawn, who sounds so gay when you hear her with George Hall's orchestra, was once all crippled up with a kink that's even more common than Lucy Monroe's. If the very mention of looking for a job sends a shiver coursing down your spine, there's real psychological treasure for you in this tale of a girl who got over that fear.

"People told me I was silly to be scared of applying for jobs," said Dolly. "They'd say that the boss needed me as much as I did him. But it was pretty hard for me to believe."

But there is a way to gain poise when you face a potential boss. George Hall showed it to Dolly.

Dolly is a little Italian girl, born in Newark, and christened Theresa Ana Maria Stabile. Singing and dancing

WHEN you feel like calling an Arkansan a hillbilly—smile. Then play it safe and call him a mountaineer instead.

The folks from high in the Ozarks and the Ouachitas don't relish the hill-billy name.

Chester ("Chet") Lauck and Norris ("Toughy") Goff (Lum and Abner of the Coast-to-Coast airlines) know all about the singular sensitiveness of citizens in the commonwealth of Arkansas. They have a keen insight into the philosophy that lies behind it. They know what it means, from personal experience, to be held up to national ridicule. They don't want to ridicule anybody at any time.

Much of the success of one of radio's permanent hit programs you can readily trace to this deep-rooted understanding of the genuine Arkansas character and philosophy—with which the program deals for fifteen minutes, five nights a week.

"We just don't think it's square-shooting to cudge a national chuckle at the expense of somebody's feelings down in Arkansas," remarks tall, lanky Chet Lauck, running a thin hand through jet-black hair which curls a bit wildly despite meticulous brushing. "What's more, to picture our Arkansas friends as nitwits or oafs just wouldn't be authentic.

"We're willing to sacrifice a bit of humor any day for a bit of realism. We try to make our program amusing through the situations we build up, rather than through the ignorance or obtuseness of any character. That's how we started building five years ago, and—we gloat a little when we recall how we stuck to it."

A bit of gloating is pardonable. In the five-year radio life of the Lum and Abner show, the boys have proved their point. Nowadays people are laughing with them instead of at them. They are riding high. Proof: They have just been handed a contract renewal, calling for an additional year and a half under present sponsorship, which will net them a joint salary that makes the income-tax collectors lie awake at night.

THE native of Arkansas is no dumb-bell," you are earnestly informed by half-pint-sized Toughy Goff. One look at his jutting jaw explains his nickname, and his shoulders are broad enough to carry his full share of the burden of authoring and acting in the skit.

"Northerners dropping into Pine Ridge may consider the native illiterate," says Toughy, "and comparatively speaking, he may be. But he knows everything he needs to know. He's entirely contented. He can tell when and where the hunting is best. He knows how to care for his game when he gets it. He never goes hungry. If he must dig a well, he knows where to start digging.

"He may not be sure who occupies the White House just now, and he may cast a vote for Lum for president—as Lum hoped some would after the "campaign" we broadcast last Fall. But in dickering for a swap, he'll probably skin a northerner seventeen ways from Sunday. Why, there are more David Harums down there than in David's own Kentucky. They're strictly honest, those hill folks, but they're shrewd."

Shrewd, Mr. Goff? Ah, who are we to argue with you—you, with your many-figured contract in your pocket, and every prospect of another when that expires? Shrewd it is.

The team started by observing a basic principle, which is to know your subject thoroughly. Both were born on the pine-clad slopes of the Ouachita Mountains, in the vicinity of Mena, a county seat town of 4,000 persons in western Arkansas. It isn't far from Bob Burns' beloved Van Buren; and Mena, by the way, is the county seat of the Lum and Abner show.

CHET is thirty-four years old, married to a belle of Hot Springs, and the father of Shirley May, eight, and Nancy Jean, three. Norris is thirty. He took his bride in good old Mena, and has a three-year-old son named Gary, who is trying to qualify for his dad's nickname—Toughy. The present-day Lum and Abner are correct sartorially, versed in the ways of big business, and distinctly urban as to outlook and mode of living.

Their route to success wasn't long, but it wasn't smooth, either. The boys played hooky together in Mena, studied occasionally and were set down as pretty awful in the school plays—their first taste of dramatics. Lauck then wound up a brief but hectic tussle with higher education at the University of Arkansas. He left just in time to avoid being asked to leave. He essayed to edit the college humor magazine, and his pen, as the dean saw it, was a trifle too trenchant.

Meanwhile Goff spent two years at the University of Oklahoma, all in a spirit of good, clean fun, then returned to Mena to become a wholesale grocer. His palship with Chet Lauck was resumed, and there was born the firm of Lum and Abner—without benefit of contract or sponsor, but with a radio story idea and a conviction that it was sound and saleable.

How the boys appeared nine times on KTHS at Hot Springs as guest "artists," met modest success, hurried on to Chicago and were laughed down by a prospective sponsor when they asked $350 a week between them, is known to the nation-wide army of Lum and Abner fans. How they "took it on the chin" and came back for more is another story.

"We knew we had something," Chet Lauck starts off, with a reminiscent look in his dark eyes and a natural drawl rivaling Lum's radio diction. "We knew it even when we were ridiculed and told we'd never go over. Folks with long radio and stage experience told us that, and it was tough for a couple of yokels with hay in with—

tioned every actress we could locate. They all sounded the same. That is to say, different. Different from the women of Pine Ridge. If the listeners accepted any of those characters as authentic, they'd simply have to believe that we were phonies."

"So we had to leave the femmes right out of the script," Lauck went on, in mock sadness. "We faced a dreary future—with no sex appeal!"

Other artists might have considered it advisable to ease up on the authenticity and inject a strictly synthetic Pine Ridge woman for the story's sake. Not so Lum and Abner.

"The native friendliness of rural America is appealing in itself. The simple philosophy of the Arkansas hills, genuine and unadorned, is very interesting."

THEY convene each afternoon. Lum stretches his legs beneath a typewriter table. Abner dangles his short legs from a straight-back chair tilted against the wall at a perilous angle. They stare at each other.

"There's no place in our script, obviously, for gags and wise-cracks," Lum points out. "The Arkansas folks don't make them. We make a serious effort to re-create living characters in the territory where we were born.

"We think of our good friend Dick Huddleston, the Pine Ridge storekeeper."

If you aren't aware of it, Pine Ridge pertinently inquire, could anyone else make their characterizations true to Arkansas?

"They're friendly people down our way, honest and sincere, and they give a stranger a right hearty welcome," Toughy explains. "But they just don't open up and act natural before 'foreigners.' A New York author, for instance, might spend months down there and come away with a definite slant on the folks. But it wouldn't be ours, and it wouldn't be right."

DO THEY overdraw their characters—make them more amusing or unique than they are in real life?

"Huh, we have to underdraw them," laughs Chet. "If we pictured them true to life in every instance, folks would think we were kidding them. Even the Pine Ridgers wouldn't recognize some of their own antics."

"Take Grandpappy Spears. He's one of the few characters whose real names we use. Well, we got him to come into Pine Ridge for his first visit when they had a celebration changing the town's name. If we put on the air the bewildered remarks he made when he got into and out of the hotel elevator—with some difficulty—the listeners would say it was strictly the old hokum."

They are busy young men, Lum and Abner. Broadcasting and rebroadcasting five nights a week; making personal stage appearances through the Winter week-ends; considering movie offers. Abner has a fourteen-acre estate in San Fernando Valley and Lum's home is in Beverly Hills.

But when the chance presents itself, they hie themselves down to the Ouachita Mountains and mingle with the folks. It's good fun, and it enables them to keep their story in the right vein. And it is this very mania for authenticity which assures them a royal home-coming welcome.

Toughy Goff recently returned from one such excursion. He hobnobbed with Dick and Grandpappy and the others on a hunting trip. He eschewed "store clothes," lest the home folks think him uppish. He came back with a state-published tourist brochure and proudly pointed out this paragraph:

"Elbert Hubbard once accused Opie Reed of advertising Arkansas 'by the left hand,' and closed the subject with 'Oh, Fie, Opie!' While we Arkansans bitterly resent Opie Reed's 'Arkansas Hill Billy' stories, we listen to the dramatization of our mountaineer characters by Lum and Abner with amused interest and appreciation."

Chet and Toughy are sure nothing is so sweet as appreciation at home. Soon, they'll have all the money they want. Then, if the city virus hasn't got them, they reckon they'll go right back to Arkansas and just be folksy.

Lum 'n' Abner may be heard Monday through Friday over an NBC network at 7:30 p.m. EST (6:30 CST; 5:30 MST; 4:30 PST). And later for the West Coast at 8:15 p.m. PST (9:15 MST). Except Thursday.

was a town named Waters until local pride, fostered by the Lum and Abner programs, changed it to conform to the script!

"Huddleston in real life, just like in our broadcasts, is a genial, loveable confidant of everybody in the community. He has a little more 'learnin' than the average citizen. So, among other duties, he reads the paper to a group of cronies in his store each evening. And he writes an occasional letter for a grateful friend."

Toughy breaks in again.

"Sometimes," he grins, "Dick is asked to write up an order to a mail order house for one of his own customers, calling for some article which he may have right on his shelves. He does it willingly, for he understands that these people love to get packages by mail. Makes 'em feel important."

Well, the boys get an idea, and Lum writes it down. Maybe it's a one-night incident, oftener it blossoms into material for a week or two. But they never work far ahead in preparing the script. And they never even considered hiring an author. How, they their hair to stand up and argue. But we knew if we didn't put it across with the original idea we were sunk. What we had to have—but found so hard to get—was a long-enough engagement to show listeners what we were trying to do.

"Why, one criticism was that we didn't have any women characters. Without a sex angle, the experts told us, shaking their heads—"

"Yeah," Toughy Goff interrupts, derisively, "and try to get some women into our Pine Ridge routine. We were almost sold on that suggestion ourselves. For a solid week we audi-

AS I TOLD you last week, when I was seventeen years old I made those twin discoveries which have meant heartbreak for so many American girls—yes, and boys as well.

Simultaneously I found that the one thing I wanted to do in the world was sing, and that if I wanted to sing I must take up a course in Europe, which I couldn't afford.

I thought there was no hope.

Then our family went back to Massillon to visit and, walking down the street one afternoon, I bumped into my old principal from the high school there, Dr. Gorrell. He remembered me and we passed the time of day. "By the way, Rose," he asked me, "are you still interested in singing?"

"More than anything else in the world," I answered fervently.

"In that case," he told me, "you should find out about the Curtis Institute. Marcella Sembrich is a teacher there, and if you could possibly get to study with her, that would be the greatest thing in your life."

That was the first time I had ever heard that we had any great music schools in America. Possibly this is the first time you have heard of it, too. If it is, take heart right now, for we have some of the finest music schools in the world right here in our own United States. I'm giving you a list of them up above.

I'm picking the Curtis Institute to talk about, myself, simply because it's the one I know most about.

"Would they take me?" I wondered. "Marcella Sembrich is there. Could it really give me as good a musical education as I could get in Italy?" There was only one thing to do—find out.

By accident I learned that Horatio Connell, who was also teaching at Curtis, had classes at Chautauqua, New York, during the Summer. Chautauqua was within my reach. It was only sixty miles from Buffalo. I wrote a letter to Mr. Connell, asking him if he would give me an audition, and my brother and my mother drove down with me.

When we got there I had another of my stage-fright panics. I didn't want to sing. Why should I? I had failed in everything, and I would only fail again. What was the use? I felt like jumping into the lake. But my mother had a lengthy talk with me, and finally we knocked on the door of his studio.

MR. CONNELL looked at me and was so kindly and gentle with me from the start, so sweet in his approach and so understanding of all that I was going through, that I managed to sing "The Star," by James Rogers, for him. When I finished he asked me:

"What was your idea in coming to me for an audition?"

"I'd like to go to the Curtis Institute, if they'll have me," I said earnestly.

AN ALL-AMERICAN SINGER'S

He didn't say that I had a magnificent voice, or the most marvelous voice in the world. Only when he had found out that I knew I needed more study and was willing to work did he say, "Your voice has fine possibilities. You have good quality and you have musicianship." Never was I so grateful for the family background which was responsible for that "musicianship"! He said he would accept me.

WE drove back to Buffalo, and I packed my clothes, went back to Chautauqua and found myself a room. If you don't know about it, a whole colony of people meet at Chautauqua, New York, every Summer to study. There are lecture courses, dance groups, classes in writing and painting, orchestras—everything. I found a nice room in a boarding-house and there I was—alone for the first time in my life, and so homesick I didn't know what to do! Two things to which you must become accustomed if you want to become a singer: Loneliness and hard work. There were two lonely studios up on a hill. They were just shacks. I used to practise there. Many times I would stand at the window and cry and cry. I had to learn everything all over again, you see. I had to begin singing exercises once more. Right in the middle of them, often, I would burst into tears. I practised three solid hours a day—a lot, for a singer—doing nothing but vocalizing. The rest of the time I worked as a cashier in the hotel to try to earn enough to pay for my lessons.

