Resolution No. 1001

Among our New Year resolves is that of saying a few kind words for the new spirit we encounter everywhere in connection with education by radio. We listeners spent so many years shying away from longhaired professors who wanted to tell us what was good for us that it is hard for us to realize that the educational program of today isn't what it used to be.

In the early thirties, for instance, we recall a dogged determination on the part of many high-minded educators to force into our ears all sorts of facts and theories and dry-as-dust details of their lecturehall programs. We stayed away from such programs in droves. Our return to the loudspeaker commenced when educators removed their horn-rimmed spectacles, put on a sword and buckler and learned to swagger.

Educational programs today, for the most part, are fun. If you are still gun-shy and never take the trouble to tune in anything that we list on our "Listening to Learn" page, you are missing a lot of good programs. Many of them are as lively as a Lux Radio Theater presentation, or as heartening as a W. J. Cameron talk. Try exposing yourself again some time and see if we aren't right.

Note to FDR

Dear Mr. President:

We've just heard that the beautiful new cabinet in your secondfloor reception-room at the White House is a television receiver that was installed free of charge by a nice, kind television-set manufacturing concern. For your use and the use of your family, too.

But, Mr. President, hasn't anyone told you that there aren't any television programs on the air? Or that there isn't a television station even planning to give Washington, D. C., service at any early date? Far be it from us to suggest that you look a gift-horse in the mouth, but we think you ought to know about these things, you being so busy and all, and if you need the space just go ahead and move that set into a storeroom, because you won't miss a thing for quite a few seasons. Television isn't here and it isn't even around the corner from Washington, Mr. President, and we are writing this note because we just couldn't bear the thought of your sitting there with Eleanor waiting for the pictures to come on and their not coming on at all. The

A New Friend

We talk a great deal about the average listener's problems, but one problem which we have never discussed is that of the awful swiftness with which good radio programs and good radio talks perish. Have you ever thought of it? A fine program reaches our ears once and is gone with the wind, leaving no echo. A printed story can be read and reread. A published treatise can be put away and brought out for further enlightenment. But a radio show is gone forever.

This awful waste of material both perplexed and challenged us. As we pondered the situation we heard people say of a broadcast, "There is something I should like to keep." Some broadcasters recognized this desire, notably the Town Hall Forum, the Ford Sunday Evening Hour, and the University Round Table, and published their broadcasts in pamphlet form. But still much was lost after one airing.

NEW MAGAZINE

Two years ago we started to study this problem with a view of publishing a magazine which would preserve the great entertainments, the great talks, the great plays. This January we offer that magazine to you as Radio Digest, with a slogan and policy of "The Best Broadcasts in Brief." For months our editors have been examining hundreds of broadcast scripts, searching for good material worthy of being condensed and reprinted. We have found a treasury of knowledge and inspiration.

Radio Digest can be ordered through any newsdealer. Those who have been purchasing RADIO GUIDE at a newsstand can ask for it at the same place. We are anxious for you to see our first few numbers. We are extremely eager for you to tell us what you think of them, and further, what specific broadcasts you would like to see reprinted. As regular listeners, you are unusually well qualified to help us choose our articles. As RADIO Guide readers, we trust you will help us to bring Radio Digest to its own full usefulness not only as a record of the fine programs on the air or as a reference volume for vital facts and opinions but as delightful and informative reading.

LET US KNOW

For broadcasts you want to hear again, for broadcasts you want to keep, and for broadcasts you have missed, try Radio Digest-the best broadcasts in brief - and let us know what you think.

AMERICAN FEDERATION

OF LABOR

Radio has elected a president. It has prevented a World War. Its power is mighty and awe-inspiring. How shall this power be controlled and directed for man's own benefit? RADIO GUIDE has asked several American leaders of thought to think about broadcasting. Their guest editorials will appear in this space each week .- THE EDITOR.

prodigy in point of wisdom.

We need only look at the stunted growth of radio in other lands-its perversion to partisan uses, its subservience to special interests—to congratulate ourselves on our better fortune.

We owe an everlasting debt to the leaders of the American radio industry for having developed technical efficiency in broadcasting to the highest point known in the world, for having made reception available to the poorest classes of our people, and for having provided us with a high order of entertaining and educational programs.

But we owe an even greater debt to the leaders of the radio industry and to the leaders of our Federal Government for their deep wisdom in having maintained, at all costs and above all considerations, the freedom of the air in this country.

I am not especially qualified to judge the quality of entertainment and education provided by the daily radio programs. There are some programs I like a great deal; others I don't care for. But I recognize that it would be impossible to please everyone all the time and that the broadcasting companies are doing a fine job in trying to please most of their listeners most of the time.

What particularly interests me in radio is its function as a medium of public information. Beyond all question it is the greatest medium of that kind in our modern world.

Today Government, political parties, organized labor and many other groups are dependent upon radio in an ever-increasing degree to carry their message into the homes of the nation.

In the early days of civilization, people derived their news by word of mouth. Later the written word brought the world closer together by way of books and news-

Newspapers still are extremely influential, perhaps because people believe the written word more than the spoken word. But the weakness of the newspapers in this country today is their partisanship. It is rare indeed that all sides of any public question are presented fully, fairly and impartially in both the news and editorial columns of our newspapers. As a matter of fact, most newspapers do not even pretend to be impartial in their editorials. They consider it their function to take sides. Such may be their function. But whenever a newspaper takes sides, its value as an impartial contributor to public information is thereby limited.

On the other hand, radio has striven against tremendous odds and powerful pressure to maintain an even balance. When radio presents facts, it excludes opinion so far as is humanly possible. When it presents opinion, it tries to offer opinions of all sides on any given subject. In this way the listener is permitted to form his own judgment from the facts and from various

Recently radio has tried to ape the newspaper columnists by presenting more and more news commentators. I do not think this voque should be encouraged too far. Some newspaper columnists make a practise of airing personal hates and prejudices. Some of them indulge in sensational gossip. They do this cleverly in order to get a following and command greater compensation. The danger in this sort of competitive struggle is that these writers may forget their guiding principle should be to provide truthful and factual information.

I am glad to say that radio commentators have shown more consciousness of this responsibility than newspaper columnists. They should endeavor at all times when expressing opinions to label them as such so as not to mislead their listeners.

It is my earnest hope and conviction that the radio industry, in conducting the greatest public forum in the nation, will show in the future as it has in the past that it can maintain, by self-discipline and self-censorship, the freedom of the air.

GATEWAY TO HOLLYWOOD

HEAVY IS THE GATE THAT LEADS TO THE PROMISED LAND OF DRAMATIC ARTISTS, BUT A RADIO PROGRAM SWINGS IT WIDE TO BUDDING TALENT

THIS is the story of Alice Eden and John Archer—a young woman and a young man who do not yet exist except in name but who will later come to life in a blaze of glory. You may be Alice or John; or your son or daughter may be.

It is the story of a big new radio program called "The Gateway to Hollywood" and of the vistas that lie beyond that gateway, especially for two junior Americans.

