Mail your ballot to the Star of Stars Election Tellers, Radio Guide, 731 Ply-mouth Court, Chicago, Illinois. Paste it on a penny postcard, if you wish.

Your LAST Chance!

HERE will be no bal-lot for your Star of Stars Election next issue. This is positively the last one for this year's contest. It's your last chance to vote! May 31 is the final deadline; ballots postmarked later than that will not be counted!

But remember, you still have a chance to take part in the 1937 voting! This ballot, sent in right away, will still reach the Election Tellers in time! But of course you must act at once. In these final days of voting, there's still ample time for the standings to change-and some of them undoubtedly will. Whether the favorites who are now in the lead will hold their positions at the close of the poll is an open question that can be settled only by the ballots coming in during the remaining few days. And here's something import-ant to remember: If the standings are to change, they will change only because of the ballots from this issue which are sent

BLUE DANUBE

OUT OF A MUDDY YELLOW STREAM JO-HANN STRAUSS CREATED "BLUE DANUBE." THE MUSIC FLOWED FROM HIS HEART!

A NY novice in the art of wordjuggling can prove that black is white—or that white is black—but it required the wizardry of Johann Strauss II to change the color of a river.

Through the magic of a waltz rhythm he transformed a dirty-yellow, green-and-black stream into the "Beautiful Blue Danube," and in so doing left the world one of its most dearly beloved, most treasured melodies.

Search the Danube from its source high up in Germany's Black Forest to the Black Sea—and you will not find a single trace of the Straussian azure along its entire 1,750 miles. But as hard as your eyes try to disillusion you, your ears convincingly argue that the Danube is as blue as it is beautiful—and to prove it, you recall the hauntingly "Beautiful Blue Danube" waltzing through time, richly endowed with romance, memories and sentiments!

Yet, just as the bubbling little springs that unite to form the headwaters of the river whisper no hint of their important destiny, neither did the first upspringings of this universally beloved waltz give any promise of its future popularity. In fact, at its first public hearing it turned out to be a cordially disliked little flop—such a little flop that it attracted no attention, and so cordially disliked that it was almost denied a public hearing!

Johann II had already given new luster to the crown of "Waltz King" which he had inherited from his father, Johann I, before he sat down to write a male chorus for the Vienna Maennergesanguerein, by way of complimenting this organization. Josef Weyl, a police official who was poet laureate of the club, supplied the lyrics. Strauss was not entirely satisfied and changed several lines, which probably did not please the original author. He and other members of the chorus were far from enthusiastic when the composition was finally delivered for rehearsal for the program of Feb. 13, 1867. A movement even got under way to boycott the song. Naturally, the singers gave the work less than a half-hearted performance—and it fell flat.

STRAUSS did not worry about it. He was not superstitious about dates, and since this was his three hundred and fourteenth opus, and fourteenth opus, flops were nothing new to him. He even forgot the work until later that year when he was invited to conduct in Paris. Parisian hospitality was so lavish that he had no time to compose the new waltz that was inevitably expected from a guest conductor. Recalling that no one in Paris had heard that ill-fated male chorus, he hastily rewrote it at this time as an orchestral waltz. Paris went tral waltz. Paris went wild over it.

The popularity of "The Beautiful Blue Danube Waltzes" swept Europe. (The correct title is in the plural, for the work is actually eight separate waltz tunes flowing into each other.) It had already become a favorite in London before Strauss went there a few weeks later to play before the Prince of Wales, later England's Edward VII, and by "royal command"

"The Beautiful Danube Waltzes" were included in that important program. This captivating melody became the hit of the week. It lasted to become the hit of the year and continued to be the hit of a generation, several generations, and it will probably live as a hit for many generations to come.

Mention of hit-songs recalls dance bands, which inevitably reminds me that Johann Strauss' father, Johann I, with Josef Lanner, was co-founder of the modern dance orchestra which first popularized cafe dancing in Vienna in 1825.

The following year, during the Viennese carnival, Strauss and Lanner parted, with Johann the elder becoming an overnight sensation at the "Swan" cafe, where night after night he

"Swan" cafe, where night after night he kept the house packed. Soon his fame spread far and wide. Music centers competed for him. Wherever he went he was idolized, and that, coupled with the fact that a fascinating widow suddenly appeared on his horizon, gave later biographers a chance to use the word "desertion" in his life stories. However, before Johann I completely forgot the address of his family, he and his first-born son had a terrific row which was bitter in its consequences.

The elder Strauss' plans included no professionals in his family other than himself. His vanity was insatiable and he meant to keep it safe from rivalry from his three sons. Johann II was to become a banker, Josef an architect, and Eduard—he was too young to worry about when the father left home.

But one night he came home unexpectedly. And there he discovered, to his great distress, that young Johann was playing the violin in front of a mirror. "Ingrate," he shouted. "Upstart! What is the meaning of this?"

JOHANN II tried to explain. He had been giving the daughter of a neighborhood tailor piano lessons, thereby earning enough to study violin secretly with his father's own concert master.

"It must stop at once," the old man thundered. "You are to be a banker. I—I am the only musician in this family."

But Johann II knew better. The angrier the father grew, the more stubborn the son became. Eventually both lost their tempers and scorching words were exchanged. So scorching that it took years for the burns to heal in a reconciliation.

Johann II began a career that eclipsed even the popularity of the first "Waltz King" before he died of scarlet (Continued on Page 19)

"This is my baby," she said. "This is Lucy Monroe."

She vowed then that she would live for her child. Accustomed to seeing her name in headlines, she was surprised to see it appear less and less. To vaudeville she went and played with a man billed as "Will R. Rogers, cowboy." In 1910, she denied a report that she was retiring. Two years later she rated one line in an announcement of a new play. Charles Winningeryou know Cap'n Henry-also was in the show. Then Broadway forgot about her.

It was calm and crisp that Winter night in 1925. Electric lights blazed along Broadway and there were no shadows on the street. The multitude stepped gingerly on the icy sidewalk of the new Cosmopolitan Theater.

Inside the theater, a little girl of 18 slipped into the chorus of "Louie the 14th" and old-timers in the audience rubbed their glasses. Where had they seen that girl before? Anna Laughlin! The Wizard of Oz! It was impossible. Anna Laughlin was too old. Oh, it's little Lucy Monroe, Anna Laughlin's baby, making her debut. Applause for Lucy. Like mother, like daughter.

Lucy was getting columns. On to musical comedy went the star with her mother as her shadow. "Criss Cross" was cast. Fred Stone was the star. Lucy was in the chorus, but the star actress was taken sick, and Lucy was cast for the leading role. She too played opposite Fred Stone.

Lucy joined the Chicago Opera Company, then the St. Louis Opera Company, and eventually was starred by the Hippodrome Company in New York.

Then in 1933, she went to radio.

A radio star of magnitude, Lucy joined WEAF's Hammerstein's Music Hall program in 1935. Anna Laughlin had sung at the old Hammerstein Victoria 30 years before. The man with whom Lucy sang was Joe Howard, who was her mother's partner in the old Victoria engagement.

New Yorkers, who are just as meddlesome as small-town folk, began to wonder why there was no romance in Lucy's life. It seemed very strange.

ONE night last year, after she had appeared over the NBC network in the "American Album of Familiar Music," somebody asked her why.

Tears flooded her eyes. She blinked them away. There was a catch in her voice.

Now that I've lost it, I know that love is the most important thing in the world," she spoke softly.

"You see, for several years I was in love. He loved me. And I loved him. He wanted me to marry him. I said I would, but I kept putting it off. I suppose he finally got tired of my not making more room for him in my life, of my absorption in my career.

"It's all over now. He's found another girl. She has no interfering career. To her, love means everything. I never dreamed that this could happen. But now that it has happened, I might as well admit I've made a mistake. Nothing is so important as love."

Lucy and her mother lived an unexciting existence in a New York apartment. Last February Lucy Monroe moved to a hotel. She didn't explain. Anna Laughlin remained alone at the apartment until April 5.

Neighbors were the first to smell the gas and call the building superintendent. He took a deep breath, and then he broke into the apartment.

DUT, Officer, you can't arrest me now! I'm on the air!" "That's what you think, buddy.

Ladies and gentlemen, you WERE listening to a Man - in - the - Street broadcast, with your present unhappy announcer, Bob Trout, interviewing casual passers-by on the corner of 13th and E Streets, in Washington, D. C. At the moment your announcer, still clutching his portable microphone, is being escorted in the general direction of the District of Columbia jail by a large and very determined member of the metropolitan police force. And this, I am afraid, is the end of the Man-in-the-Street. Now, Officer, the broadcast has only three minutes to go, anyway. Why don't you stop pulling me along the sidewalk and answer a question or two as the little microphone here catches every word. Just a simple

So I didn't get a free ride in the patrol wagon, after all! That particular Man-in-the-Street broadcast on the Capital payement went on to its proper ending as the stop-watch ticked off the exact final second of airtime, and I had had another practical lesson in talking under difficulties. Scoop! A STAR IS BORN

At 2:45 p.m. EDST, Thursday, May 13, the popular radio team of Myrt and Marge entered Columbia's New York studios, precisely on time, put their regular daily show on the air. Immediately afterward Marge's husband, Jean Kretsinger (of the radio team, "Jean and Charlie"), hurried his wife into a taxi, urged the driver to speed to Brooklyn Hospital. There attendants hustled Marge into a reserved room, listed her "Maternity Case," began preparations for the stork.

At exactly 4:45 a.m. EDST to the second on the next morning (Friday, May 14), Dr. Winfield Stupt announced the birth of a boy, weight seven pounds, three ounces. It was Marge's second child.