Only at the end of six weeks did Mr. Connell let me sing a song for him; a German lieder.

Then I asked him the fateful question: "Do you think I have enough talent to make it worth while for me to go on with my studying?"

"Yes, I do," Mr. Connell said kindly.

I sent in my application to the Curtis Institute at once.

In just a moment I shall describe my audition there to show you what you must expect if you have one. But I want to pause here to point out a very important truth which you must remember. These advanced schools are for students who have already studied music, not for beginners, and they can accept only thirty or forty newcomers at a time. Just as I did, partly in my earlier work and partly at Chautauqua, you must prepare yourself for a school before you go there.

How? Will it cost you a lot of money? Where will you go to do it? Those are the questions you will want me to answer. I shall try to do that.

FIRST, you must have a musical background. The best way to get it is to come from a musical family, so that you absorb it through your pores, as it were, without ever having to think of it. But not everyone comes of a musical family. Then the only thing for you to do is get it through study.

Under the heading of study come several things. Your musical history, your biographies of great musicians and singers you can get at your local library. Read everything you can find.

Musical theory, sight reading, composition, an instrument (you should learn to play the piano if nothing else) you can get at high school, if you are still young enough to be in school, or at night school otherwise. If the high school in your city does not give evening classes, there must be a WPA artists' project somewhere near you, with music teachers attached to it. Enroll in one of those classes.

Finally, you will want a teacher of your own. Do not be afraid that the lessons will cost too much. Any music teacher worth having will take you at a price you can afford, if you tell him honestly what that price is and if he thinks you are worth teaching. (If you should become famous, he would make a fortune, because other students will flock to him!) Perhaps the high school music teacher nearest you will give you lessons. Perhaps you will prefer the WPA music teacher. Or you may want to find someone else.

TO DO that do not merely ask your friends to recommend someone, but listen to a couple of the teacher's pupils. You can judge by results. If their voices are terrible you certainly don't want your voice ruined too. If on the other hand they are good, it is logical to assume that the teacher is good.

How are you to judge? In this day of radio, when all we need to do is turn a switch to have the most glorious voices of our time flood into our homes, your taste ought to be as good as anyone's. You learn to know beautiful voices by hearing singers sing. You shouldn't begin to sing until you are sixteen years old. You should go on with your regular schoolwork. I feel, and get a good cultural background as well as a musical background. I add this by way of caution. After all, you will never become a great singer unless you become a great person as well. Too much specialization at too early an age is fatal. Your aim is to become a great person, a great interpreter; and you will never reach your goal unless you have a well-rounded experience of life. Is it possible to learn to sing without a teacher, without instruction of any kind? No. There are breathing exercises and vocalizing exercises which you can run through by yourself, and in my final article I shall tell you some of them which have proved of value to me, but you must find a teacher. One near you will be good enough for a beginning.

Study with that teacher until the teacher thinks, and you think, and your friends think you are ready to go on to advanced work. Then—and not until then will it be wise for you to do it—you may write to the Curtis Institute or the Juilliard School or the Eastman School or any of the others and ask for an audition.

Just so that you'll know what it will feel like when you finally get ready for your audition, here is a description of mine, as I remember it. I had written to the Institute, and a letter came from Philadelphia saying that I might come and sing. My whole family turned out—my father, this time, as well as my mother and brother—and drove me to Philadelphia. I didn't know how we'd be feeling on our way home, and I suspected the worst, so I insisted that we enjoy ourselves and have as much fun as we could on the way down from Buffalo. None of us had ever seen Philadelphia, and that made it exciting. Finally we got there—and this time it was my dad, not Rose, who got stage fright! All of a sudden he decided he did not want his darling daughter to become a painted woman of the stage. So my brother had to keep him downstairs in the lobby of the hotel while Mother and I slipped out and went to the audition. My mother asked me, "How did it go?" I really didn't know. Conrad Thibault was waiting too, and after a minute someone came out and spoke to him and he said, "I made it!" A half-hour went by. I think it was the longest half-hour I have ever known—and it will be your longest half-hour, I assure you! But at last the door opened again and I had my word. I was to be accepted as a pupil along with Conrad. They asked me whom I wanted for a teacher and I said I should like Mr. Connell. My original thought had been to ask for Sembrich, but I felt that Mr. Connell knew my voice and so I asked for him.

Meanwhile, back at the hotel my father had found out that Mother and I weren't in our room and guessed where we had gone. He came storming in, saying he didn't want his daughter to be a singer. But Miss Spofford, the dean of women, wrapped him around her little finger and in a few minutes he was beaming—as happy as we were!

sing on the corner to entertain anybody, or on front porches to entertain the girls. They sang those hum-hum songs. Like "Honey."

They thought they were pretty good. So did the home folks. At parties the boys always harmonized. Death was far away then.

That was in 1928—the year of money magic and financial voodooism. 1928! Herbert Hoover had just been elected president! A new deal meant just another card game. It was the age of gilt and giddiness. Prosperity was everyman's bedfellow and poverty was a horrid word. America was doped with false wealth, duped by false prophets and was dancing drunkenly to the hypnotic beats of tom-toms.

Dan Landt was 27. Karl Landt was 21. Jack was 16. Dan, a serious fellow, painted houses for a living. Karl taught chemistry. Jack studied chemistry. Just three run-of-the-mill brothers, loving and laughing, quarreling and singing—and fighting among themselves as all brothers will do until some common enemy comes, and then they fight together. "All for one and one for all." Yes, they were just ordinary brothers.

But they could sing and plunk a ukelele. You remember the type—there are brothers like that in every makes me feel clean. You know what I mean."

He had a Negro friend who batted a battered old piano in a roadhouse and the Negro taught Howard to play.

"Just put yo' hands heah and push on de keys," coached the Negro.

Howard put his hands there and pushed. Music came. He was a natural musician. He couldn't read a word of music. He played mostly in minor keys, improvising the bass notes as whim and fancy directed.

"I hit the black keys most of the time."

Most of the way he hit the black keys and the music he coaxed out just fitted the hum-hum "Honey" melody of the Landt brothers.

So it started—three brothers, a house-painter, a chemist, a student—and a baker! Howard and the brothers were asked to sing over Scranton's stations WGBI and WQAM. Folks listened when they were on the air.

"That's the Landt Trio and White," folks in Scranton said as they tuned in. "Pretty good, eh?"

They had a way about them—they could do things to music. A boom-boom here, a hum-hum there—a pater between times and the boys lifted a ditty, made it a thing of joy. And all the time Howard was just hitting the black keys.

A few pennies were earned over the home-town stations and those few pennies put big ideas in the heads of the Four Musketeers. Why, they reasoned, they got paid for singing and always they had sung for fun! In-

comes to a minstrel

THIS is another tale of two cities and Four Musketeers—"all for one and one for all"—three brothers and a comrade who traveled together as wandering minstrels up the highroad to fame, although death pointed to detours and fate dug enough pits to have crushed the spirits of less valiant men.

And finally when they reached the peak of the highroad and found the world was beating a pathway to their door, it was death that rapped the loudest at their portals.

Death was the only thing the Landt brothers and Howard White couldn't lick.

This tale of two cities and the wandering balladeers, the musical musketeers, begins around the hearth of a home in Scranton, Pa. There are many houses in Scranton like it. There is a porch and vines in the Summer-time. But this house really was different. The Landt boys lived there.

Everybody in town knew the Landt boys. There were Dan and Karl and Jack. They used to sit around the fire and sing just to entertain themselves and their parents. Or they would town—plunk-plunking a ukelele and singing those hum-hum "Honey" songs at all the socials—kissing in the dark and singing in the light.

Howard White knew the boys, of course. Howard was 26. He ran a bakery—cooked bread and pies. There was a lot of money in bakeries in 1928. There was money in everything in 1928. Sometimes the Landt boys would drop around and see Howard and they would sing a bit for him.

Howard always liked music. "It does things to me," he said. "It makes me feel good and, and—well, it credible! They figured they had something. A lot of folks thought they had something in 1928!

"Let's go to New York," said Dan. "We haven't got much money," said Howard.

"It's a big town," cautioned Karl. "Aw, let's go and try it," echoed Jack. He was just a boy, remember.

They had $400 between them—$100 for each of the musketeers, and they agreed to share and share alike—"all for one and one for all."

"We'll go up or down together," they vowed. "We'll stick together."

We'll show 'em. And we'll slay 'em!"

So they went around and shook hands with their townsmen, walked down Main Street, got on a train, went away.

That closed the first part of this tale of two cities. For the Landt Trio and White were coming to the Big Town! To New York!

Hurry up, old train—we're going to Broadway—up the highroad together. There was music in their hearts. Death seemed so far away then. But a lot of things seemed far away in 1928!

THE next day the tale of the big city began. But the houses in New York do not have porches and vines. And musical young men can not very well hum-hum "Honey" on the corners to girls—without being told to shut up. Scranton and New York are in the same country, but they're not the same.

The boys didn't get a job the first day, or the second, or the third. The same old story—round after round of theatrical offices—the same old story, "Sorry, nothing today."

However, the Landt boys and Howard were not the kind to mope and grumble and just sit still until fortune beckoned.

"The devil with all these offices," said Dan, the house-painter. "Let's try something else."

The St. Regis Hotel was being built. A lot of things were being built in 1928. Vincent Lopez was to be master of ceremonies at the hotel's opening. So the Four Musketeers tramped right up to Lopez and asked for work.

"What's your act?" asked Vincent. "We harmonize," said the minstrels.

When Vincent heard them, he asked quickly:

"How much do you want to sing for me?"

The Four Musketeers had $7 between them. Four men in New York in 1928 with only $7!

Vincent didn't know that. The Musketeers talked it over among themselves.

"Let's ask for a lot," said Dan, the house-painter. "Don't let him think we're cheap."

They asked Vincent for $250 a week. The bandmaster blinked his eyes in amazement. The boys feared they had asked too much. Vincent jumped at the chance—singers like that for $250 a week in New York in 1928!

Everything looked all right to the Musketeers, however, and then the ceiling fell in. Literally. The bottom had fallen out of business and now the roof of the hotel fell in. The boys got it both ways—from the bottom and the top. Naturally, the opening of the hotel was postponed.

"You boys should try radio," suggested Vincent. "Go down to NBC. Ask for an audition."

THEY got one. Howard White began pushing in the black keys and the Landt boys began hum-humming one of those patter songs that make you feel good.

A commercial buyer of radio time just happened to be in the studio and heard them.

"What would they work for?" they were asked.

So surprised were the Four Musketeers that they stalled a bit. Then they did a very wise thing—they signed a contract with NBC, and five days later a cigarette sponsor bought the act.

It was a long way from the front porch at Scranton to the New York studios of NBC. The world was too good, almost. Sure, the depression had come. There were breadlines and suicides. But death was a stranger to the boys.

"All for one and one for all," they said, and the world applauded. Quickly, their fame spread. They were on an early morning program—"Morning Showers."

For eight years they sang on the morning program.

Soon they became the busiest trio on the air. Their programs called for work on Mondays and Wednesdays over station WEAF, and again over the same station on Sundays. Then there was the Monday-Wednesday-Friday assignment over WJZ.

The Landt boys sent back to Scranton for their mother and father and sister, and the Four Musketeers bought a house in Jackson Heights, Long Island. They all lived together. Every morning they got up at 5 o'clock and reached the studio at 6:45 for an

They had expected it. That was fine, the brothers said. It still would be "all for one and one for all."

So Howard married and moved away from the house, but he still pushed down the black keys and the little group was not divided.

Soon afterwards, Don married.

"Life is like that," said Karl to Jack.

"Sure. Our turn next," said Jack.

Dan bought a cabin in New Jersey and he and his bride spent much time there. The Four Musketeers bought a 35-foot cruiser and they all stayed aboard when possible, fishing and singing. It was a happy family. The Four Musketeers—and two brides.

Howard was very proud when he told his comrades there soon would be a baby at his house. That was in 1935.

The baby was dead at birth.

Up to then, death had seemed so ard White still pushed down the black keys and the brothers hummed to millions.

A few weeks ago, the brothers missed rehearsal for the first time. For Howard White's heart, still heavy with tragedy, had failed. Death had taken him away too. And the Musketeers became three.

Yes, the brothers found another pianist. And their music still is in great demand. Tragedy has made them mellow. Death has been their companion for two years.

They do not like to talk about Howard.

"His widow will never want," they said slowly. "You know how it is. Howard was one of us. Of course, we'll keep on going. It'll still be 'all for one and one for all.'"

"So the Four Musketeers have become three," I said softly to them.

The Landt Trio (left to right): Karl, Jack and Dan. They had only $7 when they asked $250 a week to sing in New York hour's rehearsal. Never were they late. They were good craftsmen—the Four Musketeers, the kind of fellows you can depend on.