Hollywood!

The name goes to the head like wine —exhibitating, intoxicating, and some-

The symbolical gateway to the most publicized town in the world is both seductive and forbidding. It glitters and glows, but beneath the gold plating there is a brass foundation. It takes a lot of "push," or perhaps more "pull," to move the massive gate inward, but it swings easily outward at the mere approach of an actor walking the "last mile" outward.

This week the dynamic power of radio swings the gate open inward upon Hollywood and opportunity.

Alice Eden will sit by her radio Sun-

Alice Eden will sit by her radio Sunday and turn on the switch. Perhaps she has read this story or has heard through some other medium of "The Gateway to Hollywood." Maybe she is casually listening to nothing in particular. In either case, if she turns the switch at a certain time, she will find to her breathless anticipation or intense surprise that she is turning a free key in the heavy lock of Hollywood's gateway. As the radio set warms up, the tubes will glow brightly and become symbolical of those shining portals to an actor's earthly paradise. There will be a fanfare of triumphant promise, and Hollywood—precious Hollywood—will stand forth with open arms bidding Alice, "Welcome to fame and fortune."

Somewhere else John Archer will turn his radio switch, see the same vision, hear the same call. There are thousands of those Alices and Johns. Today they are only Jacks and Jills, mere nobodies, only remotely potential as future screen idols. Many will be called and few chosen. Tomorrow, though, we'll be saying of the lucky pair, "I heard them make their radio debut in 1939."

The new program, which starts this week, does present a somewhat unique idea with overwhelming appeal. Its drawing-power is based upon, first, the well-nigh unanimous desire of every youngster with the slightest dramatic inclination to crash the silver screen; second, the demonstrated interest of the general public, whether from sympathy or good-will, in the efforts of such beginning aspirants.

The idea is a combination of "Major Bowes' Amateur Hour" and "Metropoli-tan Opera Auditions of the Air," with the motion-picture motive to make it unique. Like Major Bowes, the new radio set-up offers opportunity to talented beginners. Like the Metropolitan Auditions, it tenders a definite professional reward to winning contestants.

It's a talent-hunt. Don't let that scare There have been many so-called talent-hunts and contests, it is true, in varying degrees of fairness and phonyness. This one is strictly bona fide. It must be on the up-and-up or radio, stringent guardian of the public interest, would not accept the idea at any price. The program is sponsored by a gummanufacturing concern whose name is a world commonplace and a reputable motion-picture organization.

The nation-wide search for fresh talent is being conducted in twenty-four key cities by two personal representa-tives of Jesse L. Lasky, who is the supervisor of the radio-screen project. These representatives are two of the most outstanding actors and most esteemed figures of screen history, Hobart Bosworth and Bryant Washburn. They travel all over the country building good-will for the idea and setting the stage for the talent selections.

Get out the lipstick and put on your most winsome smile, girls—or should we say women?—if you're over seventeen and under twenty-three. Those are the age-limits, and no fudging! Keep in mind, too, that you can't get into Holly-wood through this entrance without full consent of your parents or guardians. Men, loosen your glib tongues and heave forth your chests, if you're at least twenty-one and not over twentyYou are to be Alice Eden and John Archer—that's what you think, and maybe you're right. The two final winners of the contest will take those as their screen names.

It isn't all for the glory of personal satisfaction and artistic expression. The Muse proffering a crown of laurel with one hand wouldn't be nearly so welcome if she didn't hold in her other hand a healthy sheaf of assorted bills-real United States legal tender! Specifically, the reward is the guarantee of at least six months' work before the movie cameras at a salary of $125 a week, with rising options. Alice and John, when finally chosen from the multitude, will be co-featured in a fulllength motion picture especially signed for this purpose and based on Phil Stong's novel, "Career."

THE radio series of programs is a training- and proving-ground for these embryonic film geniuses. Each week two of the contestants selected from the applicants will be presented to the radio audience. There will be bigname guest stars, but this time they will do their acting in the background. They will have supporting roles to help give the youngsters impetus on their me-teoric journey. Alice and John will dezvous with dramatic opportunity.

When Mr. Lasky rings up the curtain Sunday night and the radio spotlight falls on Camille and Ralph, with Miriam, Joan and Edward, what will Jack and Jill hear and see behind the lines? The gateway to Hollywood—open!

Hollywood. A world within a world a make believe land—a siren city of enchantment, and cruelty-a dream and a nightmare.

Hollywood - Romance or realism? Glamour or gloss? Sensuality or sensibility? A Jekyll-Hyde society turning somersaults and playing tag about the movie lots and mansions.

Hollywood—The magic city of Shangri-la whose spell proves irresistible to many who know that once beyond its "lost horizon" there is little chance of return to the world of fact.

Hollywood—Extravaganza of emotion, art and money. A professional Yukon beckening the restless prospector to come and find one of its buried nugets—or its fools' gold.

Hollywood—The mecca of every career-crazy, budding Myrna Loy. The peak for every art-climbing young Paul Muni.

The place where people are paid and paid well to be somebody besides themselves. We all like to pretend, especially if we get paid for it. That's why Jack wants to be John Archer and Jill wants to be Alice Eden.

HORACE GREELEY didn't know just what his advice to "Go west, young man" would mean after his time. Every year, every month, every day it happens. Some independent youngster forsakes home and security to stake all on his or her confidence of ability to storm the castle of moviedom. Some oldster of vaudeville's halcyon days makes the long trek to beat the streets and beat on the doors of Hollywood's cold castingoffices. Some stage luminary, sated with Broadway or London success, sweeps into the film capital like a conquering hero.

A truck-driver in Springfield has been told by well-meaning friends that he has a profile like John Barrymore's. A clerk in the Jinxville five-and-ten has been convinced by her mirror that she has eyes like Olivia de Havilland's and lips like Hedy LaMarr's. A high-school grad in Chicago believes she has a shape as attractive as Ginger Rogers', and is quite sure she can dance as well. Joe of St. Joseph is a comical scream at all the parties.

They all go west.

Some give up and go home. Some stay and starve. A very few stick and succeed.

Yes, indeed, the gateway to Holly-wood is a powerful magnet. It is to actors and would-be actors what the Met is to singers, the big leagues to sand-lotters, the White House to politi-cians, the New York Times to reporters, the missing link to anthropologists, Mt. Everest to mountain-climbers, and the whole world to dictators.

To pass through that gateway to the inner sanctum, there are thousands who would pay or sacrifice anything within their power. Good old radio offers free —even compensated—passage to the actually deserving. This time it isn't just a wildcat publicity exploit. There will be contracts in black and white with fixed figures in them, and there (Continued on Page 15)

DRAMATIC HIGHLIGHTS

Sunday: Oliver Goldsmith of the eighteenthcentury Irish Goldsmiths was a poor student when he went to school, but today students good and bad can't get a passing grade without reading some of his works, such as "Vicar of Wakefield" and the play, "She Stoops to Conquer." The latter work, considered one of the most perfect comedies ever written and one of the classical oldsters still revived with success, is the subject of this week's "Great Plays" dramatization. (NBC: 1:00 p.m. EST, 12:00 noon CST, 11:00 a.m. MST, 10:00 a.m. PST.)