First member of the family to see the new arrival was Father Jean. He saw his son just 20 minutes after the birth. Second was George Damerel, Marge's brother, the baby's uncle. Third was Myrt, Marge's mother, Baby Richard Jean Kretsinger's grandmother. Fourth was Mrs. Mary E. Kretsinger, Marge's mother-in-law, visiting in New York.

Radio's youngest star-to-be had been in the world barely twelve hours when Cameraman Gene Lester, clad in long white sterile gown and cap, entered the room to make the pictures you see on this page, score one more exclusive news-beat for Radio Guide!

Mother and baby are doing splendidly. Baby Rikky (he immedlately fell heir to that nickname) was born on the exact day he was expected. For that reason Marge had been in the "Myrt and Marge" script for Thursday, May 13, but was written out on the predicted day of her baby's birth, May 14. She expects to be back on May 28!

ATHER wife than stenog," says R Dorothy Thompson!

There on the desk between us lay an illusion shattered. A legend crumbled in my fingers. Dorothy Thompson, the career woman, the brilliant, scathing writer had denounced work, had spoken heresy.

Work had made her own life as adventurous as a small boy's imaginings; as romantic as a young girl's dreams. Achievement had made it a legend. If she could live it again she wouldn't change it-for herself. But we oth-

"Many women," she says, "are realizing at last that there is little difference between working for one man and another . . . husband or boss. A housewife has more real independence than a working girl. Rather wife than stenog, say I."

This was the woman speaking, whom legend has obscured; the woman whose sane observations so annoyed one editor that he said, "I like what you write, but I don't like a woman to write it."

It was absurd, of course, to expect a legend to materialize. It was, how-ever, what I had expected . . . the "blue-eyed tornado" to blow in, dy-namic, challenging the world with angry words; the super-woman being as super as can be; the foreign correspondent whose newspaper exploits shame fiction; the political analyst whose tongue lashes conservatives and radicals alike: the radio commentator who brilliantly reported both of last year's major political conventions for NBC; the feminist Miss Thompson who married Sinclair Lewis, Nobel prizewinning novelist, and remained Miss Thompson; the friend of kings and dictators who is banned from Germany. I expected the whole cyclonic legend in person.

I was early. She was late. The phone rang. "Mrs. Lewis isn't in," the secretary said. Mrs. Lewis? Probably a family friend, I decided. Many women are "Mrs." at home and "Miss'

AN EDITOR from the New York Herald-Tribune entered. "When Mrs. Lewis comes in, tell her . . . " What kind of feminist was this who was Mrs. Lewis in her own office? It didn't make sense. If she signed her articles "Mrs. Sinclair Lewis" she would make twice as much. Only in print, it seems, is she Dorothy Thompson. Miss Thompson does not exist. The legend was wrong. I soon found out how

When she arrived, forty-five minutes late, her first fine, angry words were: "Cottage curtains . . . plain white cot-tage curtains with ruffles. You would think you could find them somewhere in New York, wouldn't you? But, oh no, they don't make them anymore! That's why I'm late. I've been everywhere . . ."

Fine, angry words, full of scorn for stupidity . . . about curtains! A housewife's indignation. Mrs. Lewis' annoyance. An unexpected, but understandable, outburst. After all, if you have a colonial cottage in upper Vermont, you really must have ruffled cottage curtains. Any woman knows that!

And that is Dorothy Thompson . any woman-with more brains than most men. She would hoot derisively at that sentence. Nothing Dorothy Thompson hates more than generalities beginning with "most women," "most men" . . . even for the sake of the human ment. "Women are half the human ment. "Women are half the race," is her stock come-back.

"What kind of feminist is this?" I

She laughs impatiently. The answer is, of course, that she is not a feminist-at least, not the well-known, housewives' as though they were inchip-on-the-shoulder, man-defying

"Why all this hostility towards men?" she asks. "This insistence on "Why rivalry? Men are people." Her blue eyes flash with scorn, then with amusement. "The tremendous emphasis on careers for women that I grew up with is on the ebb, thank goodness. Keeping house may be as fine a career

SMARTER, more feminine, more charming than her photographs, today in her early forties, married, mother of a six-year-old son who is a miniature "Red" Lewis, she has no patience with feminism and "modern women."

"Show me a 'modern man'," is her none too amiable retort. "A 'modern' woman! Humph! The very word is absurd. What do they mean by it? An aggressive woman? There have been aggressive women since Cleopatra. The idea that all women were once docile is nonsense."

The wails of women who complain of overwork, of the sacrifices they must make for their careers bring no tears to her eyes.

"Sacrifices? What's wrong with sacrifices?" she demands. "They never hurt anyone." It is a key to her character. For her career she has had, on occasion, to sacrifice her safety, her comfort, and, ironically, her earning capacity. She alone is responsible for her opinions. Her husband's more famous name must take neither the credit nor the blame for them.

She signed a letter, employed a govferior to wage-earners! What does the normal woman want out of life? Love, marriage and children. That is wom-an's primary, natural desire. A further desire, which is the root of the socalled problem, is a desire for a certain degree of economic security of our own, the feeling of safety that comes from not depending entirely on someone else for our support—husband or parents. That is why women take jobs they don't need; why they have exaggerated the importance of careers. It money, the 'pin money' of our grandmothers, we want, not work it-

It is impossible to imagine Dorothy Thompson not working, despite the ruffled curtains, despite her claim that she is "healthily lazy."

Six years out of college, with "votes for women" a fact, she decided to be a newspaper woman. With $150 in cash and a boundless ignorance of newspaper ways, she went to England in the Spring of 1920 for that purpose. She didn't get a job, of course. An American, a stranger in London, with no experience, hadn't a hope.

newspaper fillers, a friend—she has a genius for making friends—suggested that she go to Ireland if she wanted excitement. There was a rebellion on. There she met Carl Reeves, London correspondent for International News Service. She showed him some things she'd written, interviews she'd had. If he thought they could be sold . . . He looked and nearly collapsed. She had erness for young Michael and went on what every reporter had sought: the last interviews with the McSweeney hunger-strikers. Here was a worldwide scoop, weeks late, because she didn't know its importance!

Having tasted excitement, she soon grew bored with a publicity job that she had landed with the American Red Cross in Paris. She begged for a transfer to Budapest, where excitement was daily fare and revolutions happened by the hour. Given it, she bulldozed the Philadelphia Public Ledger into considering her one of its foreign correspondents. No salary, no expense account-merely space rates was the agreement. Four years later she was chief of the Ledger's foreign bureau in Berlin-one of two women ever to hold such a position.

DURING those years things happened fast. She married and divorced Hungarian writer. Her wit and charm drew all the disturbed great and near-great to her home. Her Vienna drawing-room was crowded with prime ministers, psychoanalysts, radicals, Balkan refugees, sulking prole-(Continued on Page 18)

'The only genuine problem women have today is the general problem of modern industry . . . the fight for a decent wage during a production crisis. They think their independence is being assailed because there has been talk about taking women out of industry and putting them back in the home. They needn't worry. It won't work. They've found that out in Germany. Women are still working in Germany because without self-support they would starve.

HICAGO.—Of course, it's all over now and Radio Gude even made a special award of merit last week to Herbert Morrison and Charles Nehlsen, of WLS, Chicago, for their most dramatic recording of the Hindenburg disaster—but perhaps you'd like a thumb-nail sketch of these two lads who were on the spot to cover the most dramatic and tragic broadcast the world has ever known. Morrison is an easterner, formerly having worked at KQV in Pittsburgh (where he described the Pittsburgh (where he described the Pittsburgh flood), WIND in Gary, Ind., and WTMJ in Milwaukee. He started with WLS last October. Attended West Point, but did not graduate. Is an amateur pilot. Born 32 years ago, is single, stands five feet, eight inches, weighs 142, has dark hair and blue eyes and never had any newspaper experience! . . Engineer Nehlsen is one of those rare native Chicagoans. Arrived here 35 years ago. Has been with WLS twelve years and was originally radio operator aboard ships where he had his share of SOS calls. Also unmarried, he stands five sale from the master recording which Morrison and Nehlsen cut, but the station's officials feel that it would be the wrong thing to do. I disagree. The records should be made for the sake of posterity, and the profit from the sale could be given to the needy surviving families of many of the poorer members of the crew who perished.

Hollywood Flicks: Lum and Abner, a pair of small-town boys who made good, still get a kick out of meeting the movie stars. Last week their joy knew no bounds when, after they had locked bumpers with another motor car, they discovered that its occupant was the elusive Garbo! . Freeman (Amos) Gosden is having home-owner's trouble in Beverly Hills. His real estate is plagued with rabbits and he'd like to know the remedy . . feet, seven inches tall, weighs 175 pounds and is a candid-camera fan. Note: He had his camera with him at Lakehurst but he was so busy making the historic recording that he did not have time to take pictures.

WLS has had numerous overtures to make phonograph records for public tor car which was virtually demolished in a collision, but Blanche walked away—without even a scratch!

Romance Corner: One of Phil Spitalny's girl musicians finally broke her contract, which calls for an unmarried status. She was Frances Blaisdell, flutist, but now she's Mrs. Alexander Williams, whose hubby also plays the flute and clarinet with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra... Bill Seymour, WLW radio actor and brother of Anne (Mary Marlin) Seymour, was married last Sunday to Patricia Garrity, actress daughter of J. J. Garrity, Chicago Shubert Theater manager.