They rigged up a radio studio at home with microphones and a public address system with loudspeakers in every room. Nearly every afternoon, they rehearsed their songs. The Landt parents were the only audience.

Things moved along very well indeed.

Then one day Howard told the brothers he was going to be married.

far away. The blow staggered Howard. He kept right on pushing the black keys. But his heart was heavy.

Two months later Dan's baby was born—dead.

The Four Musketeers worked harder. Work is good for men who are sad. They had hitched their wagon to a star, and the star was shining brightly. The world had beaten a pathway to their door. And found crepe there. But their music hadn't changed. Maybe there was more tenderness in their hum-hum "Honey" harmony, but How-

"That's a nice idea," said Karl. "A tender idea. I always liked that book about the Musketeers. We read a lot, especially since Howard has gone. Have you any suggestion for a good book?"

"Yes," I was walking away as I said it. "I suggest 'All the Brothers were Valiant.'"

The Landt Trio may be heard on Saturdays on the Universal Rhythm program over an NBC network at 7 p.m. EST (6 CST; 5 MST; 4 PST).

of the Masters

BY CARLETON SMITH

Artist of the Week
DUSOLINA GIANNINI

IF YOU happen to be in any European capital when she sings, you'll find her name in letters ten times as high as those announcing the opera, and five hours after her appearance is billed, every seat will be sold. Along with Gigli, Dusolina Giannini is Europe's favorite quest-singer. Certainly no other American singer today has the faithful following or receives the same serious attention on European operatic stages. In fact, only one other American is so widely celebrated in European music circles—and that is the great contralto, Marian Anderson, who seldom sings in opera.

Miss Giannini was born in Philadelphia and received her entire musical education in this country. She was taught first by her father, who had been a tenor of note and had sung in opera with Adelina Patti. The little black-haired girl in pig-tails was completely unconscious of her potentialities, however, until the late Marcella Sembrich heard her sing and took her to New York to study.

Public recognition was slow after her successful debut substituting for Anna Case, and even today the name of Giannini is none too well known by her fellow countrymen. Her exemplary musicianship and fine sense of style are perhaps not so highly appreciated here because of the fact that, in singing a variety of roles from Carmen to Donna Anna, she has "focused" her voice too sharply. It is therefore often brilliant and piercing rather than glowing and beautiful. But, for the discriminating, Miss Giannini reveals a sincerity and depth of understanding of the music she sings that place her in a class by herself.

(You will hear Miss Giannini on the Sunday Evening Hour, Sunday, April 4, 9 p.m. EST.)

The mail-bag has been chuck-full of your letters filled with highly interesting comment on a variety of subjects:

FIRST, regarding LAWRENCE TIBBETT:

Miss A. Godson of Toronto reminds me that our most gifted baritone has sung in Canada and that his appearance as Don Juan de Manara next June in Covent Garden will not be his first appearance outside his native land, as I wrote a few weeks ago. Miss Godson is right, I simply fell a victim of the easy habit of considering Canada and the United States one country and forgetting that the boundary between is an international one. I myself have heard Mr. Tibbett sing in Canada and that is an experience I could not forget. Miss Godson says, further, that "Mr. Tibbett is a fine actor as well as singer, and I cannot understand why his last pictures Metropolitan, and Under Your Spell, were not hits. The singing, surely, was glorious in each."

And it was. But the movies, no matter how many singers succeed in them, are primarily a medium of visual, not aural, entertainment. The audiences want to be delighted by an entertaining and believable story. Mr. Tibbett has simply been unfortunate in the plots selected for him. I am told that, during the filming of Under Your Spell, he offered a substantial sum of money to be allowed to retire from the production. But that wasn't possible.

So many complex forces go into the making of movies that an individual artist is at the mercy of forces entirely beyond his control. To a large degree, the success of every movie star depends upon others than himself.

Remember, Miss Moore had three flat failures before her big success. Her singing was not much improved in that film, One Night of Love. As a matter of fact, her voice had actually dwindled in size since her first pictures, as had her figure. But recording technique was better . . . and, as much by accident as anything else, she happened to be the heroine of a story that the public liked and wanted to believe: a poor girl, and an American, arrived, overcoming every obstacle hungry for the Rosenkavalier. Won't you ask somebody to play those waltzes."

Here's your chance to please a lady, gentlemen. But it will cost you good money. If there's one reason more than another why the Strauss music is not heard, it's because the royalties are very high . . . and neither sponsors nor radio networks like to spend any more money than they must for the privilege of playing music and in that, no doubt, they are much like the rest of us!

THIRD, about ORGAN MUSIC:

Mrs. R. A. Shreve, of Carbondale, Illinois, says there is not sufficient serious organ music on the air: "We never hear the Chorale Preludes of Bach, the master works of Cesar Franck for the most complete of all instruments. Is there no spot in the day for such music?"

There should be, and the only outstanding network series I know is that of Charles Courboin over the Mutual network. The distinguished Belgian organist gave a fine memorial program last week of the works of Charles Marie Widor, who died in March at the age of 93, after a long and distinguished career.

Maurice Marechal is making a trans-continental tour next season and should be heard over the microphone. For that matter, we have many fine organists of our own. It would be simple enough to pick up a vespers service from any of the great cathedrals, and unless I am wrong such a program would be widely enjoyed.

FOURTH, about KIRSTEN FLAGSTAD:

Miss Helen Mobert, of the NBC Artists Service, assures me that Kirsten Flagstad has no intention of withdrawing from our midst next year. The rumor has been current that the great Norwegian prima donna would take a year's rest from her arduous labors. She is independent of her professional income, and could easily do without her earnings.

But she likes to sing, and she will continue—at least, that is Miss Mobert's stated opinion.

AND THE LAST for today, a question about JOSEF HOFMANN:

A listener asks if I really think him the greatest broadcasting pianist. Yes! I most certainly do! Paderewski and Rachmaninoff, the only other pianists of Mr. Hofmann's eminence, are not broadcasting. The emotional qualities in his playing vary, but he is always master of what he is doing.

Left: Dusolina Giannini, on the Sunday Evening Hour April 4. Right: Lawrence Tibbett: "most gifted baritone" and joined the Metropolitan Opera. Alas, in the movies as in the radio, wherever a microphone is used, it is not always the greatest artists that appear to best advantage and receive the highest salaries.

SECOND, about RICHARD STRAUSS:

Jane A. Forbes, of St. Louis, asks why so little of the music of Richard Strauss is played. "We never hear his great operas," she says, "and I am

In all of music, Richard Wagner's "Das Rheingold," introductory work of the mighty "Ring des Niebelungen," has no parallel for grandeur and breadth of conception. Instead of following the Italian style of individual arias set to simple accompaniment, Wagner, in "Das Rheingold," built an elaborate musical structure, involving thematic developments in which voice and instruments are complementary.

Broadcast of the Wagner master-work on Saturday, April 3, will mark the first Saturday matinee of the Metropolitan's annual Spring tour. It will be put on the air from the Boston Opera House with Friedrich Schorr singing the leading role.

Schorr made his debut as "Wotan" 25 years ago in Austria, and is regarded as the ranking Wagnerian baritone of our day, one of the greatest of all time. He stands with Kirsten Flagstad and Lauritz Melchior as a Wagnerian interpreter.

To Wagner, the River Rhine was the source of all German legend. The curtain rises on a strange scene below the surface of the water, where three Rhine maidens are swimming around the rock on which the Rhine gold is kept, singing their plaintive and beautiful song.

They have a visitor, Alberich, a hideous dwarf of the race of Niebelungs, or gnomes, who passionately desires the maidens. They avoid him, but suddenly a beam of the rising sun thrusts through the water, shining upon the gold, and Alberich learns that whoever will renounce woman and make of the gold a ring can be master of the world. The maidens, believing him too amorous to be interested in mere gold, leave the precious metal unguarded, and he suddenly seizes it and flees.

Scene II opens on a mountain top, showing the Castle of Walhalla, home of the gods. There is trouble in the heavens. Urged on by Loge, the god of fire, Wotan, the father-god, has had the giants Fafner and Fasolt build for him the great Castle of Walhalla. The price of the castle is to be Freia, goddess of youth and beauty, from whose garden the gods must eat an apple each day, if they are not to perish.

Sleeping on the grass are Wotan and his wife, Fricka. In the distance is the new castle. Wotan awakens rejoicing, but Fricka is alarmed for Freia. Wotan tries to calm his wife by telling her he has sent Loge to earth to find a substitute there. Freia enters in deep distress, followed by the giants and her brothers Donner and Froh. The giants demand pay for their labor. Loge returns from his trip to earth to report that only one person—Alberich—is willing to renounce the love of woman for treasure. The giants consent to accept the treasure in place of Freia, but take her away as hostage. Wotan goes with Loge to Alberich. The dwarf must be made to give up his treasure.

Scene III. Alberich, master now of the underworld, has developed into a tyrant. He forces Mime to make for him a magic helmet, the tarnhelm, by means of which he can make himself invisible, or convert himself to any other form at will.

Wotan and Loge appear, and trick Alberich into turning himself into a toad. While he is thus momentarily impotent, Wotan takes the tarnhelm from him. Thus robbed, he returns to normal, but remains in the power of the gods.

In Scene IV, Wotan and Loge have Alberich prisoner in the upper world, and force him to give up not only the Rhine gold but the ring as well. Before parting with the latter, however, he lays a fearful curse upon it, which Wotan ignores.

The giants, who have Freia as hostage for the treasure, now demand payment, saying that gold must be piled completely about her. The gold is stacked until only a chink remains, which must be filled by the ring itself. Only after persuasion does Wotan complete the golden barricade. The Curse of the Ring immediately becomes evident. Fasolt and Fafner quarrel over the treasure, and Fasolt is slain. Fafner then departs with the treasure. Donner, in a great storm, makes a rainbow bridge to the Castle of Walhalla, and the gods enter in state.

CHICAGO.—Jack Benny came back to his old home town, Waukegan, Ill., last week and was treated to a Lindbergh reception. Why, even NBC was talking about broadcasting the ballyhoo of the two Jack Benny days, but it's rumored they feared other comics would have grown jealous. Greeted, as the Century arrived, by a reception committee including your reporter, a motor cavalcade took Jack to the North Chicago town, where everyone knocked off work and school pupils gaped at their illustrious alumnus. Parades, red fire, an elm tree planting, hospital visits, a Chamber of Commerce banquet and a ball were on the card of fun for Waukegan—but to the highly nervous Jack it all must have seemed rather hysterical, for the same Jack confided to me as we met at the La Salle Street station in Chicago, "If I see a piece of bunting, I'll die!" . . . Gleanings from Mary Livingstone meantime at their Hotel Sherman suite: "I haven't seen Baby Joan for five long weeks and I can hardly wait to get back to her . . . Yes, I guess we'll settle permanently in Hollywood. Do I look like I'd been on a diet? The flu and overwork had me down. That diet talk was poppycock. Here—let me read you a poem."

Gertrude Niesen had her troubles last week in her air dash to make the Hollywood Hotel broadcast yet miss but two nights at Chicago's Chez Paree where she is appearing. Head winds and cancelled flights made her a half-day late for rehearsals of the program. Then, on her return flight,

*If you enjoy the game of baseball, you will be glad to learn that Babe Ruth, the "Sultan of Swat," will step before a CBS microphone twice weekly starting Wednesday, April 14, to give the listeners some inside information on his favorite sport. My, my! Your Sunday Evening Hour announcer, Truman Bradley, man-about-Chicago and eligible bachelor, was selected by fashion writers as one of the Windy City's ten best-dressed men. Tell me, Truman, what kind of a tie should you wear with this prune of envy I am about to toss at you?

What happens when a Coast-to-Coast broadcast moves into an average private citizen's home? I know—as those of you who tuned in learned—for I sat in on the Smilin' Ed McConnell program from the home of Al and Nancy Charlebois, at Royal Oak, Mich. Al, you know, won Ed's diet contest—and a broadcast. Well, several of us flew over for the unusual stunt and met the Charlebois family before the program. Nancy was a bit flustered; Al took the occasion gracefully. In their small living-room, as large an ensemble as it would permit was packed tightly around the rehearsing Smilin' Ed, Conductor Palmer Clark, Songstress Karolyn Harris and Detroit Announcer Victor Linfoot. Facing the living-room in every room permitting a view were chairs—sixty of them—and, yes, they came from Jake Spiller, the town's funeral director. Most of them were empty now; in one sat six-year-old, red-headed Pat, the Charlebois heir. He was watching McConnell intently. The reason soon became apparent, when Pat whispered to his grandmother, "That man sat down and busted a chair, didn't he?" . . . I asked Nancy if her life had been plagued by dust-covered friends of long who sought to be her guests for the day. "Yes," she said, "it was terrible. But we haven't a home phone. Most of them called Al at his office in Detroit. Some wrote me special delivery letters. I didn't even remember many of them." Nevertheless, Nancy was thrilled. Now the seats were filling. His Honor, Mayor H. Lloyd Clawson, of Royal Oak, had arrived. The streets outside were jammed with automobiles and people—curiosity seekers—auto-the plane was delayed several times and grounded finally at St. Louis because of bad weather. There she and her father boarded a train—and its boiler exploded! Finally they were under way again and Gertrude arrived at the Chez Paree just a quarter-hour before her scheduled floor appearance!