Sunday: When the New York film critics make their annual awards this week, the highspot of the program will be a dramatized scene from the film selected as the best motion picture of the year. In addition, there will be interviews with the actor and actress judged the outstanding performers of 1938. (NBC: 7:00 p.m. EST, 6:00 p.m. CST, 5:00 p.m. MST, 4:00 p.m. HIGHLIGHTS

PREVIEWS OF SOME OF THIS

Monday: Edward Bok was a boy from a little country who made good in a big country. Bok came from Holland to America when he was six years old, worked himself from Western Union office-boy to a position as a nationally known publisher and editor and outstanding American citizen. His "Americanization of Edward Bok" is a classic of biography and a study in true patriotism. His story will be dramatized by "Cavalcade of America." (CBS: 8:00 p.m. EST, 7:00 p.m. CST; for the West, 10:00 p.m. MST, 9:00 p.m. PST).

Monday: Anything may result when sophistry and sweetness are compounded. This week on "Lux Radio Theater" William Powell of the well-oiled urbanity and Janet Gaynor of the double-distilled saccharinity co-star in "Mayer-ling." (CBS: 9:00 p.m. EST, 8:00 p.m. CST, 7:00 p.m. MST, 6:00 p.m. PST.)

Tuesday: Edward G. Robinson and Claire Trevor, editor and society reporter of the Illustrated Press, have an authentic backdrop this week for their "Big Town" sketch. The show is moving from Hollywood to the big town it-self for three weeks. This program appears to be rising phenomenally in the public favor, standing among the top half-hour shows on the air in some surveys. (CBS: 8:00 p.m. EST, 7:00 p.m. CST, 6 p.m. MST; for the West, 9:30 p.m. MST, 8:30 p.m. PST.)

EIRE ON AIR -Sunday, NBC, CBS, MBS

We know the Irish are noted for their "blarney" as well as their luck and their extremes of temper and good humor. We'll get an official sample of the Irish glibness this week when the heads of the Irish government speak to the world. It isn't anything about war or politics. It's the second program in the series of international salutes to the New York World's Fair of 1939. Finland inaugurated the series last week. In this second salute, President Douglas Hyde and Premier Eamon De Valera make the good-will contribution of the land of shillalahs and shamrocks to the international exposition to be held next year. Not only hundreds of thousands of Irish-Americans but peoples of Gloria Stuart and Frank Morgan. Oscar Bradley many nationalities all over the world can hear the broadcast by short wave as well as long wave. Whether by coincidence or design, the CBS program immediately following this salute, "Americans All—Immigrants All," is devoted to Irish immigrants. So there is back-slapping in both directions across the Atlantic.

FUR. FEATHERS, PHILOSOPHY -Sunday, NBC

Humans and animals are closer together today than they have been since Darwin's daring hypothesis caused such a furor. It isn't because they've found another missing link. It's due to a lovable Mickey Mouse, a tempestuous Donald Duck, an introverted Ferdinand the Bull, a Krazy Kat, a Pluto, a Br'er Rabbit and hosts of other humanized denizens of the wild. Walt Disney and the other cartoonists, geniuses that they are, can not be credited completely with this "making the whole world kin." Alfred Kreymborg, distinguished American poet, in one phase of his work is an Aesop and a Disney combined. In his latest work, "Fables in Verse," Kreymborg, according to one critic, is the "good neighbor" poet, for he brings to-gether on a friendly basis the planets and the wasps, the wind and the sparrows. To him a tumblebug is as big as any financier and a caterpillar is bigger than a dictator. Beginning this week, radio goes to the dogs-and cats and the whole animal kingdom. In a series written especially by Kreymborg, the drama of human life unfolds in the voices and actions of our 'poor relations," the animals. We might listen to these fables and foibles and learn how not to be "catty" and "hoggish" and "bullheaded."

Hollywood and the movie industry is not all lucre and licentiousness. There is poverty amidst the luxury and wealth; there is charity beneath the tinsel and the worldly shell. This week the need for charity and the charity itself meet. Our entertainment taste profits. For the first time in radio's history, Hollywood's foremost movie stars, producers, directors, writers and technicians will combine efforts in presenting a series of programs in the interest of the Motion Picture Relief Fund. All fees usually paid for talent, writing, producing, and so on will be diverted into a fund for building a home for the aged and needy of the movie industry. Famous stars who have already signed an agreement to donate their services include, among others, Carole Lombard, Jack Benny, Deanna Durbin, Clark Gable, Bing Crosby,

SOMETHING WRITTEN IN DENMARK -Thursday, NBC

From far-off Denmark, native land of Hans Christian Andersen, comes a story-teller, Paul Leyssac, to entertain children and grown-ups with new interpretations of the famed fairytales in a series of programs called "Meet the New Hans Andersen," which opened two weeks ago. competition for "sissy stuff," but Andersen's Fairy Tales have gone blithely along for a hundred years and they'll probably survive the age of rough-and-tumble realism. Radio thinks they're still good-especially as Leyssac tells them. His translations reveal humorous little twists that other translators overlooked. Leyssac reveals the original Danish intermingling of sentiment and irony in the famous stories. The story-teller, though new to the American radio audience, is noted in England for his Andersenian interpretations.

TUNE IN "TUNE-UP" -Thursday, CBS

Walter O'Keefe is keyed up, Andre Kostelanetz' orchestra is in tune, Kay Thompson's Rhythm Singers have their chord, and Lily Pons is in voice for "Tune-Up Time." It's a new series making its bow this week, and an elaborate bow it is. O'Keefe, noted wit and raconteur, is m.c. of the program. The man who made "The Man on the Flying Trapeze" famous is known for his humor contributions to such programs as the early "Hit Parade," "Camel Caravan," "Hollywood Mardi Gras," and as a substitute for Fred Allen in 1937. The musical portion of the new show is under the brilliant direction of Andre Kostelanetz, who is returning to the air after a six-month absence. The vacation included a honeymoon with his bride, the celebrated opera star, Lily Pons. Kostelanetz, who is considered one of the most-distinguished of air conductors, will direct a forty-five-piece orchestra composed of well-known musicians. Mrs. Kostelanetz, better known to millions of music lovers as Lily Pons, the greatest coloratura soprano of the time, will be the first quest star of the new program, there-by furnishing human interest as well as topnotch entertainment. BAKER, BOTTLE BACK -Saturday, CBS

The launching of a big new comedy-variety program this week will be accompanied by the customary bottle-cracking. In fact, there will be some Baker-cracking, too-wise-cracking. You've guessed it, of course. Phil Baker and his accordion, his humor and his "Bottle," the indispensable valet-stooge, are coming back to the air. In his lucky seventh year as a radio headliner, Phil will unfold his faithful accordion and his fresh book of fun from Coast-to-Coast and on out to Hawaii. The immaculately proper