Pardon me if I seem to have called my shots wrong. When I announced the birth of a baby to Jean McGregor Miller, I called her Fran Moran. Of course I knew as well as you that she plays the part of Dorothy Moran, the radio wife of Terry Moran (played by Fred Von Ammon). Jean's real-life husband is a Milwaukee business man. By the way, an unusual incident occurred last week in "Today's Children" when, in the script, Gloria Marsh, played by Gale Page, left the cast to take a position in a night club. On the day she was supposed to leave "Today's Children," the odd part about it was that she did accept an offer to appear in the current floor show at the Drake Hotel! Incidentally, "Today's Children" tuner-inners are set for some juicy but veiled stories from real life when that dramatic sequence reveals the trials and tribulations of a gal who decided to be a radio star.

Nicest Happening of the week: A doctor sent Gene Arnold twelve dollars because he liked Gene's work in his new Saturday morning program. The doctor said that he drew the money from a fund which he maintains in order to contribute to worthwhile public causes.

THE Al Jolson-Parkyakarkus show leaves the air after the broadcast of July 6, with the return set for September 7 . . . It's practically all set for Jane Froman and her hubby, Don Ross, to pinch-hit for Jack Benny while the comic is on a summer vacation—which can't come soon enough as far as the comic is concerned! Jack is being worked to death and is on the go twelve hours a day with little or no time out to eat. Anyway, before he leaves on his European trip, the ace comedian will do three personal appearances at the Pan-American Exposition at Dallas, for which he will receive $15,000 for the July 3, 4 and 5 dates . . When Joe Penner leaves the air for a summer layoff, the spot will be filled by Gene Austin and Jimmy Grier's playboys . . . Kate Smith will not have any substitute while she is enjoying her summer vacation at Lake Placid and later in Banff, Canada, but it is all set for her to return to the airlanes for her new boss on September 30 . . . Jack Oakie will have a sub when he goes on his vacation. Stuart Erwin is rumored as the one who is likely to get the job.

Phil Baker will get time off during the hot weather period with Harry Von Zell slated to take charge of the program and act as master of ceremonies. Harry's first show in the new role will be on July 4 when it will turn into a half-hour variety airing and will include about three guests each week.

of the program. Some of the programs he handled were comedy shows, so he, too, became comical—so comical, in fact, that people liked him a lot. Thus, Phil Baker is going on a vacation in June and Harry Von Zell will become the head man.

It seems there's no end to this vacation news. I just learned that the popular Lulu Belle and her husband, Scotty, have already left the National Barn Dance for a three-month vacation in North Carolina . . . W. C. Fields has come back in a big way and is now a permanent member of the Sunday night coffee hour. The beloved comedian received a tremendous ovation when he was introduced to the studio audience . . A dramatized, comical version of a popular song will be a permanent feature of Bob Hope's on the "Rippling Rhythm" show . . . Margaret Brayton, the girl who portrays the English friend of Ray Noble on the Burns and Allen show, will be permanent on that program, having scrawled her signature to a long-term contract . . . Tony Wons will be back on the air in the fall. He's been up in Wisconsin for the past two years, but you'll be reading all about it in an exclusive story to be published soon in Radio Guide . . . Bill Robinson was to have made a guest appearance on "Show Boat," May 20, but the movie strike kept him on the Coast. He'll be on the first Thursday after his arrival in New York . . . Harry's rise since entering the field of radio has been rapid. First he was a CBS staff announcer, doing all kinds of shows from kiddie varieties, sidewalk interviews, to hour guest shows and presidential inaugurations. Then he got a job in the radio department of an agency which produces radio shows. Then, in his role of announcing those shows, which he also helped to build, he adapted himself to the mood who plays Silly Watson on the "Fibber McGee and Molly" show, plans to rejoin the comedy team in Hollywood on May 31.

Bandnotes: Ted Lewis, the man who always wants to know if everybody is happy, will return to the networks on May 25 when he replaces Henry Busse at the very popular Chez Paree in Chicago . . . Ferde Grofe takes over the baton-swinging job on the Friday night bankers program, aired over CBS... Benny Goodman will be seen and heard with Dick Powell in the Warner Bros. movie version of "Hollywood Hotel," which, incidentally, was written by Jerry Wald, former Radio Guide gossip scribbler... The Louis Armstrong all-colored show is said to be such a success that another sponsor is negotiating for a new radio show that will feature Duke Ellington and his orchestra.

The ban on broadcasting from the Hollywood Bowl has been lifted at last and NBC has set two concerts to be broadcast from that spot. The dates for the two broadcasts have been set as July 22 and 23, with Erno Rapee engaged to conduct the Los Angeles Symphony orchestra. Broadcasts previously had been only on rare occasions, as the management felt that airings would cut down the number of customers.

Buddy Clark will soon leave the "Hit Parade" to go to Hollywood. He did such a good job of voice doubling for Jack Haley in "Wake Up and Live," that 20th Century-Fox has put him under contract to act as well as sing. Buddy's wife, who is the daughter of Ralph Hitz, famed hotel operator, has already gone to California. Buddy will be there when the couple's first baby, expected soon, makes its appearance.

Leslie Howard On 'Your Hit Parade'

Leslie Howard, long ranked as one of the screen's most polished performers, makes one of his infrequent microphone appearances on Saturday, May 22, as guest star of the Your Hit Parade program.

Radio audiences have heard little of Howard since 1935, when he brought regular weekly dramatic show to the air.

Star of 24 Broadway successes in the decade from 1920 to 1930, Howard began a similar streak of film hits with his first picture in Hollywood, "Outward Bound." Since 1930, Howard has spent most of his time in the studios, playing in such successes as "Smilin' Through," "The Animal Kingdom," "Secrets," "Of Human Bondage," "The Scarlet Pimpernel" and "Petrified Forest."

Son of a British stock-broker, Howard's career seemed cut out for him until the World War came along. Returning from France to find no place for himself in business, he fell back on dramatics, which had been his chief joy in college, was soon on the way to stardom.

NBC Brings Night Club to the Air!

There's something new under the radio sun!

The NBC Night Club, a brand-new feature, starring Morey Amsterdam as master of ceremonies, will make its debut over the NBC-Blue network on Thursday, May 20, and will be heard each week thereafter.

The Club will be Studio A of the NBC Chicago studios, and the center of the studio will be cleared for dancing. Fifty couples will display their ballroom technique during musical numbers, and, in the words of Amsterdam, "all you'll have to do is close your eyes, throw a twenty-dollar bill out the window, and Imagine you're in a night club."

Friday, May 21-NBC 10:30 p.m. EDT (9:30 EST; 8:30 CST)

HAT night, Mrs. Edna Weimer had almost reached her home when the moron attacked her.

Well-dressed, matronly Mrs. Weimer was hurrying to get in out of the chill Spring air. An attractive woman, her heels tapped a brisk and sprightly rhythm on the pavement as she hurried.

And then, out of the shadows, the beast-man leaped.

There was no warning except the whisper of his shoe-leather on the pavement. Only that—and the next instant Mrs. Weimer felt the man's arms hurled around her—felt his hands, dragging at her, pulling her towards the black shadows-felt his eager breath panting, hot.

Nothing but sheer instinct saved Mrs. Weimer from the fatal error of relaxing in a faint.

'Help!" she screamed. She struggled. Cursing, the man let go his hold and for an instant Mrs. Weimer saw his face in the light of a street lamp. It was a brutal face, contorted, savage. And the next moment his hard fists crashed into her face and body, and she fell, stunned and bruised, to the sidewalk.

The man was running down the street when Mrs. Weimer staggered into her home, moaning. Her husband threw down the evening paper, ran to her.

"Good God, Edna-what happened?" She told him.

"Which way did he go?" snapped Weimer. Feebly the wife gestured then sank into a chair. But Weimer, with splendid-and unusual-presence of mind, shouted:

"Phone the police! I'll go after him. Police'll send out a radio flash!'

With that the door slammed behind him. Mrs. Weimer picked up the telephone receiver with a hand that shook. 'Get me police headquarters," she said.

Even while Mr. Weimer drove his car away from the curb in front of the house, the police of Pittsburgh were broadcasting this radio call:

"Calling Car 4 . . . Car 4 . . . Woman reported attacked in front of 518 Kearns Street . . . Car 4 . . ."

And in less than three minutes, Mrs. Weimer was telling her experience to Inspector Gus Ellis and Acting-Lieutenant John Reese, while the siren of their radio car subsided in a dying moan, just outside the Weimer home.

MEANWHILE the alert Weimerwith a cool head, despite the murder in his heart-was following Pittsburgh's Crafton car line. He cruised at moderate speed, looking and listening in frenzied intensity for any clew that might lead him to the would-be ravisher of his wife.

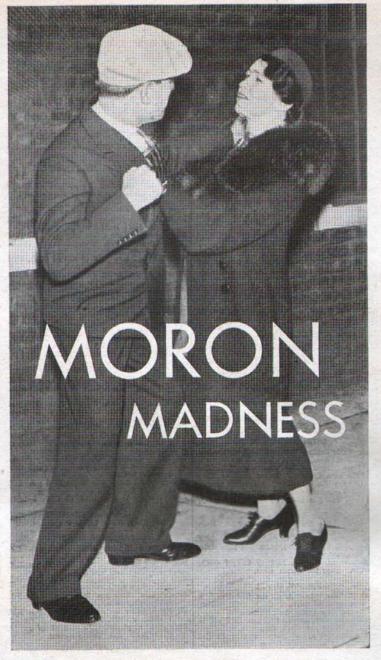

"He got away," Weimer murmured through clenched teeth. "He got away!" And then a woman's voice cried aloud in the night.

Ahead and to Weimer's right was a long bank of billboards, displaying their colored advertising posters. He throttled down his engine and listened.

"Take your hands off me! Help! Don't you touch me!"

Again the voice shrilled in the darkand this time there could be no doubt. Behind those billboards another woman was struggling against the fate so narrowly escaped by Mrs. Weimer.