Scoop: Fred Allen is a very tired man, and when his contract expires early in July, he's expected to journey to Hollywood for a rest.

I'm getting tired of writing those postponement notices for the renewed NBC Minstrels, starring Gene Arnold, so I'll only repeat the network's promise that definitely, quite definitely, the premiere is now set for Wednesday night, April 21 . . . Another delay is Little Jackie Heller's return to the Windy City. It may be April 15 or later before the NBC Jamboree has him back . . . "Tale of Today" will be missing Joan Blaine's voice April 4 and 11, but she'll be back in the show April 18 after her southern vacation . . . Funniest master of ceremonies I've seen or heard for years is Morey Amsterdam, ex-Al Pearce Gangster, who is rolling the populace onto the College Inn dance floor for which Trumpeter Red Nichols and his jam band are making the music. Baskets of plums, Morey, and share some with Red for his smooth swing . . . Also plums to Hugh Studebaker for the MBS show, "Drums of Conscience," March 21.

an opportunity to forecast each week's winners of the 16 major league games.

Tim and Irene, Bunny Berigan's orchestra and Del Sharbutt as master of ceremonies will make up the talent roster of a new show titled, "Fun In Swing Time" which makes its debut over Mutual's Coast-to-Coast network on Sunday, April 18. You may recall Tim and Irene substituted for Jack Benny last Summer while the air comic was vacationing.

CLARK GABLE ON RADIO THEATER!

'Das Rheingold' Keeps 'Met' On Air

Despite the conclusion of the regular New York season, opera lovers throughout the country will have an opportunity to hear the Metropolitan presentations this Spring as a result of NBC's decision to broadcast the Boston season.

First to be put on the air by the Metropolitan company from the Boston Opera House will be Richard Wagner's masterwork "Das Rheingold," broadcast Saturday, April 3.

Friedrich Schorr, great Wagnerian baritone, heads the distinguished cast.

A week later, on April 10, over the same network, NBC will carry Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana" and Humperdinck's fairy tale opera, "Hansel and Gretel." Milton Cross, veteran announcer, will go to Boston for the programs.

"Das Rheingold" is the introductory work of the great Wagnerian "Ring des Niebelungen," two parts of which—"Die Walkure," and "Siegfried"—already have been presented during the New York season.

The Humperdinck opera, "Hansel and Gretel," traditionally given on Christmas Eve, is the only one to be repeated over the networks this season.

Edgar Guest Starts New Show On April 6

Replacing "Welcome Valley" at the same time and over the same stations, a new Edgar Guest program titled "It Can Be Done," will make its bow on Tuesday, April 6, over the NBC-Blue network.

Under the same sponsor as "Welcome Valley," "It Can Be Done" will bring to the microphone men and women who have succeeded in the face of great or unusual odds. Dramatizations of incidents met in overcoming these handicaps will be heard on each program. Mr. Guest will continue in readings of original poems.

First success story on the new program will be presented by Dr. F. E. Austin of Hanover, N. H., who originated the idea of placing ant colonies in glass-walled boxes for popular sale. Dr. Austin will tell his own story, and the account of some other unusual success will be presented in dramatic form.

Guest, "America's Poet Laureate," has been commuting between Detroit, his home, and Chicago, for years to appear on the Welcome Valley program. Known to millions of newspaper readers for his daily column of verse, his success on the air was immediate and lasting.

Stars In Drama of War-Time Romance

Clark Gable, whose infrequent radio appearances are always events of the first importance, will bring a radio adaptation of Ernest Hemingway's "Farewell to Arms" to the Radio Theater Monday night. Josephine Hutchinson and Adolphe Menjou will play supporting roles.

A tragic romance set against the background of the Italian-Austrian front during the World War, "Farewell to Arms" immediately established Hemingway as one of the greatest of contemporary American writers. It was not his first book, but in it he struck final maturity, and "Farewell to Arms" has been called one of the greatest love stories of modern times. Adapted for both stage and screen (the latter version played by Helen Hayes and Gary Cooper), it was a sensational success.

The story of Lieutenant Frederick Henry, an American serving with the Italian ambulance corps, and Katharine Berkley, an English nurse, "Farewell to Arms" derives from Hemingway's own experiences during the war, and "Henry" has been called an autobiographical character.

The story in brief: One warm night, in a little town behind the lines, Frederick Henry meets the English Miss Katharine Berkley. Her love for him is sudden and consuming, but Henry at first neither understands nor reciprocates. Returned to the front, he is wounded, arranges to be sent to the hospital in which she is stationed, and during his long stay, love overcomes them both.

Recovered from his wound, Lieutenant Henry again returns to the front. He has sent Katharine to Switzerland for safety's sake, and their letters are intercepted by a jealous Italian major, played by Menjou. Unable to stand both separation and silence, Henry deserts, goes to Switzerland. He finds Katharine in a hospital. Their baby has been born—dead—and Katharine dies in his arms.

In the dramatized version, Henry carries Katharine to the window, and standing there grief-stricken, hears the sound of celebration from the street. The Armistice has been signed!

LATE FLASH!

Despite the denials to the contrary that have been flying about for weeks past, the latest—and best—information to come to RADIO GUIDE indicates that Fred MacMurray will step out of Hollywood Hotel April 30, to be replaced by Tony Martin at a rumored $750 a week. . . . Haven MacQuarrie's "Do You Want to Be An Actor" may be replaced by Nelson Eddy's Variety Show. . . . A new two-year contract has been signed by Milton Berle.

Grace Moore Takes Over Speed Show For Gibbons

Grace Moore again joins the select company of ranking opera and screen artists to be heard regularly on the air when she assumes top spot in the "Speed Show" Saturday, April 3, replacing Floyd Gibbons.

Vincent Lopez' Orchestra, heard on the program since its inception last fall, will continue to provide the music.

A self-made star, Miss Moore first determined to reach the heights after a successful concert with Giovanni Martinelli in Washington, D. C., at the age of seventeen. Several years of tramping followed, with their accompanying lean times, but after having succeeded in getting to Europe for study, she was heard by Irving Berlin, who signed her for his successful "Music Box Revue."

Engagements followed not only at the Metropolitan Opera, but with opera companies abroad. Further recognition came through radio work and a series of successful films.

Saturday, April 3
9 p.m. EST (8 CST) CBS

Pearl Buck Guests On 'Treasures' Show

Pearl Buck, noted writer and traveler, will be the first of a group of well-known American authors to participate in the Treasures Next Door program in a new series beginning Monday.

Idea behind the new show is to promote increased knowledge of, interest in, American authors.

Her life in China and discussion of her favorite books and authors will be Miss Buck's contribution to the program.

Monday, April 5
4 p.m. EST (3 CST) CBS

Biggest Art Auction Will Be Broadcast

Auction fans who hate to miss a sale, no matter how small, will have an opportunity to be present at one of America's biggest and most important on Saturday, April 3, when an American Art Association auction is put on the air from the Anderson Galleries in New York.

Furniture, silver, paintings and miniatures are among the articles to go under the hammer. The sale of many rare historical pieces from the collection of Herbert Lawton of Boston will be held during the broadcast.

Saturday, April 3
4:15 p.m. EST (3:15 CST) NBC

Woman Air Official Gives Flying Hints

Helen Stansbury, only woman executive in the American air transport industry, will fill the guest pages of the "Magazine of the Air" over the WABC-Columbia network Monday, April 5.

Miss Stansbury, who has flown 16,000 miles in the two months since she became director of the women's traffic division of United Air Lines, will tell listeners what clothes to take on flying trips, what they will enjoy eating, and how they may entertain themselves while in the air.

B. A. Rolfe's instrumentalists, the regular quartet and Reed Kennedy, baritone, will support the program, in addition to the regular presentation of "Trouble House."

Monday, April 5
11 a.m. EST (10 CST) CBS

It's a Fight!

Vanishing Art To Be Revived In East As Smooth Shavers Show Their Stuff

It probably will never sweep the country, but "Chin Golf" is to have its day in the sun!

That day is Saturday, April 3, when little shavers and big shavers from colleges all over the Eastern seaboard will participate in the United States Chin Golf Association's Eastern Intercollegiate Championship Tournament in New York.

As representatives of Yale, Harvard, Columbia, Fordham, New York University, Brown, Williams, Amherst and Dartmouth match strokes, the microphone will pick up the gentle scrape of the razor and the tick of the clock as contestants race against time.

Grantland Rice, who has been invited to act as head judge, and others will inspect the faces of the entrants. Penalties will be meted out according to the number of "nicks" administered and the stretches of "rough" allowed to remain. President Harford Powel of the association will read the rules.

Quoting from the official book of rules, the purpose of the game is:

"... to promote skill and success in shaving of the face; to transform this morning task from its present status of profane drudgery into a sport worthy of participation by civilized man, and for that purpose (1) to award trophies to players of outstanding ability, (2) to preserve and publicize their scores and (3) to establish the game of Chin Golf as a major sport in intercollegiate competition, in club athletic programs, and in the Olympic games."

The location of the championship tourney: Studio 1, WOR, New York.

Hill Has New Program

Edwin C. Hill, ace reporter and commentator, begins a new series for CBS and a cigarette sponsor on Monday. Calculated to appeal particularly to women, the new program will run Monday through Friday only.

Monday, April 5
12:15 p.m. EST (11:15 a.m. CST) CBS

Jacks and Jennets To Face The Mike!

Easy winner of nomination as This Week's Oddest is NBC's plan to broadcast a special program from "the biggest street mule market in the world" at Columbia, Tenn., on Monday.

More than 1,500 mules, jacks and jennets will parade before NBC microphones manned by Announcer Everett Mitchell and William E. Drips, NBC agricultural director.

Among the speakers will be L. R. Neel, superintendent of the U. S. Jack and Jennet Nursery Farm.

Monday, April 5
12:30 p.m. EST (11:30 a.m. CST) NBC

Mills Brothers Are Coming Back Again!

The Mills Brothers, one of radio's most successful harmony teams, will return to the air as guests of Ed Wynn Saturday, April 3.

A medley of the numbers that marked their rise to fame will be offered by the quartet.

The Mills Brothers retired from the air last year soon after the death of one of their number, John, Jr., who was the baritone and who imitated the tuba and third trumpet. His place was taken by John Mills, Sr., who originally taught the sons their unique harmony and imitations for the entertainment of customers in his Bellefontaine, Ohio, barber shop. Since then they have broadcast irregularly, made a European tour and have made occasional appearances in motion pictures.

CBS Plans Special Show—For Just One Listener!

Did you ever hear of a "guest listener"?

No? Well, you will! Because on Sunday, April 4, the Columbia Broadcasting System will present a special program for one man—the "guest star listener" of the day!

He's Frederick C. Bennett, only white resident on tiny Herschel Island in the Beaufort Sea up in the Arctic Circle and he's one of the most isolated radio fans in the world!

Bennett, a member of the Canadian Royal Mounted Police, was discovered by CBS through a letter he wrote from his isolated station to tell how Columbia programs lighten his dreary days in the frozen North.

He wrote the message at Christmas time and dispatched it to Nila Mack, producer of the "Sunday Morning at Aunt Susan's" program, one of his favorites. After a two and a half month's trip by dog sled, horseback, steamer, train and airplane, the letter has just been delivered. In order to find out what kind of program Bennett would like best, Columbia organized a special network of amateurs to communicate with him.

Only once in forty years has Bennett been away from his lonely post. That was during the World War, when he went to England and enlisted in the Royal Air Force. He became an ace, was shot down by the enemy, wounded, decorated by his government. The war over, he returned to Herschel Island, where he is in charge of a customs house that passes but one ship a year. He has been there ever since.

Launch Peace Move Over NBC April 6

With Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Admiral Richard E. Byrd and Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick at the microphone, a crusade to keep the United States out of foreign wars will be carried into millions of homes when the second big drive of the 1937 Emergency Peace Campaign is launched over NBC networks on Tuesday, April 6, 20th anniversary of U. S. entrance into the World War.

"Radio parties," mass meetings and conferences in more than 2,000 communities from Coast to Coast will gather to hear the NBC broadcast, to listen as the aims of the "No Foreign War" crusade are explained by the three speakers.

Mrs. Roosevelt, Admiral Byrd and Dr. Fosdick are all closely identified with the peace movement. Byrd's devotion to it is the result of his voluntary exile in the Antarctic several years ago. At that time he resolved to devote the rest of his life to the cause of international peace.