Bottle, with his suspended sense of humor and his Shirley Temple dolls, will be right on hand to challenge Rochester's position as public valet number one. Harry von Zell, one of radio's most popular announcers with a flair for comedy, will be on hand, too, to do some commercializing and kidding. THE RADIO PLAYBILL: THIS WEEK-"THE ROAD OF LIFE"

//THE ROAD OF LIFE" tells the intensely human and THE ROAD OF LIFE" tells the intensely human and true-to-life story of a young surgeon's struggle for success and happiness. Jim Brent is the doctor who grew up in the steel-mill district of South Chicago. Since his interneship, Dr. Brent has devoted himself to surgical practise, in which he has proved himself remarkably expert. He is a member of the staff of City Hospital and is assistant to Dr. Parsons, eminent surgeon and favorite doctor of Chicago's elite. Besides developing under Dr. Parsons' tutalage into a nation. developing under Dr. Parsons' tutelage into a nationally prominent surgeon, Dr. Brent is very popular with his associates. Jim's young brother, Fred Brent, has caused Jim a great deal of inconvenience and worry. At one time Fred was mysteriously shot, and it was only through the kindness of Jim's good friend, Helen Gowan, that Jim succeeded in covering up the incident. Helen permitted Fred to remain at her apartment until he recovered. Fred's gratitude later proved embarrassing to both Jim and Helen. Recently in a heated argument Fred accidentally shot Jim in the right hand. The injury places Jim's future as a surgeon in grave doubt. The incident has moreover caused him to postpone his marriage to his schoolday sweetheart, Mary Holt. Mary does not approve of the postponement and decides there will be no marriage at all if not now. Meanwhile, Jim has opened his old office in the basement of the Brent home in South Chicago for practise. "The Road of Life" may be heard Monday through Friday over NBC at 11:45 a.m. EST, 10:45 CST, and over CBS at 1:30 p.m. EST, 12:30 p.m. CST (not available to the West).

NEXT WEEK-"JANE ARDEN"

DR. JIM BRENT (played by Ken Griffin) is the figure about whose professional and private vicissitudes the plot of the story revolves. He is very diligent and energetic, intensely absorbed in his chosen work, that of surgery, and has a very likable personality. His conscientious application to his profession and some strikingly successful operations have won for him widespread renown. Jim's present problem, one of the biggest he has ever faced, is centered about his postponement of marriage, because of an injury to his hand which has placed his future success in jeopardy. Not content with the opinion of his chief, Dr. Parsons, Jim has consulted a new doctor

HELEN GOWAN (played by Betty Lou Gerson) was formerly Day Supervisor of Nurses at City Hospital. She has become a close friend and confidente of Jim through their association at the hospital. It is Helen who secretly befriends and nurses Jim's brother when he is mysteriously shot. When Fred's gratitude turns to a deeper regard, it becomes embarrassing to Helen. There is the intimation in the story that Helen and Dr. Parsons, Jim's chief, have a secret relationship. Helen recently resigned as supervisor

FRED BRENT (played by Frank Dane) is Jim's brother and he has the unhappy tendency to get into all sorts of difficulty. He becomes attached to Helen Gowan after she befriends him, but she does not reciprocate his affection except as a friend. In an argument Fred shoots Jim in the hand, endangering his career. Jim, at first embittered, forgives Fred when remorse is evident

MARY HOLT (played by Vivian Fridell) has been devoted to Jim since schooldays. She has looked forward to their wedding for a long time. Jim has found it necessary to put off the wedding several times. At last they have the date set, a bungalow rented and are supremely happy. Then Jim's injury makes his future so vague that he feels there must be another postponement

DR. PARSONS (played by Reese Taylor) is an eminent doctor, especially prominent in society circles. He early recognized Jim's natural ability and gave him his first real opportunity by making the young interne his own assistant. Dr. Parsons has gained Jim's respect as a surgeon, but young Jim Brent does not have much faith in the older doctor's principles of character

CAROL EVANS MARTIN (played by Lesley Woods) is the young and attractive sister of Dr. Bill Evans, who is a close friend of Jim. Carol is married to Dr. Martin, another of Jim's friends. They live in Fair Oaks. Helen Gowan moves to that town and she and Carol become friends. Helen knows that Carol is interested in Jim Brent, manages to see him often

HOWARD KEEGAN, who directs this serial, has been in radio six years. Before becoming affiliated with the agency that produces this show, Keegan was a member of the NBC production department in Chicago. In years before radio claimed his talent and attention, he was first an actor and second a director in stock. Keegan also directs Irna Phillips' two other serials

RNA PHILLIPS, author of this, "The Guiding Light" and "The Woman in White," is a Chicago girl. She is probably radio's most prolific and accomplished serial-writer, having turned out more than 5,000,000 words while maintaining the interest of her stories at a consistently high standard. Before turning to writing, Irna was a school-teacher and radio actress

More Points of Merit

READER calls attention to a lapse in my article of last week, wherein I spoke of American achievements in music. He remarks: "You say that you do not like to make the American eagle scream too boastfully when you mention the things this country has done in a musical way. I don't see why you don't let that bird shriek at the very top of his voice. Europe is not backward in continually proclaiming what it considers its own superiority. You certainly should have called attention to the fact that America possesses the best opera company and the best symphony orchestras in the world. Or don't you think so?"

I most emphatically do think so, and I am grateful for the reminder. My list was not intended to be a complete roster of America's tonal virtues, but chiefly a summary of what our composers have done and are doing and an expression of belief that it equals the best of European creation since the World War.

No opera house matches the Metropolitan with its remarkable array of singing stars and, whenever glamorous spring or summer opera performances are desired at famed Covent Garden in London, the casts are mainly made up of artists from the New York establishment.

I unhesitatingly rank the Philadelphia, Boston, New York Philharmonic and NBC orchestras above the best of the European symphonic organizations, and the latter are easily equaled by those of Cleveland, Chicago and Cincinnati. If European radio listeners get our orchestral broadcast music by short wave, I think that they must agree with my opinion.

Speaking Up

QUESTION:

Will radio provide more opportunities for young American artists in the future than it has in the past?

ANSWERS:

HOWARD BARLOW (CBS conductor; director of Columbia Symphony Orchestra, "Everybody's Music"): "In my branch of music, young people of experience are difficult to find, although young musicians of talent are always in demand. I have a preference for younger performers whom I can develop and watch grow. I am also always on the lookout for new young American composers and will continue to cooperate with CBS in the fine work they have already accomplished in that field."

ALFRED WALLENSTEIN (musical director of WOR-Mutual): "Radio tends more and more toward using younger musicians. Because of a lack of famous names and because radio is a natural outlet for youthful talent, opportunities will naturally increase. However, the public demand for our own young artists is not yet insistent enough. Americans are still slaves to the star system, which must be radically transformed before younger performers and composers receive their full share of recognition."