The next instant Mrs. Weimer felt the man's arms, felt his hands, dragging at her, pulling her toward the near-by black shadows

And almost certainly, Weimer realized with a savage leap of the heart, this second woman was crying for help against the same monster that had attacked his wife.

Weimer jammed on the brakes, threw open the car door and hit the pavement running. He didn't stop to look for a policeman-there was no He didn't stop to wonder if the fiend behind that billboard had a gun. All he knew was a craving to wrap his hands around the throat of the man who had attacked his wife-a craving so intense that his palms itched as he tore around the end of that bank of billboards. There was murder in his heart.

At that moment, Weimer would have traded anything he had in the world for one solid punch at the fiend he knew was attacking a woman behind the billboards.

At once he saw them. The light was dim, but Weimer saw them. A woman, on one knee. A man, forcing her to the ground-reaching for her throat, to shut off her shricking, horrified cries by choking her.

But the man jerked up his head at the sound of Weimer's pounding heels. And with a bleating little sound of fear the attacker, so brave against helpless women, turned tail and ran, losing himself quickly in the shadows. Weimer returned to the sobbing wo-

"Thank God you came in time," she said, leaning against him as he led her to the car. The motor was still running.

"A telephone-a telephone!" murmured Weimer, harshly. "Don't you worry," he consoled, "as soon as I get to a telephone, the police will throw an army of radio cars around this district. We'll get him!"

N FRONT of the Weimer house, Mrs. Weimer was showing the two police officials the exact spot on which the outrage had taken place. They were looking for any possible clew to the moron's identity. At the curb, just a few feet away, was the radio car. And suddenly its loudspeaker summoned them:

"Calling Car 4 . . . Car 22 . . . Car 18 The man who attacked a woman on Kearns Street has just tried a second attack near . . ."

"Come on!" cried Lieutenant Reese. He and Ellis leaped into their car and tore away from the curb.

But they stopped, when, in the road ahead, their lights picked out a man and a woman, waving frantically.

"He went that way!" the man cried, pointing. "I'm Weimer, the husband of the lady who was assaulted first. This lady is his second victim."
"Get in!" cried Ellis, and in an instant the speedy radio car was away. They were going along Wabash Avenue when Weimer suddenly pointed and cried: "There he is!" And down the street a broad-shouldered youth suddenly started to run as the car approached him. From near and far came the wail of other radio cars, closing in.

With a burst of speed the car drew abreast the fleeing figure, jerked to a stop. The two police officials and Weimer jumped out.

"Halt!" yelled Reese, "or I'll let you have it!" And up ahead a broad-shouldered youth threw up his hands, came to a sudden stop.

"I didn't do anything!" he protested. But a voice from the radio car flatly contradicted this.

"That's the man who dragged me behind those billboards!" this outraged feminine voice cried, as Mrs. Elsie Sansbury, the moron's second victim, climbed out to take a better look at the captive's woebegone features. "That's the man," she repeated. "I'd know that face anywhere.

"What's your name?" snapped Lieutenant Reese.

"Leo Haberman. I didn't-

"Save that for the jury!" said Inspector Ellis. "You'll need it. thought you were safe enough, attacking women and then running. You didn't expect that radio would catch you-and then bring a witness along in a radio car to identify you almost on the scene of your crime."

Haberman said nothing. And just a couple of minutes later he was forced to face Mrs. Weimer, who also identi-

of the MASTERS

OW comes the time when most radio fans—music lovers included—take to the road. And along with them they take their favorite singers and the country's great est musicians. There is no need to be without them. In this day you can have music wherever you are . . . whether rolling down hills, swaying around broad curves, gliding on smooth slabs or bumping over country

This week I have been in Indiana's renowned Brown County, visiting its picturesque court house and jail and gossiping in such music centers as Bean Blossom, Gnaw Bone, and Stony Lonesome. These are communities of unquestioned cultural accomplishments, and, believe it or not, it is no mean experience to assist at a sym-phony concert with their citizens.

The response of honest people to the greater moments in musical literature greater moments in musical literature is both a surprise and a delight. Not only do they say what they think, but what they think is worth saying and remembering.

"You know, there is sumpin' in that thar music that I bin hankerin' after ... but I jist never could git the tune," one old hill-farmer told me. "Since we bin a-gitting it on the radio, I sorta hears every now and then a bit I likes ... an' I hankers to hyar more. Fore long, I'll be a high-falutin' music-lover, by jimminy!"

If you are fed up with the sophisticated snobbishness that airs itself in the corridors of our concert halls, go out and hear music with the country folk in your own county. Make friends and learn what the music of the masters can mean to listeners who create the barriers between the present and the statement of the mean to the statement of the no barriers between themselves and what they hear . . . who are not disturbed by their neighbors' opinion of their musical tastes.

Another refreshing experience is to take your lunch-basket and a congenial friend to a quiet, wooded spot . . . along a lake, a river, or a pond . . . and listen to the symphony of nature. You can draw your own conclusions as to what this music says. There will be no need for commentator or newspaper: your own thoughts will be enough. And when you understand this, turn on the radio in your car . . . lie on the grass radio in your car . . . lie on the grass and listen. Unless I am mistaken, music will take on a new meaning for you.

There has been considerable discus-sion lately as to what sort of commentary listeners prefer during orchestral and opera intermissions. Do they want stories of the music, life histories of the composers, personality sketches of performing artists, or fanciful tales of the commentator's own reactions to the music? Do they prefer the poetical descriptions presented by the reserved, descriptions presented by the reserved, erudite Lawrence Gilman . . or the more controversial, breezy thoughts of Deems Taylor?

Provoked by the complaining letters Milton J. Cross read from Cleveland on the final broadcast of the Metropolitan Opera's regular season—the one about the advertising blurb for Boston, etc.—thousands of listeners have written their views on operatic lobby talks. We have permission to quote some of We have permission to quote some of their letters, but before we do, we should like to have your opinions on the subject in general. What do you want to know from the man who fills in with talk during the intermissions of broadcast concerts?

Arrangements . . . why must everything be arranged?
When Mr. Heifetz comes before the microphone in one of his all too rare appearances, should he not be allowed to play music originally written for his instrument? Must he be forced to give instrument? Must he be forced to give us thrice-arranged excerpts from an opera, that were never intended to be squeaked out by a violin with orchestral background, no matter how fine the instrument or the artist?

Apropos of arrangements, when great masters of orchestration, Richard Straus, Brahms, et al., whose genius is recognized the world over, write a piece of music, is it not the better part of wisdom to hear their music as it was written instead of in an arrangement by a $75 or $100 a week orchestrator in some publishing house or in some bandleader's employ. Music of little worth and of only passing molitary was written and of only passing molitary and the statement of some bandleader's employ. Music of little worth and of only passing mo-ment may need to be rearranged nightly to prolong its already feeble life, but this is not true of music's mas-terpieces. And all program-builders would do well to search the store-houses of music carefully before they make substitute arrangements.

The programs on Mother's Day week-end revealed the paucity of suitable musical material. For some reason or other, the number of great composers who paid tribute to their mothers is not large. Dvorak's "Songs My Mother Taught Me" and a few other more or less, mostly less, worthy songs head a list that tapers off to the songs head a list that tapers off to the worst conceivable drivel and saccharine slop. The sentiment is always praiseworthy but both the musical setting and the poetical expression show, more often than not, a distinct lack of inspiration.

Here is a subject worthy of our most talented composers. We should have

Here is a subject worthy of our most talented composers. We should have several great ballads about mother-hood in the next few years . . . and perhaps a more extended work. John Charles Thomas contributed a simple song, "Mother," which was distinguished more by its presentation than by its intrinsic merit. Mr. Thomas proved once again his incomparable mastery of the art of singing.

The Vienna radio studios, in present-ing their first "Listen, America" proing their first "Listen, America" pro-gram, chose to give us a lesson in how to play our own fox-trots. Not only to play our own fox-trots. Not only did they give us von Suppe and Strauss, but they tried an American tune and proved, beyond doubt, to every listener that he'd never want to dance our jazz away from home. The half-hour was packed with variety and I'm willing to wager so much music has never before gone over an aver. has never before gone over an Austrian microphone in a single half-hour. Usually, in Vienna, they take ten minutes to get started.

This performance of "The Man Without a Country" will be the radio premiere of the work, and will follow by only ten days the first performance. The story of the new opera, latest creation by the grand old man of American music, is one that is familiar to generations of American school children. It is based on the story written in the early days of the Civil War by Edward Everett Hale. Dr. Damrosch has used one historic American tune, "Captain Hull's Victory," and has composed one or two other airs in the early American manner. There is also a dance tune of American Negro characteristics. The composer has used spoken, as well as sung, text. The opera will be given in English, of course.

composed one or two other airs in the early American manner. There is also a dance tune of American Negro characteristics. The composer has used spoken, as well as sung, text. The opera will be given in English, of course.

Dr. Damrosch has made some alterations in the story to fit it to operatie use. In the tale as originally written no woman figures, and the hero finally dies, an exile to the end in accordance with the fateful court-martial verdict. In the Damrosch version, Philip Nolan, a young marine fleutenant, is in love with Mary Rutledge, and his desire to impress her makes him an easy dupe of Aaron Burr's schemes to establish an empire of his own on American soil. Burr is financed by an eccentric Irishman, Harman Blennerhassett.

"The Man Without a Country," in two acts, opens on Blennerhassett's Island in the Ohio River, where a gay party is being held as a cover for a meeting of the Burr conspirators. Mary, who has learned that Nolan is involved, warns him in vain. Burr and the others disperse, but Nolan lingers to see Mary again and is arrested by a party of soldiers on the charge of treason.