April 6 will mark the beginning of the fourth cycle in a two-year plan.

Tuesday, April 6
10:30 p.m. EST (9:30 CST) NBC

In Organ-Harpsichord Duet

Lady Jeans, wife of the eminent British astronomical authority, Sir James Jeans, will be heard over the NBC-Blue network Friday, April 2, in a joint organ-harpsichord recital with Yella Pessl, brilliant harpsichordist.

Under her professional name of Susi Hock—she is Viennese—Lady Jeans has given organ concerts of distinction throughout Europe. Lady Jeans is in the United States on a concert tour.

TWO thugs stayed in the car. They left the engine running. The other two went into the bookie's place. Each had a gun.

"All right, you guys—line up!"

Seven startled men jerked their eyes towards the door. Seven startled men slowly backed against the wall. For the end of a gun-barrel can look as big as the end of a rain-barrel, if it's pointing at your stomach. An electric bulb, swinging on a cord, brought out lines and shades of taut cruelty on the faces of the two gat-wielders.

"Line up—fast!" The command was a whining snarl, plenty mean, and the snarling gunman raked his revolver—slash—across the wrist of one slow-moving youth. Blood flowed, drip—drip—drip to the floor. Nobody noticed it, not even the boy with the slashed wrist.

"Where's the dough?"

The tight-faced bookie nodded towards a drawer. He didn't gesture with his hand. He was careful not to do that.

One of the thugs yanked the drawer open. He stuffed bills into his pocket. The two of them started towards the door, then—

"Jeez, a copper!"

Both of them saw the policeman's blue uniform approaching the front door. Both ran to the back door. Then, as the officer legged around to the rear, they doubled back, burst out the front door and leaped into the car. It ground away from the curb with clashing gears—and another Detroit hold-up had been pulled off.

AFTER it was all over, Radio Cop Maury Madden agreed it was one of the swellest, screaming, shooting chases he had ever enjoyed. But just before it started, he was taking an awful kidding from his buddy and bosom pal, Radio Cop Bob Campbell.

"Of course, Officer Madden," Bob Campbell was jibing, just before the radio blatted. "It's a great honor for a simple patrolman like me to be riding with a guy that gunned it out in a dark alley with a burglar and got a citation for blowing him to hell."

"Sure it is," growled Madden, with a wry grin.

"Even," continued Campbell smoothly, "if that hero happens to be an Irish potato face."

"Which is more—" Madden started. Then: "Look out, Bob, that guy's in a whale of a hurry!"

A sedan had just whizzed around the corner of Detroit's Hayes Boulevard and Kelley Avenue. Radio Patrolman Campbell shoved with his foot—and the accelerated police car spurted, swerved around a car. Campbell could drive.

"As I was saying—" Campbell began, eyes alert for the road. But neither of these blithe bluecoats was to have the last word in their good-natured tilt. That final word belonged to police radio, which at that moment snapped out a bulletin:

"Calling all cars . . . all cars . . . Two men in a large sedan just stuck up an establishment at 14251 Gratiot Street . . . Believed to be one more in the car . . . Michigan license . . ."

Said Officer Campbell, suddenly:

Quick TRIGGER MADDEN

Madden. leaned out and began firing at the fleeing car ahead

"That's a big sedan and there are three men in it."

Officer Madden said nothing. He yanked out his gun. The chase was on. The big sedan was going fast. Along Berkshire Avenue to Harper and into Chandler Park they tore, the police siren howling.

THERE was a flash of fire from the car ahead. A bullet struck the police car.

"So that's what they want," growled Madden. Very calmly and swiftly he rolled down the right-hand window of the car. He leaned the upper part of his body out into the 80-mile-an-hour gale that the car's speed was making. And coolly, a grim boredom on his "Irish potato face," he began firing at the car ahead.

"Swell!" roared Campbell, who loved to drive. For all of a sudden the sedan ahead just didn't have any back window. It had been shattered to bits.

"Empty!" shouted Madden, throwing his gun down on the seat. And, driving with one hand at 80 miles an hour, Campbell passed his loaded gun to his buddy. Whereupon the firing commenced again.

Once—twice—three times the car ahead swerved to escape by inches a crash with other cars. And twice the police car almost had to side-step to avoid piling up in the same way. Each time Death was not more than a hair's breadth away.

Then the big sedan and the little, fleet police car approached Six Mile Road. The light blinked red—the sedan's driver gunned his motor—and then the lid blew off. The green-light traffic already was in the intersection. Nothing could prevent a crash.

Though the sedan writhed, brakes squealing, there was a nerve-wrenching, clanging crash as it sideswiped one of those green-light cars. Over it went.

YOU CAN'T BEAT RADIO, A POLICE CRUISER—AND A COP WHO SHOOTS FAST AND STRAIGHT!

Campbell fought his cruiser. Somehow—only the patron saint of good drivers knows how—he managed by braking and twisting and by sheer chilled-steel nerve to avoid that horrible crack-up. It was a superb piece of driving, but that wasn't all Campbell could do.

He was out of the police cruiser almost as fast as Madden. The two of them ran across that intersection, with the lights of a score of stopped cars playing upon them like so many spotlights.

"Wonder if any of those guys are still alive?" shouted Madden. And at once, he got his answer.

Out of the wreck of the sedan climbed a guy with black, bushy hair. In his right hand was a gun. He was scowling. He pointed his gun at the oncoming cops.

OFFICER CAMPBELL jerked up his revolver. He pulled the trigger. There was a tiny, pathetic little click. Campbell had forgotten, and who can blame him, that he had Madden's gun—the gun Madden had emptied when he broke the back window of the fleeing sedan.

For an instant—in the middle of all that hectic action—the universe stood still for courageous Officer Campbell. It isn't much fun to face a thug with a loaded gun—when your own is empty and useless.

The bushy-haired guy's gun went off.

But, just a split second before that happened, Officer Madden had leveled his revolver, pressed the trigger, even while he sighted carefully. It was all in one smooth line of motion and—Officer Maury Madden's revolver went off first.

That probably saved Campbell's life. The bushy-haired guy fell on his face—drilled through and through. He was dead when they got to him. Later, he was identified as Buck Miller, ex-convict and dead shot.

BUT that was later. Right now, two other fellows were climbing out of that wrecked sedan. And they had their hands in the air.

"Don't shoot!" bleated one of them, scared and trembling.

They took them, handcuffed, to the stationhouse—after first learning that nobody had been hurt in the car the bandits had sideswiped. Two very droopy lads they were—Hymie Niskar, slim and with a fiddle-shaped face, Charlie Sanders, who was just a tight-lipped person without much chin. And later on police picked up a fourth—William Niskar, who, they believed, was in on the hold-up.

"Four of 'em," said sardonic Bob Campbell. "The boys'll be able to play bridge."

"That won't be in the sentence," protested Maury Madden. "And say, you mug—what was that crack about an Irish potato face? If I didn't have an eye in me head—"

"Okay, okay," Campbell interrupted airily. "Even a potato's got eyes."

And the two cops grinned at each other. Because cops don't usually get sentimental about a little thing like saving each other's lives in the course of duty. Especially radio cops.

Health Is Undermined By Vitamin Shortage

Many People Don't Know Whether They Are Getting All the Vitamins They Need in Their Regular Meals—Until Bad Health Shows It.

But—by Adding ONE FOOD to Your Diet EACH DAY, You Can Assure Yourself an EXTRA SUPPLY of these 4 Vitamins

DEFICIENT IN VITAMIN A

IF YOU CATCH COLD EASILY and your general resistance is low, you may be poorly supplied with Vitamin A. A lack of this vitamin can weaken linings of nose and throat, making you more susceptible to colds. Recent tests indicate a large percentage of people in this country do not get enough Vitamin A. Let Fleischmann's fresh Yeast give you an added daily supply of this necessary vitamin.

TOO LITTLE VITAMIN G Means Poor Growth

Underweight, thin, sickly children are often found to be poorly supplied with Vitamin G—the important GROWTH VITAMIN. To aid proper development of the body tissues, rapidly growing boys and girls need a generous supply of this essential vitamin. Fleischmann's Yeast is rich in Vitamin G. Children from 5 to 12 years can be given 1 to 2 cakes each day.

G

TOO LITTLE VITAMIN D

UNATTRACTIVE, soft, poorly formed teeth and jaws (see plaster cast above) can follow an under-supply of Vitamin D—the important BONE VITAMIN.

AMPLE VITAMIN D

STRONG, attractive teeth (see above picture) require plenty of Vitamin D. Fleischmann's Yeast is rich in Vitamin D.

SHORTAGE OF VITAMIN B

WEAK intestines, distended bowels (as in picture above), poor digestion, sagging stomach and many obscure nervous disorders throughout the system can result from a diet that is too low in Vitamin B—the NERVE VITAMIN.

AMPLE VITAMIN B

NORMAL, healthy intestines and bowels (see above picture), steady nerves, strong stomach and a good digestion require an ample supply of Vitamin B—the NERVE VITAMIN. Fleischmann's fresh Yeast, eaten daily, helps to keep up your supply of Vitamin B. Fleischmann's Yeast is one of the richest known natural food sources of this essential vitamin.

NO ONE can keep strong and healthy without a good daily supply of vitamins A, B, D and G. FLEISCHMANN'S fresh YEAST is rich in these 4 vitamins.

Nutrition experts say that the average daily meals of many people may fail to provide enough of these vitamins to keep health up to par.

The addition of this one food to your regular diet assures you of a special EXTRA supply of these 4 essential vitamins combined.

Fleischmann's Yeast is the only natural food that provides you with such a rich supply of all 4 of these vitamins at once.

Start today to keep yourself better supplied with these health-building vitamins. Eat 3 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast daily—one cake about ½ hour before each meal. Eat it plain, or in a little water. Order two or three days' supply at a time from your grocer. Fleischmann's Yeast keeps perfectly in the icebox.

THE STEEL-LIKE STRENGTH, energy and stamina of Lester Stofen, famous six-foot California Tennis Star—show he has been well supplied with all 4 of these necessary, health-building vitamins—A, B, D and G.

IT'S NEW! IT'S A HIT!

RECENTLY, a man was discovered who had never seen a motion picture. Magazines published stories about him. He was a freak.

You go to the movies, of course. You are entertained, amused, relaxed. When you walk out of a theater, you leave that particular show behind you. But you don't escape the influence of Hollywood—and motion pictures.

Mother's Sunday dress is likely to follow a Hollywood-created fashion. Sister's hair-do probably is copied from the coiffure of her screen favorite. Little Brother finds his heroes among the "Tarzan" Weissmullers and he-man Jack Holts; the bulk of Father's money—when it is spent on entertainment—goes to the movie theater.

Hollywood influences the clothes you wear, the things you eat, the speech you use.

That is why Hollywood—and what is going on in Hollywood—is important to you. That is why you should know how motion pictures are made, and be familiar with the city from which they come.

The new SCREEN GUIDE reflects the Hollywood scene in the most revealing medium of all—in pictures. It IS Hollywood, brought to you between the covers of a magazine. It will keep you informed of what is going on. It will amuse you. You can sit down and relax in the glamor-capital of the world. You can take a trip each month to the most fascinating city in America—vacation through pictures, just as surely as if you were there.

Probably you don't see all the new pictures. Very few people do. You don't have to wait for the shows you're interested in to play your neighborhood movie house—if you read SCREEN GUIDE.

The new SCREEN GUIDE brings Hollywood to you!

In the SCREEN GUIDE for May (now on sale) and in succeeding issues, you can—

Watch Claudette Colbert become a glamor-girl.

Spend five years with Shirley Temple.

Tour the hall bedrooms of "extra row."

Stand side by side with the stars on the sets! Go to their exclusive parties! Vacation with them, banquet with them! Elope with them!

Put Hollywood—the glamor-mecca of the world—on your parlor table! The stars, the studios, the FEEL of the entire industry is between its covers.

CRIME ON THE AIR

BY PHIL WECK

HE WAS "Il Diavolo"—the man they couldn't hang! He was the terror of Chicago's vast Italian district, a cunning, murderous rogue who headed a band of fifty of the most desperate killers in Chicago police history. He boasted that the police would never get him—and that if they did, they could never execute him, because he couldn't be killed by hanging!

"Il Diavolo" was wrong. He was caught—and he was hanged. You may have heard his macabre story over your local radio station—and if you didn't, you missed one of the most thrilling true detective stories ever put on the air. Don't miss another one like it!

Brought to you by Official Detective magazine, these radio dramatizations present in thrilling form the stories of actual crimes and criminals, the accounts of the solution by master detectives of the most baffling crimes of our times.