Deems Taylor, commentator with New York Philharmonic, Sunday

FRANK BLACK (NBC conductor): "Opportunities are increasing all the time and are helped by the fact that the big music schools like Juilliard, Curtis, etc., are turning out an abundance of expertly trained young musicians. They come to the studio with much more experience than in the past, and it is much easier for us to use them. Also, more music by young American composers is being performed. I myself carry on a continuous search for worth-while American music. However, I do not believe in playing anything that is not good, American or otherwise. One does the American composer only a disservice by playing something merely because it happens to be American."

SAMUEL CHOTZINOFF (music consultant, NBC): "With the spread of good music that radio has already accomplished, more artists will be necessary. I believe also that in time opera will have as important a place on the air as symphonic music. NBC, in recognition of that fact, has commissioned the young American composer, Gian Carlo Menotti, to write an opera for NBC which will be produced shortly."

WALTER DAMROSCH: "Radio has been the greatest factor in developing a taste and understanding of music among the American people. In the same way, it is gradually becoming the greatest factor in the introduction of young, fresh musical talent and, as public taste and radio improve, the demand for younger artists will grow accordingly."

DEEMS TAYLOR (music consultant, CBS): "It is Utopian to expect radio to exploit young names at the expense of big stars. The star system cannot yet be abolished because big names on radio attract a better audience. However, broadcasting companies should enlarge their efforts to discover new talent. One way of doing this is to employ the same method used by magazines. When a manuscript is sent to a magazine, it is read by one man, who, if he thinks it good enough, passes it on to others. Radio companies should have regular weekly auditions, say an hour a week, conducted by one man, who would pass on the qualified residue to a committee trained in all branches of music. This committee would then make final selections, and when young musicians of promise appear, they should be given precedence over big names wherever possible."

FORD SUNDAY EVENING HOUR: "The policy of the Ford Sunday Evening Hour on soloists is to present artists, young or old, American or not, whom we believe have highest musical qualifications. When such artists are young Americans we are particularly pleased, naturally, but we do not endeavor to restrict program bookings to young Americans, because we think the public wants great musicians, whoever they are."

BARBIROLLI'S concert presentation not long ago of music from De-bussy's opera was so well received that he is giving a welcome repeat of the arrangement for his radio audience. WALLENSTEIN continues bravely and well with his series of canta-tas by Bach. He has rich abundance to choose from, as the great cantatist —to coin a word—composed nearly 300 such pieces during a period of thirty years. The sacred texts inspired him to some of his finest melodic ideas and many spiritual moments of the most effecting emotion. The cantata as such was the particular product of Bach's time; after his death it was practically abandoned in church services, though the short work had furnished a welcome break in the lengthy ritual.

"DON GIOVANNI"

Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart SATURDAY, JANUARY 14

On NBC at 2 p.m. EST; 1 p.m. CST; 12 noon MST; 11 a.m. PST THE CAST:

T IS interesting and amusing to recall that just after he had chosen Da Ponte his librettist, Mozart thought it a bad mistake, and yet it turned out that the former's texts enabled the composer to write his great-est two operas, the Marriage of Figaro and Don Giovanni.

Not only is the libretto of Don Giovanni a shrewd mixture of drama and comedy, but also it affords continuous opportunity for lyrical, tragic and even dance numbers, with natural employment of the chorus as massed background. Mozart's genius tonalized the material into an imperishable masterpiece, and most of its music has been the delight of singers and the public since the memorable Prague premiere

The cast at today's matinee could hardly be improved upon, featuring Rethberg's silvery voice and Crooks suave art.

At the Metropolitan the opera is done stylistically, with some of the aria sung before the curtain while the stage sets are being changed for the

In the third scene, a rustic pair are celebrating their betrothal, assisted by singing and dancing villagers. Gio-vanni desires the girl, invites the company to his castle (there he sings the spirited Champagne Song), detains her while they entone the entrancing duet "La Ci Darem" ("Your Hand in Mine, My Dearest"), one of the most popular of all operatic gems. Donna Elvira appears and denounces Giovanni, thereby opening the eyes of the dazzled and hesitant Zerlina, who chants her penitent song to Masetto, "Batti, Batti" ("Chide Me, Chide Me"). Donna Anna and Octavio trail the rake, the latter apostrophizing his affianced with "Dalla Sua Pace" ("On Her All Joy Depondeth") en series of the state of the s pendeth"), an aria of rarest loveliness. All go to Giovanni's party, which opens the fourth scene with an entrancing minuet, danced by the assemblage.

ACT II

Giovanni utilizes the noisy gaiety to lead Zerlina into a secluded chamber. She emerges screaming, and Giovanni follows her, sword in hand and drag-ging Leporello, but the trick avails nothing, and again Anna, Elvira, and many scenes, the first of which has the wily Leporello waiting for his master, Don Giovanni, while that libertine is intriguing to win Donna Anna at her home. He emerges, followed by the girl and her father, the Commandant, who engages the Don in a duel, and falls. His slayer flees with Leporello. Donna Anna and her flance, Don Octavio, swear vengeance.

In the second scene of Act I, the despoiler and his aid, plodding along a lonely road, encounter Donna Elvira, whom Don Giovanni has deserted while they were eloping. Leporello engages Elvira's attention with an ironical aria and Giovanni slips away. Octavio expose the villainy of the host, who promptly disappears.

Scene three climaxes with an arraignment of Giovanni by Octavio, and the latter's delivery of the ravishing "Il Mio Tesoro" ("My Beloved").

Scene four and Giovanni and Leporello, stumbling through the darkness, come upon a statue erected to the memory of the Commandant. In scene five, retribution overtakes Giovanni. He sups to music, when the stone Commandant enters after the unafraid gallant's sword has tried to halt the unwelcome guest. The Commandant grasps Giovanni with an icy hand, dragging him to his doom.

EDDIE CANTOR'S SIDELINE

Eddie Cantor peddles radio. screen comedy as a vocation. As a sideline he operates a gift shop across the street from Holly-wood's Columbia Playhouse

Business is business, and Eddie is shown explaining a few fine points to two assistants (above). The shop on Vine Street is one of the "must see" spots for tourists. Best seller in the store is the Eddie Cantor ash-tray (left). Dozens of these are sold daily to tourists and passers-by who visit Eddie's shop

It is not generally known, but Eddie often retires to this office in the rear of the gift shop between his program rehearsals directly across the street

Eddie sells novelties, but there is one thing he has to give away continually—his autograph. That's the price of being both a celebrity and a businessman

"I'll make you a bargain price on this charming statuette of Madam Queen," purrs salesman Eddie. "Too much," says Andy (Charles Correll). "Ise regusted."