In the following scene is depicted the courtmartial under Colonel Morgan, featured by Nolan's dramatic ejaculation that he never wishes to see or hear of the United States again. The sentence is that this impetuous wish shall be carried out literally. Mary resolves to devote her life to obtaining a pardon for Nolan.

The second act finds Nolan, a perpetual exile, on the Frigate Guerriere off Gibraltar. Toward the end of the scene one of the midshipmen approaches Nolan and asks him to read a poem by Scott which has just appeared. This leads to his aria, "Breathes There The Man," in which his despair and remorse reach their climax. In another scene some American girls, Mary among them, come aboard for a celebration. Mary begs Commodore Decatur to give Nolan leave to fight in the coming encounter with Algerian pirates. He grants her request.

In the final episode Nolan is shot as he kills the Algerian pirate chie

VOICE OF THE LISTENER

The "Voice of the Listener" letterforum is a regular feature in Radio Guide each week, offered to the readers as a means for expressing and exchanging opinions about radio.

Radio Guide will pay $10 for the best letter published each week and $5 for the next best. Other letters deserving our readers' attention also will be published.

UNTRIED TALENT

($10 Prize Letter)

Voice of the Listener: The sponsors of radio programs have been most generous and helpful to those who aspire to become actors, singers, dancers or have an unusual ability for playing a musical instrument. But why are they so unmindful of discovering new talent in their most vital department—script-writing.

Through amateur hours we have heard many new singing discoveries given their first big chance. Is it not just as likely if the sponsors tried they just as likely if the sponsors tried they could find new gag- and script-writers among their listeners by using contests of some sort? Those who aspire to write deserve as much opportunity as those who would sing, for they are truly the most important cog in the spinning - wheel of entertainment.—Herman Francis Kissell, Columbus, O.

DISCRIMINATION

($5 Prize Letter)

Voice of the Listener: Consider the case of Rosa Ponselle, the great American soprano who has contributed more than a decade of honor to musical achievement in America. What does she get in return? How many times has she been heard on the radio in the past year?

Half a dozen times. Has she been borne triumphantly to Hollywood so the rank and file could share her with Gotham's opera-goers?

A fashion-plate prima donna and yet you never see her face in magazines.

But here's the procedure with-we'll say-an unknown French singer. At her Met debut we are carried away with enthusiasm—we demand hearing her on the air—beseech a movie contract for her—name a town after her—vote her into top position in popularity polls.

Why have foundations to foster native ability if we never intend to give our native talent preference to the accented visitors?—Eileen Doyle, Birmingham, Ala.

Dear VOL: I've always doffed my chapeau to radio because it, unlike other entertainment mediums, offered humor without traces of filth. Of late, however, it appears to me that radio's censors must be on one of those sit-down strikes. Certain nationally fa-down strikes. Certain nationally fa-mous comedy programs have allowed to seep into their scripts entirely too many "off-color" jokes.

I have a sense of humor and enjoy good jokes as much as the next fel-low, but please let my helping be of the CLEAN variety.—Rosse Fowlkes, Jr., Danville, Va.

LOOKING HIM-WARD

VOL: So it is all a form of "fantasy love" is it? Or at least on the verge. Maybe some are, but I say the majority are not. And those wiseacres had better go easy.

We'd be called quite properly natural ladies if we enthused over a beautiful baby, an appealing puppy, a rare jewel. If it be a man who rouses admiration what need be the differ-

WGY'S TALLEST!

BY MARY O'NEILL

F AN old lady had died six months later, or if Robert Rissling's footamputation had occurred six months earlier, then I probably would never be writing this story of Robert Rissling, WGY's tallest announcer and singer.

That sounds disconnected, but you will soon find the link as this narrative of a network baritone and announcer is enfolded.

nouncer is enfolded.

Robert Rissling, six-foot-three-inch WGY feature, lays claim to a most unusual thing: he's a native New Yorker. However, his family early moved to Utica where he received most of his education.

Between bouts of working to contribute toward the meager income of his family, he managed to get a high-school education, but, just six months school education, but, just six months before graduation, he was taken ill with a badly infected foot, which later necessitated amputation. And therein is the key to all this.

His graduation was delayed a year, and in that year a very wealthy Utican died; and being a great lover of music, she left her entire estate to the school. The interest of this estate was to be used as a scholarship for the winner of a big music contest, the contest to be held annually.

Young Rissling, without a day of musical training, easily won that contest when he graduated the following year, for he really loved to sing. He always sang: while he was waiting on tables, working at soda fountains, delivering papers—he was constantly singing.
And just before this $1,100.00 scholarship was won, he came out in first place in the local Atwater Kent audi-tions but failed to make the New York finals. But this old lady's philan-thropy enabled him to enjoy a four-year study of voice after he left school, and that training gave him the career he has today.

THREE weeks after graduation a friend in a local station, WIBX, Utica, called him in to audition for a job as singer. Jokingly, Rissling said: "If you'll let me announce I'll try for the job." Beside him, at the time, stood a seemingly disinterested man, but, with a rather knowing nod in this man's direction, the friend said: "Go ahead, Bob—go into that studio and announce the next program on schedule."

Rissling didn't know whether to take him seriously or not. But he did recog-nize the knock of opportunity when he heard it, however faint it was. And joke or no joke, he meant to take advantage of it.

So, without any preparation but all sto, without any preparation but an interest to confidence in the world, and as the result of a half-meaning joke, Robert Rissling took over a radio program and announced himself right into a full-time job, beginning the next morning at Station WIBX, Utica. You see, the "disinterested" meaning at Station WIBX, Utica. the "disinterested" man happened to be the station owner!

Bob really started out to be an ar-chitect, according to high-school rec-ords, but this chance in radio altered that ambition.

He stayed in the Utica station for two years. Then Syracuse, WSYR, beckoned, and there he worked in beckoned, and there he worked in the capacities of both singer and an-nouncer for another year. Along came a chance to join WGY, back in November of 1932, and although he started in the Schenectady NBC outlet as just announcer, he soon earned a baritone listing and was put on the networks for a program that lasted nineteen solid weeks.

Only a streptococcus germ halted his network singing, and, although he has had several throat operations, the doc-tors have assured him he soon will be able to resume his work (which is really no work, as Bob puts it—"but a pleasure for which I get paid").

All this time young Rissling has been too busy to find time to get married. He has provided a home for his mother and dad now and feels he can take time out to look around for that "ideal girl." In the meanwhile he'll use his spare time playing golf, which is the thing he likes best to do—next to sing-

Singing is of course his first love.

Everything in his life thus far has been pointed toward that goal.

As this issue of Radio Guide went to press, Robert Rissling asked for a leave of absence from WGY for rest and to improve his health. But he'll be hear seen. be back soon.

The Story of a Baseball

There were numerous ways devised throughout the country to obtain money for the flood sufferers of a few months ago. But it was Leo Bolley, sports announcer of WGY, who devised the most unique method.

Leo wanted to help as millions of others were doing, and he wanted to help in a big way, not just with an own individual contribution. So, he own individual contribution. So, he happened to think of Johnny Evers of that great "Tinker to Evers to Chance" combination of baseball history. "Surely Johnny would have some trinket of the bygone days, valuable for a sort of 'auctioning-off'," thought Leo—and he and the great Evers got together.

Robert Rissling: His career began with what he thought was a joke!

JOHNNY gave a baseball with which JOHNNY gave a baseball with which he had toured Europe when the White Sox and Giants were so famous in 1924. It was signed by notables whose autographs ought to bring a pretty sum. And it did just that.

Leo made the appeal in his Monday-Wednesday-Friday 6:45 "Sports Parade" on WGY, and to the highest contributor was to go the coveted ball. Even Leo Bolley was surprised at the volume of the mail that rolled into the station in response. He knew, of station in response. He knew, of course, that the baseball was valuable, and he knew too just how rabid baseball fans can be, but he was still amazed.

Over $1,100.00 worth of answers poured in—and the New York Central Athletic Club sent in the highest sum, Athletic Club sent in the highest sum, $400.00, and prepared a case to be set up in the Albany, New York, depot with the baseball and its story. The ball has done a lot of good—it made baseball history and it made flood sufferers happy.

Leo Bolley is beaming these days!

tarian writers and haughty aristocrats. To a dinner she gave in honor of the president of the Hungarian Re-public, a friend brought Sinclair Lewis. The red-headed author stared at her steadily throughout dinner. As they left the dining-room he came up to

"Will you marry me?" he asked. Dorothy Thompson laughed. "That is a well-timed proposal, Mr. Lewis. Not only have I just received my divorce today, but it is my birthday."

He laughed, too, until he realized this wasn't acceptance. That follows. Adventure and success come first.

A USTRIA was in revolt against the Hapsburgs in 1922 when Dorothy Thompson arrived in Vienna. Emperor Karl and Empress Zita were prisoners in their own palace. They, thought young Dorothy, would be a good beginning to her career as foreign correspondent. Dressed in a Red Cross uniform which would get her past the menacing lines of revolutionary soldiers, she marched into the palace. She found there, not an Empress but a heart-broken mother who welcomed the American reporter as a God-sent messenger who could send word to a messenger who could send word to a little boy away at school who might be worried about his parents.

"All well," wrote the Empress to Crown Prince Otto, "Don't be anxious.
Mother."

Mother."

Dorothy Thompson was no longer on space rates after that interview. Her nose for news led her to every disturbance. Death from a Bulgarian machine-gun missed her by inches. Revolution in Poland brought her fame—and the end of adventure. Her head, not her feet she intended to use in the not her feet, she intended to use in the future. Events, she had long realized, were only the frame in which hangs the true meaning of history. She was through with events. Rewarded with the important job in Berlin, she became a commentator, not a reporter. She traveled, observed and analyzed—a crusader, then, as she 'is today, against social injustice.