In these fifteen-minute weekly radio dramas, you are given fact material that you can get nowhere else. Because the Official Detective transcriptions are prepared from actual records by the staff of the fastest-growing true detective story magazine in the field today. They are adaptations of stories that have appeared in Official Detective magazine, and they are the most accurate behind-the-scenes pictures of what goes on in American police stations and detective bureaus today. In them are contained material that you will not, cannot find anywhere else.

HOW does Official Detective get this first-hand factual material, usually long before any competing magazine has been able to obtain it, and put it on the air, in some cases, before the criminals have even been sent to prison?

It's no accident. Endless effort and care is put into Official Detective transcriptions to make them the most authentic, most dramatic criminal dramatizations on the air. A corps of workers, including some of the best-known names in radio, is responsible for their production. It includes a staff of script writers, expert in that form of dramatization. It includes one of the most experienced production men in the business. And the actors and actresses who play the various parts have had years of network experience. They're capable of putting these dramas on the air in all their thrilling reality.

The program really has its beginning in the local police stations scattered about the country. It starts whenever a major crime is committed and ends its first phase when that crime is solved.

AFTER the detectives have solved the case the program enters its second stage of development. That starts when one of the 207 Official Detective correspondents runs, drives, en-trains or flies to the scene of the crime. No matter whether it is in South Eagle, Texas, or Karst's Camp, Montana, or the heart of New York City, a correspondent is there almost immediately. He interviews the detectives who solved the case, snaps his candid camera here and there, sets up his portable typewriter and within a short time has a complete story of the crime and its solution, with pictures, on its way to the Chicago office of Official Detective.

In Chicago the story is edited, illustrated, and then started on its quick journey through the complex process which will end only when it rolls from the mammoth presses in final printed form.

Then the radio work really begins in earnest. The editorial board of the magazine and the script writers and production men for the program pore over that issue. Some of the stories are of course not fitted for radio adaptation. Others, like the fabulous story of the man who couldn't be hanged, are radio "naturals." And when those stories are weeded out, the script writers go into action. It is their job to reduce that story into radio scenes that can be presented within a fifteen-minute period.

It's not an easy job. Some of those crimes have taken weeks, months, to investigate. But they must be reduced to fifteen minutes of running time, and in that reduction they must not lose any of their essential dramatic elements.

After the script writers have prepared the continuity it is read by the Official Detective editorial board. The editors rarely change that script, but occasionally a change or an improvement will be suggested. Sometimes the script is scrapped and done over entirely.

THE official o.k. on the script, it is given to the actors and production men. Theirs is not the regular, every-day broadcasting show technique. The cast assembles around a table for rehearsal, each member reading his lines, with the production man correcting, suggesting improvements and changes, and giving cues to the sound-effects man. They go through the program at least half a dozen times before it is good enough to record. Only endless rehearsals can produce a top-notch performance.

When the recording is made, most transcription programs are finished. Not so the Official Detective transcriptions. The first is only an audition recording, made for the editors of the magazine. They, and they alone, hear this audition record. Again they criticize the show, go over it word for word. Sometimes, even at this late date, the show is scrapped and done over again. But not often—usually a good job has been done the first time. The audition record is approved, the master recording is made from another complete re-enactment by the cast. The master recording goes to the transcription maker—and another Official Detective story is on the air!

AND America likes it! The true-life stories of crime solution are increasingly popular with radio listeners all over the country. The editors of Official Detective are happy that it is so, for they realize that their self-appointed duty is being fulfilled—the American public is beginning to realize that the American cop is not the flat-footed, thick-headed lout he has been pictured, but an upright, intelligent, clear-thinking and straight-shooting officer of the law who sees to it that the public and the public's rights are protected as they should be protected.

Convincing all the citizens of this country that their protectors are on the job and performing efficiently is a big job—after so much false propaganda. But it is a worthy task—one that will pay benefits to all when accomplished!

Sells 19 Features in Six Months

"I have sold, up to date, nineteen features to the Detroit Free Press and have been made their correspondent here," writes Mrs. Leonard Sanders of 218 Union St., Milford, Mich., on completing the N.I.A. course. Her skilful handling of feature stories was the reason given by the editor for her appointment. Mrs. Sanders' first feature was sold less than four months after she enrolled with N.I.A.

How do you KNOW you can't write?

Have you ever tried? Have you ever attempted even the least bit of training, under competent guidance?

Or have you been sitting back as it is so easy to do, waiting for the day to come some time when you will awaken, all of a sudden, to the discovery, "I am a writer!"?

If the latter course is the one of your choosing, you probably never will write. Lawyers must be law clerks. Doctors must be internes. Engineers must be draftsmen. We all know that, in our times, the egg does come before the chicken.

It is seldom that anyone becomes a writer until he (or she) has been writing for some time. That is why so many authors and writers spring up out of the newspaper business. The day-to-day necessity of writing—of gathering material about which to write—develops their talent, their insight, their background and their confidence as nothing else could.

That is why the Newspaper Institute of America bases its writing instruction on journalism—continuous writing—the training that has produced so many successful authors.

Learn to write by writing

NEWSPAPER Institute training is based on the New York Copy-Desk Method. It starts and keeps you writing in your own home, on your own time. Week by week you receive actual assignments, just as if you were right at work on a great metropolitan daily. Your writing is individually corrected and constructively criticized. A group of men, whose combined newspaper experience totals more than 200 years, are responsible for this instruction. Under such sympathetic guidance, you will find that (instead of vainly trying to copy some one else's writing tricks) you are rapidly developing your own distinctive, self-flavored style—undergoing an experience that has a thrill to it and which at the same time develops in you the power to make your feeling articulate.

Many people who should be writing become awe-struck by fabulous stories about millionaire authors and therefore give little thought to the $25, $50 and $100 or more that can often be earned for material that takes little time to write—stories, articles on business, fads, travels, sports, recipes, etc.—things that can easily be turned out in leisure hours, and often on the impulse of the moment.

A chance to test yourself

We have prepared a unique Writing Aptitude Test. This tells you whether you possess the fundamental qualities necessary to successful writing—acute observation, dramatic instinct, creative imagination, etc. You'll enjoy taking this test. The coupon will bring it, without obligation. Newspaper Institute of America, One Park Avenue, New York.

KINKS AND QUEENS

were in her blood, and as she grew up she practised every new dance fad and learned every popular tune. Everybody who heard her told her it was a sin she wasn't on the stage.

But when Theresa thought of job-hunting, her whole body grew stiff with fear. "I can't," she'd cry, "I can't!"

The Stabile family wasn't rich. When Theresa Ana turned sixteen, she was expected to provide her share for the household expenses. It almost tore her to pieces to answer ads in the papers, but she did it. After months of failure, she managed to land a job, and for a year she sold stockings.

Then the store staged an amateur show, and Theresa won first prize. One of the judges happened to be George Hall. A seasoned talent-scout, he saw at once that the shy little girl had talent. But she needed experience—self-confidence. He offered to take her for an audition to a radio station whose manager he knew.

OF COURSE, she consented, but when the day came to keep the appointment, her mother phoned George Hall that she couldn't go. She was actually sick with "job jitters."

"Never mind!" the orchestra leader told her. "I'll come over for her!"

In the little Stabile parlor, he confronted the terrified Theresa. "Can't you forget yourself for a minute?" he asked, "and think about me? I have a bit of influence in the entertainment world, and that's where you want to succeed. Yet you sit there entirely regardless of what impression you're making on me. All you're concerned about is yourself. You're a fool!"

His words were uncomplimentary, but his eyes were kind.

"I can't help it," Theresa wailed. "I just go all to pieces!"

Hall persisted. "What am I thinking about you this minute?"

Theresa had to consider. "That I could never make good with an audience," she said at last, "if I act like this now!" It wasn't a pleasant thought, but it crowded the white, sick fear from her.

"Now, put on some new make-up and come along," said Hall. "When you get to the station, look at the man you're going to sing for. Size him up! Think what will please him. Forget Theresa!"

She kept her control until they got to the studio. Then, every time she started to stiffen with fright, she'd consider the man across the desk instead of herself.

She's had to face many managers since then and she finds Hall's prescription always works. "As soon as you begin to size up the man who has the job to give, you become calm," she told me, "and you make a swell impression!"

DOES your reputation for being serious or self-sufficient keep you from being popular?

Well, Vera Brodsky, the brown-haired, bright-blue-eyed queen we interviewed next, knows all about the handicap of being thought too serious. For Vera was a child prodigy. She was a perfectly normal girl, and as she grew up this attitude toward her became a major disaster. How could she change things? Why did she have to be set apart?

One night she went to a party, determined to break the invisible ice that was chilling her youth. As usual, she was asked to play. She performed—quite well. Everyone applauded.

After her playing, the victrola was opened, the rugs rolled back, and the young folks started to dance. Vera stood. And sat. Finally her hostess came up with a handsome youth in tow. "This is Johnny Doe," she said. "He admires your playing so much! Don't you, Johnny?"

When the older woman left them Vera timidly cast her eyes upward. And right there she made a startling discovery. Why, this good-looking, nice boy was scared to death of her! Of Vera Brodsky, who wanted so much for him to like her!

"Why, you're even more embarrassed than I am!" she cried. Suddenly both of them laughed. Soon they were dancing together, raucous and happy as any couple on the floor. And from then on Johnny was her faithful admirer.

"To overcome the reputation of being too serious or a monster of accomplishment," she told me, "you must show men you need their protection. And if you're shy as well as serious, it's a good thing to realize that they're probably as terrified of you as you are of them!"

Willie Morris' kink was quite different from those of the other queens. For Willie was miserable because she'd spent ten years and $20,000 in pursuing a career chosen by her father.

She lived through the crisis of her life in Paris. She roomed at a gay little pension on the Left Bank of the Seine. But Willie herself was anything but gay. She had just given a series of piano concerts, and it looked as if she were going to be playing the piano for the rest of her life. And she wanted to be a singer!

Under her lived another American woman. Once, when her neighbor had been indisposed, Willie had offered to do some shopping for her. The next day, the woman phoned and asked Willie down to her apartment. She turned out to be Hilda Roosevelt, Theodore Roosevelt's cousin, and a woman of culture and fine musical discrimination.

SHE had heard Willie's piano concert at a Paris playhouse the week before, and she'd also listened to her sing upstairs.

"You play extremely well," she said, "but you could sing better. Am I right that you've always wanted to sing—that you sing naturally? As a way of expressing every feeling? And that you play as an accomplishment?"

Willie was amazed at her perception. Yes, she'd always longed to sing. But her father had spent all his fortune on her education. It was too late!

"Nonsense!" said Mrs. Roosevelt. So after days of torment and conflict, Willie decided she must get an expert opinion on her possibilities as a singer. It seemed to the girl that her whole future happiness depended on her getting into the profession she loved.

THERE lived in Rome a Madame Bianco, who had the reputation of being able to tell a voice's future better than any teacher in Europe. So Willie took the train to Rome and sought her out.

"You have a lovely voice," said the great teacher, "but no training. The practising you've done by yourself has been all wrong! If you'll start from the bottom, I'd say you have a chance to be an important singer."

"But all my money's gone," said Willie miserably.

"I'm going to America in a few months," said Madame Bianco. "If you'll live in Boston, I'll gamble on your future. You can pay me for lessons after you begin to earn money as a singer."

Would you have had the nerve to take a chance like that? Give up a sure income to start at the bottom on a new job? That's what Willie did. She landed a job with a Boston radio station soon and began the career in which you now know her!

So these are the "unkinkings" of four of radio's queens. Perhaps your life is shadowed by some unhappiness such as theirs. If it is, perhaps their stories will help you reach complete happiness—even as they have!

Solution to Puzzle Given Last Week

HITS OF THE WEEK

THE big news this week in popular music is the absence of news—for in the winners' bracket there is no change from last week's standings! "This Year's Kisses," "Moonlight and Shadows," and "Boo Hoo" still line up 1-2-3. Even in the lower-ranking songs, there has been slight change, except for the pair of songs that have moved from eleventh and twelfth last week to fourth and sixth this week. They are "What Will I Tell My Heart?" and "I've Got My Love To Keep Me Warm." "Swing High, Swing Low," from the Carole Lombard-Fred MacMurray movie of the same name, makes its initial appearance on the favorites' list this week, in thirteenth place. "My Last Affair" is on the list again, this time sneaking in in fourteenth position. At the bottom of the list, "Serenade in the Night" has dropped out, and "When Poppies Bloom Again" has fallen from tenth to fifteenth, to crowd out "How Could You?"

The complete list of the fifteen songs preferred all over the country this week as shown by RADIO GUIDE'S investigation is as follows:

- |                                     |                              |

VOICE OF THE LISTENER

The "Voice of the Listener" letter-forum is a regular feature in Radio Guide each week, offered to the readers as a means for expressing and exchanging opinions about radio.

Radio Guide will pay prizes for fine letters as follows: $10 for the best letter each week; $5 for the next best, and $1 for others.