Many a storekeeper would like to attract as much business as Cantor has merely by standing around in front of the store

NEW YORK .- The very listenable Andrews Sisters will be on the new Phil Baker show. The comic will also use Mary Kelly as his femme foil. Mary was one of Jack Benny's famous Chicken Sisters and she was on his programs when he was east a couple of weeks ago. The advertising commercials will be done in song and written by Eddie De Lange, whose orchestra will supply the music . . . The Bob Benchley show is shopping around for a new time in order to get away from the stiff competition of that new Hollywood all-star show featuring Carole Lombard, Cary Grant, Lawrence Tibbett, Ronald Colman and perhaps the Marx Bros. I hope it doesn't turn out to be an all-star flop like that Wednesday night show which also features a flock of big Hollywood names . . . Edward G. Robinson and his cast will broadcast from New York for the next three weeks . . . That "100 Men and a Girl" program with Raymond Paige's orchestra and Hildegard may have to change its title to avoid lawsuits . Edythe Wright is leaving, or will have left, the Tommy Dorsey band by the time you read this. CBSongstress Nan Wynn may join up with the Dorsey crew . . . NBC's "Boredom By Budd," featuring Stoopnagle's former partner, will henceforth be known as "The Budd Show." Maybe it changed because it lived up to its title, as did the CBS show presented early last year called "Earaches of 1938."

Behind the "Seen"

Announcer Fred Utall hobbling into the elevator at the CBS studios on crutches. Two days before, he strained a ligament in his ankle and it will be taped up for a few weeks. That was our old announcer friend, Norman Brokenshire, who went in to pinch-hit the "Big Sister" program while Fred was doctoring . . . George Hicks, losing three out of five games of ping-pong to his colleague, Jim Shellman, threw his paddle on the table in disgust and vowed that he will not play another game for at least a month . . . Carol Deis, who is appearing in the Broadway show, "Knickerbocker Holiday," sings in the Cities Service program chorus on Friday night in her elaborate and colorful stage costume. She sneaks out of the studio before the broadcast is over in order to reach the theater on time.

Leopold Spitalny, sitting in the glass-enclosed balcony watching his brother Phil go into all kinds of contortions as he directs his splendid all-girl orchestra . . . At the Eddy Duchin program everyone is in formal attire, including the engineer and production-men . . . At the "Hobby Lobby" program an armed guard hired by Dave Elman stands around watching a collection of watches reported to be worth $200,000. The week before, a valuable exhibit was missing and Elman wasn't going to take any more chances . . . Peter Perrine, a page at NBC, spends his time off in the studios drawing sketches of the radio stars. Those that I saw are excellent . . Frank Black and his attractive frau sitting at a night-spot reminiscing about "the good old days" with Jack Pearl, as your reporter and a friend listen in on the interesting conversation . . . Radio-writer Arch Oboler walks into NBC about midnight with his wife, declaring he just came from the show, "Boys from Syracuse." As he opened his coat, he looked just like one of the boys from Syracuse. He wore slacks and a sweater to a Broadway show, where almost everyone goes in white tie and tails. Arch thinks he's still in Hollywood.

Eddy Duchin is one of the most conscientious of the bandleaders. He rehearses a number over and over again until he's satisfied it's right, and even then he's not sure it will be perfect during the actual broadcast. About a minute before his program was to go on the air last Monday night, he wanted to bet Harry von Zell (he produces the show) that the boys would mess up one of the numbers. It so happened Duchin would have lost the bet if Harry had taken him up on it, because every number was played without anything going wrong. After the broadcast Eddy rushes back into the control-room to avoid the mob of autograph-seekers. Despite the fact that he spends about one-half hour or more in the control-room selecting the numbers he will play the following week, there still were about thirty gals waiting outside the studio door for the treasured signature.

From the Duchin program, I went up a few floors and went in the back way to pay my first visit to Dr. Harry Hagen's "True or False" show. I had to sneak in the back way via the control-room because the program was already on the air and you're not supposed to go into the studio after the "on the air" sign lights up. Anyway, I saw Dr. Hagen sitting on a bench in the middle of the stage looking like a judge. The team of male contestants were lined up at his right and the females on his left. Around the neck of each contestant hangs a huge placard, with his or her name printed on it in huge letters along with personal questions he asks when each one comes before him. Typical of the questions asked, which are the only things rehearsed in advance, are "How much should a married man eat?" or "How much do you think a fellow should spend for lunch?"

Perhaps you listened in at the Benny Goodman broadcast the night Phil Baker and Don Budge were the guestars and heard the audience howl when Goodman greeted Don Budge with the following words, "I'm glad to see that old smile of yours again." The reason for all the laughs was because Budge was not smiling, his face was as white as a ghost, and he looked so scared you'd think he had just seen one. Baker had an amusing script that night which would have been ruined if it wasn't for his expert showmanship in covering up when Goodman lost his place in the script and Don Budge missed his cue. If I were his sponsor, I wouldn't permit Benny Goodman to do anything but play the clarinet and lead his orchestra. I've yet to hear Goodman read a script where he hasn't fallen all over his lines. The Sunday night he appeared as guest on the "Fitch Bandwagon," he couldn't even pronounce his own name correctly, calling it Benny's Goodman band. I'm sure if Mr. Goodman stuck to his music and let Dan Seymour do all the talking, it would make for better listening.

A good time is had by the twenty- or thirty-odd people who sit in at the Fred Allen dress rehearsal every Wednesday afternoon from 1 to 2 p.m. Fred stands in front of the mike practically for the entire hour with his derby hat sitting on the back of his head, his tie loose and collar open. When the boys in Peter Van Steeden's band are not playing, they crowd around near the mike and almost go into hysterics laughing at the Allen quips. They make a swell audience for him, as does Portland Hoffa, who gets a big kick out of her hubby's cracks. Fred chews about two or three sticks of gum at a time during the rehearsal and also at the broadcast. During a peppy Merry Macs routine, the comic breaks out into a tap dance, which isn't bad at all. Yes, everyone has a good time at the Fred Allen rehearsal but the comic himself. He takes his work very seriously and hardly ever even as much as HOLLYWOOD.—As a new year starts, it is wise to take stock in oneself and see how far one has gone-and where one should aim to go the coming year. So comes up the old question: "What's wrong with radio?" Well, maybe nothing too serious now, but radio had better watch out. It is definitely headed for the doldrums unless (1) the networks or advertising agencies or both combined organize a "farm" system for the development and encouragement of new talent, new ideas, young producers, directors and writers; (2) agencies restrict their commercial plugs to welcome, friendly and newsy messages and discontinue untruthful, obnoxious and unfair methods of selling their product (such as peddling by means of overrated premium gadgets that cost less than a dime to make), and (3) the competition for greater and greater arrays of guest stars is diminished and approached from a saner point of view.

Today, aside from college courses which are mostly in the theory of broadcasting, there is no systematic training-ground where budding talent may be encouraged; given the necessary preliminary experience-with livable wages-in order to refill the huge and ever-expanding reservoir required to supply the broadcasting art. And where does young talent go now to be developed? Well, perhaps through false encouragement, it may land on the "Major Bowes Amateur Hour"-and after one ridiculous performance be assigned to a Bowes touring-unit, where the salary is $40 for fifteen performances (not $40 a week unless the unit does, with luck, the required fifteen performances in one week), out of which the young man or girl must pay his or her own living expenses. One girl from a western mining-town will tell you plenty about the Bowes units. RADIO GUIDE did, quite thoroughly, two years ago, but still the units tour along under the same conditions. Amateur hour an opportunity? Bah!