SINCLAIR LEWIS kept popping up, but she saw no room for a husband in her busy life. In 1927 he followed her to Russia. A committee of proud Communists stood on the platform to welcome the great American writer who had come, no doubt, to praise and envy their country.

"What interests you most in Russia?" they asked.

"Dorothy," he answered.

The committee tried again. "What would you like to see first?"

"Dorothy," he repeated.

"Dorothy," he repeated. After that Dorothy Thompson gave up. In 1928 they were married and returned to America.

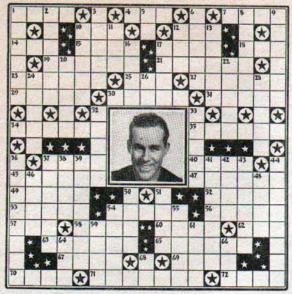

To be Mrs. Sinclair Lewis was a distinction, but it was also a problem. Her first marriage had been too brief, too hectic to count. She had still to realize to what extent, as she puts it, "every woman's life is a compromise."

woman's life is a compromise."

"It is extremely difficult to be a woman even under the simplest circumstances. Women have to make more adjustments every day than most men make in a year. We have more things to handle; must be able to switch our attention from one thing to another instantaneously. Consider the complexity of housekeeping. Our lives are far more complex than men's but complexity of housekeeping. Our lives are far more complex than men's, but fortunately we are better equipped by nature to handle the countless things that confront us. If we wish to, or must work, also, it is only one more thing to handle if women would only admit it. I know women who exhaust themselves with golf after work, but themselves with golf after work, but would scream at the mention of house-work. I'd rather keep house any day than play a tiring game. It's a woman's natural work-the work for me!'

fever in Vienna September 25, 1849. He had his first chance to lead an orchestra in the historic Casino on October 15, 1844. The proprietor reluc-tantly consented to Strauss' demand that he include one of his own waltzes. that he include one of his own waitzes. But after his very first, the "Sinnege-dichto" waltz, he did not regret his leniency, for one critic, who reported that he left the Casino at 11:30, records that this new waltz had been encored six times and that the dancers were still clamoring for repetitions.

BEING the son of a popular idol no doubt helped Johann II gain his first hearings, but eventually his public forgot that he was the son of their idol and worshipped him in his own right. That public was more discriminating than fickle, for time has proved that the son was unquestionably the greater of the two geniuses.

New waltzes sprang from his inkwell with amazing rapidity—more than five hundred of them before he died in Vienna, June 3, 1899, and each one, according to the composer, written between sunset and dawn. Many of these have long since been forgotten, but the list of those which remain popular in our own day is an impressive one. While "The Beautiful Blue Danube Waltzes" is certainly the best known and most frequently heard, recall how often your loudspeaker brings you "Tales from the Vienna Woods," the "Emperor Waltz," "South-ern Roses," "Wine, Women and Song," "Wiener Blut" and "Die Fledermauss." "Whener Blut" and "Die Fiedermauss."

You may not know these by name but you immediately recognize those tunes as familiar favorites when you hear them. A number of these are listed in the standard repertoire of the world's foremost orchestras and are included on programs chosen by the most eminent of conductors. His sevmost eminent of conductors. His several operettas also have lasting appeal—with "Die Fledermaus" scheduled for revival at the Metropolitan Opera during this coming season.

ONG before Strauss, lured by the promise of gold, finally yielded to invitations to visit the United States, his waltzes had become popular favorites with Americans. And when Patrick Sarsfield Gilmore succeeded in inducsarsheld climore succeeded in induc-ing Strauss to take part in the Inter-national Peace Jubilee in 1872, he was accorded a reception that rivaled the one P. T. Barnum staged for Jenny Lind when she first arrived. Elaborate plans were made for Strauss' opening concert in Boston. It proved to be one of the most gargan-tuan music shows ever staged in this country. An audience of more than 50,000 gathered for the occasion, and Gilmore planned a band of corresponding proportions. To his own large concert unit he added 2,000 players from the country's leading concert and military bands. There was also a chorus of 2,000—in addition to which Gilmore engaged 100 gentlemen from the more engaged 100 gentlemen from the Boston fire department, who robustly pounded 100 tuned anvils!

Strauss' tour of the United States was one triumph after another. Wherever he appeared persons drove from miles around to catch a glimpse of the great man whose music they had already known and loved. Orchestras and choruses everywhere were augmented for the occasion. In Nashvillemented for the occasion. In Nashvillemented for the occasion. mented for the occasion. In Nashville, Tennessee, he was assisted by the fa-mous Jubilee Singers plus a "Bouquet of Artists," one hundred and fifty wellknown professional singers.

THOSE who came to hear Strauss' music became hypnotized by the man himself, as the following picturesque recollection of Charles P. Upton, late critic of the Chicago Tribune, records in his "Musical Memories".

critic of the Chicago Tribune, records in his "Musical Memories":

"Strauss was a fascinating leader. At the time I saw him he was about forty years old. He was of medium stature, with a rather low and narrow forehead, from which he brushed his hair straight back. He had the swarthy Austrian complexion bright rectiles. Austrian complexion, bright, restless black eyes, and wore side whiskers English fashion. With his left leg a little advanced and his violin resting on his knee, he gave the time for a bar on his knee, he gave the time for a bar or two very gracefully, also marking time with his right foot. He would then play with the orchestra, his whole body swaying to the rhythm of the waltz—only for a minute, however, for as a new phrase developed itself, his bow would be in the air, the violin again resting on his knee. He would turn to each part when he gave the signal to come in, sometimes developing whole bars, note for note, abruptly pausing for a beat or two, then elecmg whole bars, note for note, abruptly pausing for a beat or two, then electrically springing into the music—feet, arms, legs, even the features of his face moving in the tempo. He impressed his individuality upon every player, and they moved as one in the intoxicating delirium of the waltz. The effect upon the addispne weeker. effect upon the audience was as mar-velous. All over the building thou-sands of heads—black, blond and gray were fairly dancing. The singers were bobbing in time. The players yielded to the fascination and marked time to the fascination and marked time with their bodies. And high above all stood the presiding genius—the embodiment of the waltz rhythm."

Perhaps the greatest of all tributes to Johann Strauss and to the "Beautiful Blue Danube" was paid by that other great Johann, Brahms. When Frau Strauss requested him to autograph her fan he carefully inscribed the opening bars of that waltz and signed it, "Unfortunately not by Johannes Brahms." And he was no mean writer of waltzes himself!

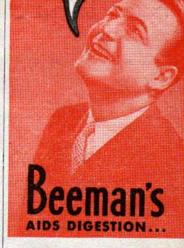

IF VIENNA failed to recognize the "Beautiful Blue Danube" at its first performance, the Austrian capital soon came to treasure that work almost as sacredly as its national anthem—as much as Americans treasure John Philip Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever." Austrians have since come to revere Johann Strauss as one of their greatest composers, and when that greatest composers, and when that country honored its most notable crecountry honored its most notable creators of music by issuing seven special postage stamps in 1921, Johann Strauss was included along with Mozart, Haydn, Schubert, Beethoven, Mahler and Hugo Wolf. His portrait graces the 50-kronen stamp of that issue.

Thus the "Beautiful Blue Danube" continues to waltz through time, an endless time that has no Black Sea as its destination. But if the "Beautiful Blue Danube" seems without end, other than to make glad the hearts of man, it did have a source. That source was the heart of its immortal composer—Johann Strauss.

CHORT-WAVE reception conditions SHORT-WAVE reception conditions have improved somewhat but are still below normal for this time of the year. Although the principal broadcasters are heard with regularity, their signals lack the sock that characterized, for example, the Zeesen, Germany, broadcasts from the Olympics last Summer.

According to microphone appruises—

According to microphone announce-ments, two of the new Daventry trans-mitters are now in operation, but, except for a more noticeable stability of carrier wave, the signals do not seem to have improved much. I doubt if the full power of 50,000 watts or the new directive aerial system is yet in effect.

Two separate transmitters will be used under the call GSG (17.79) with transmissions beamed in different directions. GSG is the best of the Daventry frequencies at present and in the early afternoon is much stronger than its next-door neighbor, W3XAL (17.78), of Boundbrook, New Jersey.

THE Columbia Broadcasting System's new international short-wave broadas transmitter, with a peak power of 40,000 watts, has been dedicated officially. Programs of interest, primarily to foreign audiences, will be selected for W2XE's trans-Atlantic broadcasts by a new program department headed by Elizabeth Ann Tuckment headed by Elizabeth Ann Tuck-er, who, as a former member of the CBS general engineering department, for the past several years has been closely associated with Columbia short-wave activities. The following transmissions will be beamed on En-gland and Europe daily: On 21.52 megs from 7:30 to 10 am EDT (6:30 to 9 grand and Europe daily of 2.1.2 megs from 7:30 to 10 a.m. EDT (6:30 to 9 a.m. EST); on 17.76 megs from 1 to 2 p.m. EDT (12 noon to 1 p.m. EST), and on 15.27 megs from 3 to 6 p.m. EDT (2 to 5 p.m. EST).

NBC's official apex transmitters include: W2XHG (41 megs), which operates daily with a power of 100 watts from 9 a.m. to 12 mid. EDT (8 a.m. to 11 p.m. EST); W8XKA (55.5)), which relays W8XK of Pittsburgh, Penn., daily from 2 to 10 p.m. EDT (1 to 9 p.m. EST); W1XKA (55.5), which relays W1XK of Springfield, Mass., daily from 7 a.m. to 1 p.m. EDT (6 a.m. to 12 noon EST), and W4XCA (31.6), which relays WMC of Memphis, Tenn., daily from 8:30 a.m. to 12 mid. EDT (7:30 a.m. to 11 p.m. EST).