THE MULTITUDE'S CHEERS

($10 Prize Letter)

Voice of the Listener: . . . Out of the big-show welter there emerge many programs that perhaps don't get the loud applause and attention of the multitude. But they are shows that make life cheerier and finer. Let's not overlook them . . .

The Carborundum Band is introduced by an Iroquois legend each week: a distinctive and memorable weekly event. "Snow Village" is unique in radio programs because of the wonderful human interest in these homey sketches . . . Each Sunday morning, before most of us are stirring, there is a fine musical program for children called "Pieces You Like to Hear." And later "The World Is Yours" dramatizes such normally dull subjects as oysters and germs. And Victor Moore and Helen Broderick deserve plenty of listeners. So, I might whisper, do the perfectly grand thrillers, "Lights Out" and "Witches' Tales."

Sometimes in the obscure radio features are found those gems that illumine the drab moments of life.—Mrs. J. J. Kennedy, Chautauqua, New York.

AMERICA—ON THE AIR

($5 Prize Letter)

Voice of the Listener: . . . I have long thought that one of the difficulties which confront the American people in being loyal and helpful to their government has been their inability to understand its functions and the long, illustrious history behind such functions.

Now, through the medium of radio, we are brought the best entertainment which the world affords—yet we are letting this golden opportunity of building up our national pride slip through our fingers. Why doesn't some worthy sponsor start a series of programs designed for Americans? Such a program could include portions of the history of the various branches of our government; human-interest stories about such branches; maybe introductions and short talks by the oldest and youngest members of each department or bureau—the field is inexhaustible! I'm sure the people would appreciate such a program—because it would give them a comprehensive study of the now misunderstood and oftentimes unappreciated efforts of those who work under the oath of allegiance to our great Republic . . . —S. E. Jones, Fort Sill, Okla.

RADIO RESCUERS

VOL: Radio has come through again! When the school at New London, Texas, was destroyed by an explosion, radio stations played an important part in the rescue work. The explosion occurred at about 3:05 p.m. By 4 p.m. the radio stations in the surrounding cities began to broadcast appeals for doctors, nurses and supplies. By 7 o'clock a line had been arranged from the scene of the disaster and transmitted messages and descriptions of the wounded and dead. The stations of the East Texas Broadcasting System broadcast the order of the Governor when he ordered martial law. The stations stayed on the air to order supplies. A broadcast was made on the Mutual Broadcasting System and the Iowa System . . . The record time of the identification shows the efficiency of radio. We should be thankful . . . —Curtis Langford, Tyler, Texas.

VALE OF TEARS

Voice of the Listener: A radio program, in my opinion, is presented to its listeners for entertainment, enjoyment and education. Under which of these, then, does the "Betty and Bob" program broadcast March 16 rate?

It is supposed to be a true-to-life story, but why must housewives cry into their dishpans while listening to the death of Bobby Drake? I wonder if the author of this script realized how many mothers' sorrows were brought back anew by that program? The program reaches more mothers than anyone else because of the time it appears on the air. I think also, I might add, that the loss of a son or daughter would be felt more strongly by a mother than by anyone else of a household . . . —Mrs. Genevieve Davenport, Stanley, Wis.

VOL: I love my radio and get a lot of pleasure from it. But this morning it was not pleasure. Almost from its beginning I have followed the "Betty and Bob" program and enjoyed it. This morning we heard the death-bed scene of little Bobby. I was going to shut it off, but could not believe it would end that way—I was sure he would get better.

Having buried two of my own dear children, it brought it all back, and that heartache stayed all day. We have our radios for amusement, something to cheer us when we are low-spirited, not to "tear us to pieces" mentally. These serials are like a chapter-a-day in a book, for those of us who have no time to read . . . —Mrs. Nora Powers, Akron Ohio.

Voice of the Listener: . . . I was very sad over the death of a very dear friend, and thinking I could get it off my mind for a few minutes, I turned on my radio. The program was "Betty and Bob" and the sketch the one in which the death of their son Bobby took place. Even for a person in a happy state of mind I cannot say it would have been pleasing to hear. As for myself, it was the very thing I was trying to forget. People have so many real troubles . . . —Alean Flanagan, Wichita Falls, Texas.

VOL: . . . If the ones who write these skits can't do any better than this, I'm beginning to believe they're hopeless neurotics. My sympathy is with the actors who have to portray such imbecilic characters . . . —Mrs. N. W. Noel, Parkersburg, W. Va.

WISH GRATIFIED

Voice of the Listener: Has it ever occurred to sponsors that there are folks who like to listen to good all-classical programs after 10 p.m.? There seems to be an erroneous idea that all people who enjoy fine classics in literature and music are "old fogies" with long faces, who go to bed with the chickens. "Moon River" is one of the few programs which offer rich, soft, soothing music at the end of a long tiresome day. We need more programs of this type, preferably featuring pipe-organs, string or woodwind ensembles, or even symphonies . . . —Thomas W. Perdue, Newton, Ill.

RADIO GUIDE, Editor: What a glorious experience to turn on the radio and find a new symphonic hour on Friday night! It is a great relief from high-powered pep-shows and comedy, or popular fifteen-minute programs.

. . . Although I studied music for sixteen years, I find the highlights and the interesting comments of a well-informed music commentator such as Carleton Smith add greatly to my enjoyment of the stories, moods and impressions of the music of the masters . . . —Mrs. A. E. Anderson, Racine, Wis.

CURT CHALLENGE

Voice of the Listener: One of my friends almost pulled a fast one on me. Last night as we sat down to dinner, Bill asked, "Can you tell in a dozen words everything the radio does?"

I took time out for several minutes. During that interval a few thoughts came to my mind and hundreds of words rushed to my tongue. Finally I said, "The radio entertains, informs, interprets and sells."

I wonder whether other readers of RADIO GUIDE can answer Bill in fewer words than I did?—George Dobrow, Chelsea, Mass.

IRRESISTIBLE

"It is that. And did you ever stop to consider how much real pleasure there is in a package of Beeman's? Five sticks of chewing gum—pure and wholesome, and loaded with delicious flavor that lasts—and lasts. That airtight wrapping, they tell me, keeps it fresh and preserves its delicate flavor. And don't forget, each meal will be kinder to you for Beeman's provides a pleasant aid to digestion."

SHORT WAVES

BY CHAS. A. MORRISON, president, INTERNATIONAL DX-ER'S ALLIANCE

(Figures in Parentheses Are Megacycles)

ONE of the most amazing feats of short-wave reception that I have ever encountered, is that recorded by RADIO GUIDE reader, Clyde Criswell, Mission Ranch, Phoenix, Ariz., who on Friday morning, February 26, at 10 a.m. EST (9 CST), tuned-in an unknown station on the ultra-high frequency of 41.5 megs. He states: "I heard everything as plain as a local for an hour and ten minutes. A girl, acting as the master of ceremonies, had about the worst Cockney accent I have ever heard. Although no station announcements were made, a march selection was played for fifteen seconds between the various items on the program, which included a short piano recital, an interesting news reel of current events, a professor talking about the habits and origin of different animals of the British Empire and a studio variety show. Several facts, including frequent mention of the broadcast as an afternoon show, although it was early in the morning here, lead me to believe this broadcast originated in Great Britain, but please do not publish this unless you have some way to definitely check same." The television supplement of the Radio Times of London for the week, including February 26, supplies the answer to this thrilling mystery, beyond any question of doubt. That program logged in Arizona was the sound accompaniment for the British television program from Alexandra Palace in London, which was being radiated on a frequency of 41.5 megs. Minute program details included in Mr. Criswell's log are definitely confirmed in the television listings for that day.

The much-discussed call letters of "La Voz del Alma," Guayaquil, Ecuador, operating on 9.44 megs, have now been almost positively identified as HC2ODA.

A verification received by R. B. Oxrieder, State College, Penna., from the new Venezuelan broadcaster YV1RL (5.937), states that this station located at Sabenta Larga, a suburb of Maracaibo, uses the slogan "Radio Popular," makes announcements in Spanish and English every 15 minutes and operates week days from 4:30 to 9:30 p.m. EST (3:30 to 8:30 CST). Transmissions open and close with the "National Emblem March." The owner is Jose A. Higuera and reports should be sent to P.O. Box 247.

According to Short-Wave Service of France, the Prague, Czechoslovakia, short-wave station has at last introduced a regular schedule of transmissions, which are as follows: Daily over OLR4A (11.84), from 7:55 to 9:45 a.m. EST (6:55 to 8:45 CST); over OLR3A (9.55), daily from 2:30 to 4 p.m. EST (1:30 to 3 CST) and on Mondays, and Thursdays, with the American broadcast, from 8 to 10 p.m. EST (7 to 9 CST). This program is continued from 10 to 11 p.m. EST (9 to 10 CST) on various frequencies which are announced at the time.

announces that YTC, Radio Belgrade, Yugoslavia, is being heard on a new frequency of 11.7 megs daily from 2:30 to 5 p.m. EST (1:30 to 4 p.m. CST), with the strongest signals after 4 p.m. EST (3 CST). The station signs off with "The March of the Slavs" . . . TIRCC (6.55), San Jose, Costa Rica, is now operating Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays from 6 to 7 p.m. EST (5 to 6 CST) and Sundays and Thursdays from 9 to 10 p.m. EST (8 to 9 CST).

Important changes have made in transmissions from Budapest, Hungary, as follows: over HAS3 (15.37), Sundays from 9 to 10 a.m. EST (8 to 9 CST), and over HAT4, recently heard on 9.096 megs, Sundays and Wednesdays from 7 to 8 p.m. EST (6 to 7 CST), and on Saturdays from 6 to 7 p.m. EST (5 to 6 CST).

Transmitting on its new frequency (15.28), HI3X, of Trujillo City, Dominican Republic, is heard daily from 12 noon to 1 p.m. EST (11 a.m. to 12 noon CST). On Sunday morning, March 21, this station was heard transmitting an apparently endless list of winners in some lottery. Tremendous applause would greet the announcement of each name . . . HIN (6.243), of Trujillo City, D. R., dedicates a special program to American listeners Tuesdays at 8:40 p.m. EST (7:40 CST) . . . For one of the most interesting and informal short-wave features on the air, don't miss the Monday night DX shows over HJIABE (9.5), Cartagena, Colombia. After the regular program is concluded at about 10:50 p.m. EST (9:50 CST), the mail-bag session, presided over by witty and comical English Announcer Amanti, commences.

The General Electric Company, Schenectady, N. Y., is seeking permission from the Federal Communications Commission to build a new short-wave transmitter near Belmont, Calif.

Charles Guilbert, Paris, France, writes that a new station, "Poste Bizertin," of Bizerte, Tunisia, Northern Africa, is being heard on 6.164 and 12.138 megs, from 3 to 5 p.m. EST (2 to 4 p.m. CST).

Akifusa Saito, Kumamoto, Japan, writes that the new radiophone circuit between Japan and the Okinawa (Rio Kiu) Islands consists of transmitters JKI (4.305) and JKJ (7.66) at Yoshino, Japan, with a receiving station at Taniyama, and transmitters JCG (4.385) and JCH (8.155) at Mawashi, Okinawa, with a receiving station at Shuri. JCG is being heard in contact with JKI each morning from 6:15 to 6:30 a.m. EST (5:15 to 5:30 CST), by California short-wave listeners.

Paul Dilg, Evanston, Ill., is still hearing 9MI (6.01), the S. S. Kanimbla, quite regularly from 6:35 to 7:30 a.m. EST (5:35 to 6:30 CST), at which time the broadcaster signs off with signature selections, "Sweet Dreams" and "God Save the King."

Scoop and double scoop! No photographs, no studio audiences, no interviews—even his name has been kept secret! Here RADIO GUIDE presents the first published pictures of CHEERIO, NBC artist—and also reveals his name—Charles K. Fields!

We Applaud

CHEERIO

CHEERIO works in the RKO building across the street from NBC and breakfasts in the Radio City drug store. Because his program is uniformly entertaining, and because he does his job without fanfare and hullabaloo, we applaud—CHEERIO!

Visiting LOUISE MASSEY at Home

TRUE WESTERN HOSPITALITY
—THAT'S THE KEYNOTE TO THIS HOUSE IN MANHATTAN!

Perhaps it's not as spacious as the old K-Bar ranch living-room in New Mexico, but the parlor of their home in Manhattan reflects the perfect taste of Louise Massey and of her husband, Milt Mabie!

When she is not broadcasting, rehearsing "The Log Cabin Dude Ranch," or making guest appearances, Louise often is to be discovered serving "tea for two" at her home!

"Soup's on" in Manhattan, and the "Westerners" don't have to be called a second time when Louise Massey plays the role of "cookee"

Louise curls up in her bedroom with a good book, relaxing a bit after a hard day at the studios

A tip from the tops... here's
FRIENDLY STIMULATION

TWINKLE, TWINKLE, LITTLE STAR! MITZI MAYFAIR, petite, vivacious dancer and singer in "The Show Is On" exclaims, "It's really marvelous the way a cup of Maxwell House refreshes you. It certainly helps me over the tough spots!"