Show me ONE star ANY amateur hour has developed.

As for the tin whistles and other box-top coaxers offered to the gullible youngsters and adults by the philanthropic sponsors, these might easily be suppressed by an awakened Federal Communications Commission that would pass on their value, okay or bar each one, and insist that ALL premiums be made in the United States or Canada.

And now guest stars are on the pan. In mid-January, a new Hollywood show will offer listeners everything but the kitchen sink. The talent galaxy for this extravaganza probably will run $30,000 a week. Yet the advertising agencies are complaining they won't be able to pay the low minimum wage requirements set up by the radio artists union. Why? Because a few big names are getting all the money? This evil of too many guest stars, however, possibly will cure itself. By the end of 1939, guest stars will be so overdone that a name won't mean a thing to the average listener. Then sponsors will quit buying them-or start sewing them up with exclusive contracts.

Off a Live Mike

The last December issue of RADIO GUIDE carried a picture of "Ferdinand, the Bull" and "Ferdinand's mother" on its cover-but you mightn't have recognized them. They were typified by Don Wilson, whose snorts, giggles and grunts are heard in the new Disney cartoon film . . . Dorothy Lamour, en route home from Gail Patrick's holiday party during the blinding (unusual) California rain, stalled her car in a flooded depression and ruined a $225 gown. "They warned me," she was heard to mutter, "I'd get plenty of mud slung at me in Hollywood" . . . The Kellogg revue to be aired over NBC starting January 15 will offer you radio newcomer Ronald Colman, Lawrence Tibbett, Carole Lombard, Cary Grant, three of the Marx Brothers, and Robert Emmett Dolan's orchestra. What, no Mickey Mouse? . . . Although the new "Good Gulf" series, with stars to be provided by the Screen Actors Guild, is due to start January 8, at press-time it remained unnamed and no guest star had been set for the opener! However, the Motion Picture Relief Fund, which will receive the lion's share of the $10,000 weekly fee for talent, has broken ground for an administration building in anticipation of the work to be carried on with the moneys it receives! . . . Hear the plumful guest turn of Blondie (Penny Singleton) and Dagwood (Arthur Lake) on the Bob Hope show? It was so good that Hope and your reporter predict that they will be sponsored on their own program ere many moons. Lake, you may recall, is a radio vet; was once heard as "Harold Teen" . . . Early Christmas celebrant on December 21 was not a berserk Spaniard; was just ex-radio troubadour Tito Guizar, who had that day become father of an eight-pound daughter.

on Christmas Day (for the West Coast) and on the following Wednesday for listeners in the Midwest and East, the cast were actually on the spot. Author Carleton Morse refused to give out his list of words; did not have them written into the scripts. The result was a purely spontaneous spelling-bee. When the episode was rebroadcast on Wednesday, canny Mr. Morse fooled his cast again. He employed an entirely new secret list of words!

Hunting a Hollywood Hubby?

Al Pearce's handsome mikeman, John Conte, is one of a half dozen or so eligible bachelors on whom feminine fans might concentrate their correspondence until 1940, the next leap year, rolls around. John is 23, a Yankee by birth, has wavy black hair, meticulous molars, a gleam in his blue eyes, a taste for athletics and blondes without their hair up. He stands five feet eleven, snores ever so slightly, but isn't planning matrimony for a while yet. Then there's still nimble Nelson Eddy, fickle Edgar Bergen, Paul Douglas (who has one claimant at the moment), debonair Frank Parker, overstuffed Johnny Scott Trotter and his apartment mate and opposite, Skinnay Ennis of the asthmatic love-lyrics . . . And good luck, girls.

Nice Guy Crosby

On Thursday before Christmas, Bing Crosby again sang "Silent Night," as has been his custom for several years. When he first sang the classic on his commercial program, about one letter in every thousand received afterward complained that Bing had no business singing a practically sacred selection. He replied that he believed his singing would help its appreciation by some folks who might otherwise never hear it. What the complainers didn't know was that four years ago Crosby recorded "Silent Night" and signed over the record royalties to the Columbians Missionary Society. To date more than $5,000 has been earned for mission work from the record sale, which now has exceeded a hundred thousand copies. Any more kicks?

CHICAGO.-Friendly tip to Bob Guilbert, lead in "Don Winslow of the Navy." You're a swell actor, Bob, but you're getting in a rut. Talk around town is that in your other shows you sound like Don Winslow, not like the character Bob Guilbert should portray . . . Ray Johnson resigned his part as Ellis Smith in "Guiding Light." Plans on doing stage work in New York, and may change his name to Raymond Edwards because there's another stage actor Ray Johnson. His wife, Betty Caine, also giving up Chicago roles to accompany husband on Gotham trek . . . Jay Sims, CBS announcer, will go on a marital hook-up with May Bastian January 16 . . . Don McNeill looking for a dachshund. Don's already chosen the name-now all he needs is the dog . . . Olan Soule will celebrate wedding anniversary on January 10. His wife's a St. Louis girl, Norma Miller.

Cry, Baby, Cry

Don't attend a performance of a radio serial! All your illusions will undoubtedly be shattered. For instance, many followers of "The Story of Mary Marlin" will swear that the little baby Davey on that program is really a two-year-old baby boy.

Well, in reality it's a lovely young actress Dolores Gillen. Accompanied by Carlton Brickert (David Post), who was temporarily out of the show, your Tattler watched a performance of the show, in which Miss Gillen emitted such lifelike baby cries that one would swear there really was an infant in the studio. Miss Gillen is one of the oddities of that odd profession of baby criers in radio. While the rest of her sisters use a handkerchief, Dolores does not resort to any such tricks, depending solely on her voice and her hands. I'll bet Dolores will turn red when she learns I picked up her script after the show. Neither her name nor her radio name was on the first page of the script. Instead, only four letters—"Da Da!"

One of Chicago's finest actresses is heard in the lead of "Mary Marlin"-tall, stately, brunet Anne Seymour. Anne's radio fans will also remember her as the leading lady in "Grand Hotel" when it was on the air. Besides Anne and Dolores, there were only two characters in the show your Tattler saw. They were Rupert LaBelle, who plays Rufus Kane, and Frances Carlon, who has two "furry-soft" nice roles in radio-the lead in "Kitty Keene" and Bunny Mitchell in "Mary Marlin." The latter show probably has one of the largest casts of any of the radio serials -nearly thirty people appear in the show at one time or another. Some of these you may have heard from time to time are Robert Griffin, who plays Joe Marlin; Carlton Brickert (David Post); Phil Lord, who is Frazer Mitchell; June Meredith (Eve Underwood); Frankie Pacelli, who is heard as the little blind boy; Timothy Kent, and Arthur Peterson, who plays Pater Hujaz.