On May 19, official telephonic comon May 18, official telephonic com-munications between the United States and Shanghai, China, was inaugurated. Service opened by a conversation be-tween Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Mme. Chiang Kai-shek, wife of the Chinese distator. Chinese dictator.

A NEW and powerful short-wave station will be erected in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, this year. With 50,000 watts, it will be the most powerful short-wave broadcaster in South America. The station will have two beams, one for Japan, Europe, and Asia, and the other for Central Amer-ica. The Central American aerial should also give good program service throughout the United States.

Commander E. F. McDonald, Jr., president of the Zenith Radio Corpor-ation, announces that his company has moved to its new factory in north-west Chicago, which is the largest ra-dio factory in the world on one floor. The new plant will be capable of turning out 10,500 all-wave receivers every eight hours, or nearly 22 radio sets a minute!

Kahuku, Hawaii, commercial stations KQH (14.92), KIO (11.68) and KRO (5.84) have been licensed to communicate with relay broadcast station KMEF, which is located aboard the U. S. S. Avocet, for the purpose of transmitting programs relating to the Solar Fellings Expedition. Bolines the Solar Eclipse Expedition. Bolinas, Calif., stations KQJ, KKZ, KEI and KEB also will be utilized.

Sintonia states that the new short-wave station CP1 (9.85), located at Sucre, Bolivia, is operating from 9 to 11 p.m. EDT (8 to 10 p.m. EST) daily.

It will be a great disappointment to many short-wave listeners to learn that a recent communication from the Ministry of Communications in New Zeeland states that the Zealand states that the popular short-wave transmitter ZMBJ, aboard the S. S. Awatea, has been ordered to stop broadcasting. The reason is unknown.

A CCORDING to Clyde Criswell of of Phoenix, Ariz., African amateurs on the 10-meter band may be heard between 12 noon and 2 p.m. EDT (11 a.m. and 1 p.m. EST); Europeans from 1 to 3 p.m. EDT (12 noon to 2 p.m. EST); Australians from 9 to 11 p.m. EDT (8 to 10 p.m. EST), and South Americans from 3 to 9 p.m. EDT (2 to 8 p.m. MST). (2 to 8 p.m. MST).

Herbert Campbell, of Athens, Penn., writes to say that a band selection, which is probably the Peruvian anthem, or a stirring fife and drum selection, or a stirring fige and arum se-lection, is always played just prior to station announcements over OAX5A (11.8), of Ica, Peru. This station has been coming through with excellent volume of late.

David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America, in a speech before the American Physical Society, stated in part: "Short-wave transmission of pictures and printed or written material has been an accomplished fact for several years. It is now in daily service between Europe and America. The broadcasting of a facsimile newspaper into every business office and home, in half-hourly installments if desired, is perfectly feasible. The establishment of fectly feasible. The establishment of such a service is now an economic rather than a technical problem.

CHEERS, A NATION'S ORCHIDS

. Goodman Ace, his wife, Jane (right), and Mary Hunter (center) for homeand-fireside air bickering—never bitter, never barbed, always laugh-laden. Goodman was a reporter, dramatic critic, columnist in Kansas City-still is an ink-slinger, writes the "Easy Aces" script. Once he had to ad-lib at the mike, beckoned wife Jane, started the "Ace" team. Mary Hunter was a radi-writer—is "Marge" in "Ace" airings

... Richard Bonelli (left) for great songs, greatly sung; for rising from newsboy to opera-and-radio fame. Clerk, farm hand, cemetery gardener, auto mechanic, zinc miner-these were his jobs before songs brought success. Today motor mechanics is his hobby

.. Estelle Liebling, music teacher, . . Lily Pons for soaring on wings and Jessica Dragonette, her airfamous pupil, for posing together for the first time at Miss Liebling's West 55th Street studio in New

of song to world-renown in opera, on the screen, in radio. Prize planist at the Paris Conservatoire at 13, Lily took her first singing-lesson at 21, deserted the keyboard, triumphed in Europe, in America

RADIO GUIDE Goes To

No, Gracie Allen isn't looking for her celebrated "missing brother," but rather into a spacious dressing-table mirror in the new Burns and Allen Beverly Hills home. She's repairing those shiny spots!

3 With sunbonnet awry, but happy, 3-year-old Sandra Jean Burns doesn't mind demonstrating to irrepressible Mama Gracie how well she can wash her hands in their luxurious new home-after making mud pies pleted this past Winter, has fourteen rooms and is their first-owned California home. They had been renting from the ever-popular actress, Pauline Frederick

George and Gracie are very proud of their charming and artistically designed dining-room. Nothing is new in the house. Everything is rare antique—even a modern radio was put in an old chest. They have 3 servants-nurse, cook and butler

5 Mr. and Mrs. George Burns enjoy a tete-a-tete in their sumptuous parlor. The two funsters came from opposite ends of the United States. George was born in New York-Gracie in San Francisco. They met backstage in a small theater in Union Hill, New Jersey. Each was looking for a vaudeville partner, they formed a team—were married four years later!

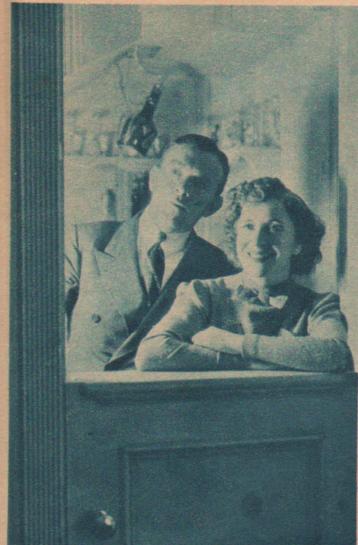

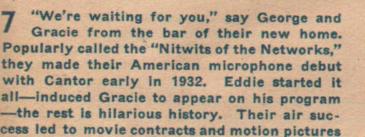

6 Gracie gives George his usual half of the tasty. If it's olives—he gets the pits. Strangely enough these two made their broadcasting debut while on a European jaunt-appearing for fifteen weeks for the British Broadcasting Corporation

A HOUSE-WARMING

WHEN THEY'RE NOT ON THE AIR OR MAK-ING A MOVIE, YOU'LL FIND THESE TWO GREAT COMICS AT HOME - HERE'S WHY!

O Papa and Mama-George and Gracie-take time out for a sun-chat and romp with their two adopted children, Sandra, 3, and Ronnie, 2. The children are from The Cradle, famous Chicago foundling home -favorite baby shop with picture celebrities! There's a nursery for indoor play-a sun-yard for outdoor play!

Hills home. They've just bid fare-

Popularly called the "Nitwits of the Networks," they made their American microphone debut with Cantor early in 1932. Eddie started it all-induced Gracie to appear on his program -the rest is hilarious history. Their air success led to movie contracts and motion pictures

George and Gracie invite you to take a dip in their 50 x 35-foot swimming-pool. Vine-covered arbors, beautifully landscaped lawns, colorful flower gardens-the radio favorites enjoy California at its best in their new Spanish Colonial home. The petulant French cinema star—Simone Easy terms gladly arranged to fit your budget, at low cost, through Commercial Credit Company. Simon-is their nearest neighbor-lives across the street!

"SWITCHING TO DODGE WILL COST ME 775 LESS than the Small Car I considered at first!"

"WHEN I happened to learn that a big new Dodge delivered for only around $70 more than the small car I was considering, I decided on Dodge," says Ruth Clark, New York City. "And I made a wise choice. The few dollars extra that Dodge cost will easily be offset by its greater trade-in value whenever I turn it in. That makes first costs just about even. But now consider the wonderful gasoline mileage I'm getting from my new Dodge-actually 22 miles to the gallon, which is 8 miles more than my old car gave me! Why, I'm convinced that switching to Dodge will cost me $75 less than the small car I considered at first. And think of the extra pleasure I get out of owning such a big, luxurious, smart-looking car with all its marvelous comfort and safety features!"

SWITCH TO DODGE and Save Money!

BEHIND THE MURDER SCENE

WE GO ON A PHOTO-TOUR OF A GREAT SHOW WHICH DRAMA-TIZES THE HORRORS OF CRIME —CRUSADES AGAINST CRIME!

GENE LESTER and BERT LAWSON Photos

Crime stories call for thunder, explosions, wrecks, buildings tumbling, and here's Sound-Man Jim Rogan getting this effect by hitting a drumhead stretched over a big box with regular kettle-drum sticks. Sound plays an important role in these crime dramatizations

Phil's secretary and assistant, Gwendolyn Jones, at work in the studio. With script in hand she stands ready to prompt, to correct mistakes, to write in instructions as shouted by "Gang Busters" Producer-Director Lord. In movies she might compare with the script girl

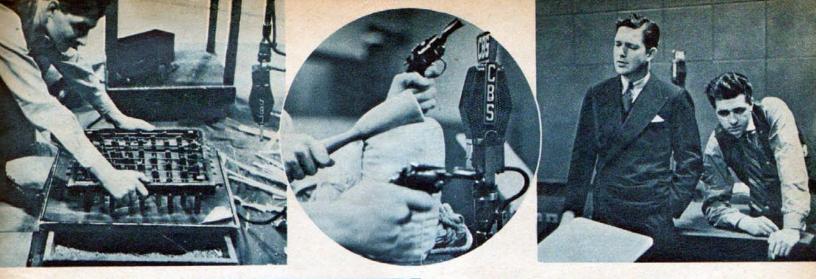

Action moves swiftly in these exciting "Gang Busters" thrillers and Ray is now helping some desperado's escape from jall appear very realistic by the ingenious use of sound. In the story the prisoner in jall has had a saw smuggled in to him and is sawing bars from his cell. Kremer produces sound realism by using a hack-saw on a metal frame