LIGHTS! ACTION! CAMERA! FRITZ LANG, distinguished director of the Walter Wanger picture "You Only Live Once" says, "I'm a real booster for Maxwell House. Its friendly stimulation has often saved the day for me! And I don't believe I've ever tasted such rich, full flavor in any other coffee."

HELLO, AGAIN! JACK BENNY, star of Jell-O radio show and Paramount Pictures, enjoys a cup of his favorite coffee with MGM's Una Merkel. "You bet it's my favorite coffee!" says Jack. "That goes for me, too!" adds Una. "It's the 'tops' in flavor, all right. And Maxwell House is the only coffee I'm sure is always really and truly roaster-fresh!"

HAVE YOU EVER NOTICED THIS?

HAVE you ever noticed that you can never smell the fragrant aroma of Maxwell House Coffee—until you open the can? How important this is! For it means that when you buy Maxwell House you are getting every bit of its original roaster-fresh flavor and goodness. None of it has been lost. It is all kept for you—sealed by the famous Vita-Fresh packing process, in the super-vacuum can you open with a key. That is why Maxwell House always gives you full value for your money—full value in flavor, freshness and in rich, coffee goodness!

The Photo-Story of RUDY VALLEE'S LIFE

PART I.

Rudy Vallee

Rudy at the age of one and a half years. His eyes had the same winning characteristics then that they have in 1937!

It was during his early boyhood that Rudy Vallee first began to dream of music, of the theater

The house in which Rudy was born in 1901 at Island Pond, Vermont. It still stands—and the Vagabond Lover is very proud of his Green Mountain birthright Rudy's father has always been and still is a druggist. Here is the Vallee Pharmacy in Westbrook with a homecoming crowd milling around. Can you find Rudy?

This is the Vallee family home in Westbrook, Maine—as it looks today! The residents of this home now are Rudy's father, Rudy's sister and his sister's husband

A photographer takes an informal picture of Rudy's parents and his sister in front of their home. Rudy's mother, before her marriage, was Katherine Lynch

Mr. Charles Vallee. Rudy began his first work by helping his father in the drug store. The now master showman then dished up ice cream at the soda fountain!

Rudy was only fifteen when this was snapped—but a fine saxophonist. They wore caps in those days!

To save carfare when he worked for the Star Theater in Westbrook, Rudy bicycled two-reel comedy films to Portland, six miles away, to be shipped to another theater—and then wearily pedalled home, 20 cents richer!

Eighteen and proud of his instruments! So proud he had his picture taken with a fake outdoor background

Rudy's mother was always his best friend. Her death in 1931 was the greatest shock of his life

Left to right: Rudy, his mother, his father, and his sister. They're welcoming him home

Rudy and his brother William enjoy a game of pool. "Bill," Rudy's constant companion, is a writer

The Star Theater, where Rudy polished brass and swept out peanut shells for $7 a week!

OUR OWN April

DO YOU RECOGNIZE YOUR FAVORITE STARS? THEIR

Fool GUESSING GAME

NAMES ARE ON PAGE 46 — BUT GUESS THEM FIRST!

1. These eyes recently looked down on a "bundle from heaven." Also they have glanced dreamily at you from the screen. Can you guess the name? She's the wife of a popular band leader!

2. Lovely smile, isn't it? To tell you the truth, the possessor of this smile has a voice as beautiful!

3. Here's an easy one! If you wait until "the moon comes over the mountain," and use a little imagination, you'll recognize one of radio's beloved songbirds!

4. Behind this dynamic pair of hands there is just as dynamic a personality. Their owner is an adventurer, newspaperman—and radio star. He talks interestingly, engagingly—and speedily!

5. These belong to an opera-movie-radio star. She is named after a beautiful and significant flower. You shouldn't have trouble guessing the name—or studying the photo

6. The owner of this instrument recently fiddled around quite a while before he played it. "To Bee or not to Bee," that was his problem. He sank low, but not too low to play a solo!

7. Four legs, one radio team. They've been on the air for more than seven years for the same sponsor. They recently moved to Hollywood to broadcast their shows—because they liked California climate

8. Nice bathing suit, and er-ah—nice—, well, anyway, you hear her every week on NBC, and you enjoy her singing as much as you are now enjoying this picture of her. Boy—Page Miss—get it!

9. One, two, three, do you see what we see? The "eyes" have it—and so does this popular singer, who's heard on a program originating in Hollywood. He's on Astaire's show—but not Fred!

10. "Why, little girl, what a big mouth you have!" "The better to entertain you, my dears!" Anyway, that could be the answer from this radio star!

11. These feet may look peculiar, but tune in their owner some time. He's a man of many daughters, many proteges and millions of friends—everywhere!

12. The feet on the right would like to kick the ankles on the left, on the air, anyway. In private life they are married and have been for a long time. They're on the air on Wednesdays!

BIG MOMENTS WITH BIG TIMERS

RADIO BRINGS US
THRILLS — BUT IT IS ADVENTURE TO THE STARS, TOO!

The clock's long hand reaches the hour—and the Shell Show is on the air! That's the big moment of the week for Ernie Watson, musical director. He's a veteran behind-the-scenes man

Eddy Duchin, piano-playing society favorite, and Ben Grauer, most versatile of announcers, face each other and a microphone for the Shell Show. That's a thrill for them—and for you!

Gertrude Lawrence, the Britisher who introduced Johnny Green's "Body and Soul," appeared recently on the air with Rudy Vallee's Varieties

ALL-VEGETABLE CORRECTIVE Makes Them Feel So Alive

FOLKS just can't believe what an amazing difference there is in the way they feel after using a natural, all-vegetable laxative that really cleanses their system the way nature intended. But all around you people, millions of them, know how Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) rids them of draggy headaches, colds, upset stomach, when caused by sluggish bowels. See for yourself. Know what it means to use a purely vegetable laxative. See how gently and naturally it works, leaving you feeling refreshed and alive. Get a box of NRs—25 tablets only 25 cents at any drugstore.

FREE: Beautiful Six-color 1937 Calendar-Thermometer. Also samples of NR and Turns. Send stamp for packing and postage to A. H. Lewis Co., Desk 82D 163c, Louis, Mo.

Answer:.....
(2) An Implement is— (1) A false accusation; (2) A reminder; (3) A tool; (4) An increase.
Give number of correct answer:.....
(3) If you save 1/10 of your annual salary of $1,500 and spend $178 for education, and 20% of it for your share at home, how much would you have left?
Answer:.....
(4) Double entry means: (1) A punishable offense; (2) A method of indexing; (3) A system of bookkeeping; (4) A stub record of checks issued.
Answer:.....
(5) Technical means— (1) Mysterious; (2) Drawn in ink; (3) Scientific; (4) Clumsy.
Answer:.....
(6) If you were a per diem employee earning $.50 an hour, how much would you receive for 34 days, working 7 hours a day?
Answer:.....
(7) Albany is to New York as Augusta is to (a) Georgia; (b) Michigan; (c) Maine; (d) Wisconsin; (e) Illinois.
Answer:.....
(8) The statement: "Never cry over spilt milk" means most nearly (a) "Watch your step," (b) "It's an ill wind that brings no good," (c) "Accidents will happen in the best of regulated families," (d) "Waste not, want not," (e) "Tears will not mend broken crocks."
Answer:.....

Franklin Institute, Dept. C199,
Rochester, N. Y.
I send you my work on Mental Test No. 2. Kindly have your examiners correct this work and return to me with my rating and at no cost to me. Kindly send 32 page book "How to Get a U. S. Government Job" and full information regarding Government Jobs. Send list of Jobs and tell me how to get one.

DISCARD YOUR OLD AERIAL It is Most Likely Corroded and Has Poor or Loose Noisy Connections NO MORE BUZZES, CLICKS and shorts from summer rains and winter snow and sleet when using an F. & H. Capacity Aerial Eliminator. Equals an aerial 75 ft. long, strung 50 ft. high, yet occupies only 1 1/2 inch by 4 inch space behind your radio—guaranteed to give you nationwide reception of your money back. BETTER TONE AND DISTANCE GUARANTEED Sensitivity, selectivity, tone and volume improved. No lightning danger or unsightly lead-in and aerial wires. Makes your set complete in itself. Forget aerial wires and troubles—more your set anywhere. NOT NEW—VALUE ALREADY PROVED On the market five years, 100,000 satisfied customers in U. S. and foreign countries. In use from the Arctic Region of Norway to the Tropics of Africa. Chosen by Government for use on Naval Hospital bedside radios. Each factory tested on actual long distance reception. Cannot harm set—Easily connected to any radio, including radios having no ground or radios for double aerial. 5 DAYS TRIAL Mail coupon at once. Pay postman $1.00 plus a few pennies postage on delivery. If not entirely satisfied, return within five days and your dollar will be refunded without question. JUST MAIL THIS COUPON F. & H. Radio Laboratories, Dept. 83, Fargo, N. Dak. Send F. & H. Capacity Aerial. Will pay postman $1 plus few cents postage. If not pleased will return within 5 days for $1 refund. Check here [ ] if sending $1 with order—thus saving postage cost—same refund guarantee. Check here [ ] if interested in dealer's proposition. NAME ADDRESS CITY STATE

WOMEN THEMSELVES PROVE NEW KIND OF 15¢ SHADE LOOKS LIKE $1.50!

THIS WINDOW SHADE

Yours for 15¢

THOUSANDS NOW PREFER INEXPENSIVE CLOPAYS FOR EVERY ROOM

After Eye-Opening Test!

"We wouldn't have believed that a 15c window shade could actually look even better than a $1.50 cloth shade . . . until we saw them side by side and chose the 15c shade in preference!" . . . said women who made this test.

CLOPAY'S beautiful Lintone finish now gives these amazing 15c shades the luxurious appearance of window shades that sell at ten times their price! A saving of $1.35 on beautiful new shades for every window. You really get 10 gorgeous CLOPAY shades . . . for the price of one ordinary shade!

2 Years Wear and More!

Now, thanks to CLOPAYS, it costs you less than 7c a year to keep your windows in beautiful shades. For 15c CLOPAYS give 2 years wear and more! (And thousands of women report more than FIVE years wear!) And stay looking-like-new longer than ordinary shades . . . because their patented material doesn't crack, pinhole or fray! And hangs so beautifully! No tacks or tools to fuss with . . . CLOPAY'S patented gummed strip makes them easy to attach—in a few seconds. Anyone can do it. Millions are doing it.

Here's New Window Shade You Can SCRUB!

45c FABRAY

No more high prices for window shades you can wash . . . women are resolving! A new window shade creation . . . FABRAY . . . washes as easily as tile . . . with soap and water! Yet only 45c for the 36" x 6' size, complete on roller. Made on a patented base that gives them a wonderful silky texture. Wears amazingly . . . because FABRAY has no filler to fall out . . . doesn't crack, fray or pinhole. You'll see them in the finest homes . . . and on display in leading stores throughout the country.

**3 Out of 4 Mistook it for Costly Cloth*

Colors available are White, Green, Buff, Dark Ecru (Pongee) and Cocoa Brown

IS IT "LINEN"?

Now Replace All Your Shabby Window Shades... BUY 10 FOR THE PRICE OF ONE!

*HERE'S startling proof that you need no longer pay high prices to get beauty and dignified appearance in window shades. A remarkable new process called "Lintone" now gives to CLOPAY fibre shades the actual appearance of genuine linen! In actual test 3 out of 4 seeing a new CLOPAY LINTONE beside a $1.50 shade, only four feet away, thought the LINTONE was the cloth shade!

If no one can see any difference in the looks, why pay the big difference in price? Millions of women have found that CLOPAY 15c shades wear as well as most cloth shades. Now they look as well, too. A 15c LINTONE will not crack, ravel or pinhole. It will soil no quicker than the costliest shade and when it does you can afford to change at once—always have spic and span shades at a cost you will hardly notice.

It's not only inexpensive but also amazingly easy to change from costly old-fashioned shades to lovely new CLOPAYS. Use the same rollers. Rip off the old shade and apply CLOPAYS in a jiffy with patented gummed strip. No tacks or tools—no skill needed. As easy as changing pillow slips.

In addition to the new LINTONE shades, CLOPAYS are also available in a wide range of smartly styled patterns and modish solid colors. See them at leading "5 and 10" stores and most neighborhood stores. Write today for FREE SAMPLES of material. Address the CLOPAY CORPORATION, 1215 Dayton Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

NEW PROCESS Lintone CLOPAY WINDOW SHADE 15¢

NOTE: If new rollers are needed, CLOPAYS can be purchased already mounted as illustrated. Rollers only 10c additional.