The desperado is escaping down a gravel road, and as he runs listeners hear his footsteps crunching against loose gravel. To portray this, a sound-man is stepping around in a wooden box filled with crushed rock. The reeds are to be trod on when Lord wants the effect of the prisoner running through a field

There's a tense moment in the episode as Ray Kremer produces a sound-picture of a fire destroying a frame building. Twisting and breaking the sticks give the effect of wood burning, that of a man stalking through wooded grounds—or brushing against grass and twigs

When "Gang Busters" goes on the air you hear a siren, a police whistle, the sounds of marching feet. Jim Rogan gets the march sound by rubbing a frame of wooden pegs against a sandpaper surface

Painted on the studio floor is this big sign so the artists can notice it without looking from their scripts. It indi-cates which is the live and

Here's a real behind-the-scenes picture of a murder. Two men are firing guns directly by the mike. While the guns rattle, you can hear men fighting, a fist punching hard into a man's face. The punch sound is produced by hitting on a bag of sawdust with a wooden potato masher

Master Showman Phil of "Gang Busters" is trying to illustrate to an actor how he wants a certain line done. Sitting on the table is his CBS production assistant, Paul Munroe. Lord also produces and directs "We, The People," on NBC. He maintains a separate staff for this show

Here's an informal view of Phil standing directing orders to his cast during a rehearsal. CBS Production Man Munroe is seated at the table and actors sit about waiting Lord's instructions. These weekly programs dramatize police prevention work-methods of combating the underworld-true crime stories

At the end of a broadcast, and Sound-Men Rogan and Kremer (left to right) feel it. They're worn out trying to keep up with Phil Lord. Lord is very exacting, demands absolute perfection, is actually trying on all of his actors and helpers—but that's the reason for his success! It doesn't look like a mike-but it is and it's muffled-gives the effect of someone talking through a wall-or talking while gagged. Each Wednesday night this mike brings sound-effects for "Gang Busters" heard over CBS at 10 p.m. EDT (9 EST; 9 CDT; 8 CST; 7 MST; 6 PST)

Jim Rogan (left) and Ray Kremer (right) are very busy with their sound-effect instruments. This show requires more sound-effects than any other show, with the possible exception of "The March of Time"-it requires that the sound-men be alert, watch every cue. The program also demands a variety of sounds-some of them new to radio. These must be developed in rehearsal by experimenting with Bobby Breen and Jolly Gillette

THEY'RE RADIO STARS — BUT WHEN THE CIRCUS COMES TO TOWN — THEY'RE JUST KIDS!

With chubby fists clenched, Jolly cried, coo-ed, enjoyed babyhood in New York City—startled her family at the tender age of one by crooning in unison with Ruth Etting as a phonograph record spun round on a victrola. Nine-year-old Bobby was born in Montreal

Bobby's 18 - year - old sister Sally "adopted" him as her own when he was born—in him pinned all her ambitions and he has not failed her. Today he's rich, successful. Jolly debuted at the age of three—has sung her way into hearts of thousands—never had a vocal lesson

Jolly Gillette and Bobby Breen officially open the Al G. Barnes-Sells Floto Circus in Los Angeles by feeding the elephants peanuts. Ten-year-old Singer Jolly heckles Milton Berle on "Community Sing." Boy Soprano Bobby divides his time between the Cantor show and movies—is now preparing to begin his third starring vehicle—"Make a Wish"

Although Bobby is known to millions of radio fans as "Eddie Cantor's adopted son," he really has a family of his own—3 sisters, a mother and father—cails Cantor "Uncle Eddie." Jolly's known as "the sponsor's daughter"—but it's just a gag! Her real identity is carefully hidden. She's amazed great artists with her contraito range

It's only when Jolly sings that her personality becomes identified with maturity. At home she slides down banisters, plays jacks, swims, rides a bicycle, receives marriage proposals via fan mail, but has only one love—a wire-haired terrier, Bobby's next film is to be made by Principal Productions—Oscar Strauss is preparing the music

NOTICE: The programs as presented here were as correct and as accurate as the broadcasting companies and RADIO GUIDE could make them at the time of going to press. However, emergencies that arise at the studios sometimes necessitate eleventh hour changes in program listings, time, etc.

Bell △ indicates religious services and programs. Star ★ indicates high spot selections.

If your favorite station is not listed at quarter or half hour periods, consult the time listings immediately above. The chances are that a network program of 30 or 60 minutes duration is on the air at a quarter-hour when you do not find your station listed.

The Real Low-Down on the Movie Stars

TUESDAYS FRIDAYS 10:30 P.M .- E.D. S. TIME

OVER RED NETWORK N.B.C.

Presented by Drene

AMAZING SHAMPOO DISCOVERY

That's Sweeping the Country

• Drene, Procter & Gamble's amazing shampoo discovery, gives thrilling new beauty and brilliance to hair. Here's why. Drene is NOT soap, yet it makes oceans of active lather that rids the hair of dirt and dandruff flakes-with a single lather-ing. Drene is NOT oil, yet it leaves hair glistening as never before-without afterrinses. Get Drene from drug, department or 10c stores. Or send name, address to Drene, Dept. RG-2, Box 828, Cincinnati, for free bottle. (Enough for two shampoos.)

End of Saturday Programs

MR. FAIRFAX KNOWS ALL

Although there have been various reports in regard to NELSON EDDV'S return to the airwaves, he is definitely set to sing on that popular Sunday evening coffee revue effective August 8. To my knowledge EZIO PINZA has never had a regular program on the air besides his guest appearances.—Miss G. W., Kenosha, Wis.

EDWARD ROECKER, baritone, is the soloist on Pick and Pat's Monday comedy show.—Miss H. P., Pawtucket, R. L.

There is no short-wave station that carries the There is no short-wave station that carries the Sunday broadcast of the well-known radio drama, "ONE MAN'S FAMILY." GENE AUSTIN is on the Joe Penner shows exclusively. By the way, Gene is supposedly set to star on the Penner programs during the warm months while Joe takes a summer rest. "THE SHADOW" mystery dramas are no longer on the air. TONY WONS never portrayed the character role of the Shadow.—J. E. L., Baltimore, Md.

You may send your questions to UNCLE JIM'S QUESTION BEE, care of G. Washington Coffee, Morristown, N. J.—L. J. W., Morristown, Tenn.

I don't believe MRS. CONRAD THIBAULT ever was engaged either in stage or radio work. There is quite a possibility that Conrad Thibault will receive a renewal from his sponsor when his present contract expires.—J. L., New York, N. Y.

ALICE FROST plays the title role in the CBS sketch "BIG SISTER."-Mrs. W., Bessemer, Ala.

BENNY GOODMAN'S swing band dishes out the hot rhythm on "JACK OAKIE'S COLLEGE" over CBS every Tuesday evening at 9:30 p.m. EDT (8:30 EST or CDT: 7:30 CST; 6:30 MST; 5:30 PST). GLEN GRAY just recently supplanted TED FIO-RITO'S orchestra at the Palomar Ballroom In Los Angeles. The airings will no doubt be over the CBS and MBS networks.—E. R., Norman, Oklo

This department recently announced that SEY-MOUR SIMONS has retired from the orchestral field and is devoting all of his time to his children .- F. W. B., Memphis, Tenn.

ALLAN PRESCOTT, "The Wife Saver," hails from St. Louis, Mo. He was born on January 21 of an unrevealed year.—A. E., Philadelphia, Penn.

ELIZABETH RELLER, star of the BETTY AND BOB sketches, was born in Richmond, Ind., on Dec. 4, 1913. Attended Swarthmore College in Pennsylvania and the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art in London. Made her radio debut in 1935 and ever since has held down the title role in the Betty and Bob series. Miss Reller has olive complexion, brown hair and blue eyes. Is 5 feet 7 1.2 inches tall and weighs 130 pounds.—T. H. W., Augusta, Ga.

The nearest I can get to answering your query is to say that Station WLW is on 700 kilocycles. It is located on your dial right between two powerful Chicago stations, WMAQ (670 kilo.) and WGN (720 kilo.).—B. W., Emerson, Iowa.

Neither the "MOLLY OF THE MOVIES" nor the "LIFE OF MARY SOTHERN" sketches are aired over WGN at present, although they may return in the fall. The lengthy broadcasts of the baseball games have taken up the time periods during which they were on.—G. E., Evansville, Ind., and J. E., Quincy, Ill.

In regard to your question, the music stands were probably pushed aside for the pictures of RICHARD HIMBER which appeared in Radio Guide, thus giving you the impression that the musicians did not read their musical scores while on the air.—S. C. G., Arrowhead, B. C., Can.

During the period which Don McNeill, Helen Jane Behlke and Clark Dennis were off the BREAKFAST CLUB, they were making a series of commercial radio transcriptions for a soft-drink concern. Nevertheless, Don continued to m.c. his "Tea Time at Morrell's" afternoon variety show and the remaining artists were on sustaining series.—A. G. V., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Following is the current personnel of TED FIO-RITO'S band which has just completed a successful engagement at the Palomar Ballroom in Los Angeles: J. Bestick, T. Jones on the trombones; R. McKinstry, Boh Stafford and V. Garber, sax and clarinet; Paul McLarand, sax, clarinet and flute; Muzzy Marcellino, guitar and vocal choruses; D. Rhea and E. Ramos, trumpets; F. Ruzicka, viola; A. Vick, bass; Charles Price, drums, and the leader, Ted Fio-Rito, and F. Leventhal play piano. Stanley Hickman's is the tenor voice and the girl trio use the tag. "The Three Debutantes."—H. Z., St. Louis, Mo.