Though many radio script-shows have organ themes, "Mary Marlin's" is played on a piano. Pianist on the show is one of Chicago's most versatile musicians, Allan Grant. He can sit down at a piano and strike off an original tune in the time it takes the average person to think of something to say. Allan's piano-playing is one of the highlights of Chicago's many radio parties, and lucky is the hostess who can get the bespectacled, nearly bald pianist to attend her party. In "Mary Marlin," Allan keeps a well-worn, dog-eared copy of the theme, Debussy's Clair de Lune, on the piano for sentimental reasons, but actually he doesn't even look at it. His eyes are glued on Maurice Lowell, who ably directs the show. Lowell, by the way, in addition to being one of the town's most popular producers, is also the author of a good radio textbook for those interested in radio. It's called "Listening In."

It isn't generally known what happened to "Mary Marlin" a few months back when the show suddenly began repeating episodes that had occurred years ago. Well, now it can be told. Jane Crusinberry, author of the show, was so grief-stricken at the loss of her mother last fall that she was unable to continue writing the show. Rather than discontinue the program or get a new writer, flashbacks—episodes that occurred in the past—were resorted to until Miss Crusinberry returned.

Orrin Tucker will leave the Palmer House for San Francisco's Mark Hopkins in February . . . Mr. and Mrs. Jan Garber celebrating their twelfth wedding anniversary . . . Billy Mills will take his special piano along when he goes to Hollywood. The instrument is designed with a desk above the keyboard to facilitate writing down musical arrangements as Bob Trendler's orchestra reported succeeding Frankie Masters on Edgar A. Guest's "It Can Be Done" show . . . Andre Kostelanetz trained in to appear on latter show and discuss ideas with Herb Carlin, who headed Chicago World's Fair musical committee. Kostelanetz is on similar committee of New York Fair.

Radio, once looked upon as a foe of the theater, may be the cause of a revival in legitimate plays. Heartened by the success of one group, the Chicago Radio Theater Guild, in presenting Broadway successes before audiences in midwestern towns, another new organization has been formed. The second group is called the "Radio Stage," and counts among its members such names as Les Tremayne, Anne Seymour, Frances Carlon, Dan Sutter, and Hugh Rowlands. Plans are now under way to present a Broadway hit in Kenosha, Wisconsin, sometime in February.

Home for Holidays

The holidays found a swarm of Chicagoans returning home to spend 1938's declining days with relatives. Gale Page came back for two reasonsto appear in "A Night of Stars," Chicago's charity affair, and to spend the holiday season with hubby Frederick Tritchler, La Salle Street broker. Truman Bradley came in to be with his sister, and did a little elbow-bending with his WBBM cronies ere Christmas Eve was ushered in. Two ex-Chicago boys, now typing out a name for themselves as top radio-writers, returned to Chicago for the holiday season. They are Hal Block, ex-Phil Baker gagman, now in Hollywood concocting witticisms for "Texaco Star Theater," and Arch Oboler, now in New York writing Vallee and "Columbia Workshop" plays, but best known for his Mae West and "Lights Out" dramas.

Holiday in Brief

Many of Chicago's stars dashed home for Christmas, even though it was for only a couple of days. Script-show stars are "on" every day except Saturday and Sunday, and unless they are written out of a script they must stay close to town. Biggest contingent went to Kansas City.

·For years much-commented-on question has been "Do We Have a Free Press?" Never have the "do's" and "don'ts" been so stimulated to wrath as in the present administration. When staunch administration-defender Harold L. Ickes and persistent administration-heckler Frank E. Gannett meet at "America's Town Meeting" next Thursday night to discuss this question from the same platform, it promises to get a real going-over "once" but probably not "for all." In addition to being editor and publisher of the Gannett newspaper chain, Frank E. is one of the leaders of the Republican party and a vigorous opponent of many of the administration's acts both in his newspapers and in public addresses.

"The mention of education," he continues, "brings to the minds of thousands boring lectures and dull recitations. Give us a word with more color, more punch, more appeal. That sums up my own sentiments exactly, Mr. Yeend. Every time I type out the word "radio-education" chills run up and down my spine just at the thought of those who, having read that far, are too frightened to continue. Let's try to coin a new word!

 Pride of the radio division of the Office of Education is script-writer Peter J. Harkins, In 1936 Harkins hitch-hiked from a CCC camp to his home in Springfield, Massachusetts, to audition for a part in a chorus to be used to supply background music for educational programs. He convinced the director to also give him a chance at radio script-writing and shortly after made his start in the national field as a member of the chorus and as a dramatist. Today he has no time for singing because the educational dramas he writes for "The World Is Yours" series have won him millions of listeners and second prize in a nation-wide script contest.

The Question . . .

situation, heard a speaker talking about democracy over the radio. Fortunate was the fact that Dr. Lorine Pruette, novelist and psychologist visiting at her farm home, was audience to her question: "What is this democracy they talk about? What does democracy mean?"

Fortunate it was because Dr. Pruette at once realized that she was expressing ignorance of a question of vital importance, a question uniquely representative of majority confusion regarding the actual meaning of this favorite American password. So inspired was Dr. Pruette with the significance of the question that he immediately wrote the National Broadcasting Company about it. As a result, on De-cember 11 a special broadcast brought together eight distinguished persons to define the word "democracy" for little Miss Hooper and the entire na-

The Answers . . .

Editor-Professor. — Raymond Moley, contributing editor of News Week and professor of Public Law at Columbia University, declared that democracy was "an affirmation that mere distinctions of birth were spurious. It was, at the same time, a recognition of man's reaction to power-an awareness that the possession of too much power corrodes human beings; that absolute power cannot be entrusted to any man or group of men; that, in the broad sense of the word, no man is fit to play with the lives of other men." He declared that the "Constitution implicitly defines democracy as the guarantee of minority rights under ma-jority rule."

Church Leader.-The Rev. Jerome Harris, pastor of St. Ignatius Angelican Church, considered democracy "the expression of the will of the majority, but tolerates no oppression of the minority"; further maintained that "democracy more than any other political system allows for the exercise of Christian principles."

Diplomat.-Ruth Bryan Owen Rohde, first woman diplomat to represent America abroad, said: "No one has given a better definition of democracy than Abraham Lincoln, in his words, A government of the people, for the people, and by the people.' In those few words Abraham Lincoln expressed not only the citizen's rights in a democracy, 'a government for the people,' but also a citizen's responsibility, government of and by the people."

Sixteen-year-old Alice Hooper, of College Dean.—Virginia C. Gilder-Winchester, New Hampshire, intent sleeve, dean of Barnard College, delistener to all broadcasts on the Czech clared that "the old watchwords which our sister republic of France takes as her motto-liberty, equality, brotherhood-may be used also to express our democratic ideals of education." Our schools and colleges "do not always attain them. But we are sure we want to keep such ideals as our aim-to hold them up as the shining goal towards which we march."

French Novelist .-Abbe Dimnet, noted French author, said: 'The French are passionately attached to democracy. By that name, they understand the conquests of the French Revolution, daughter of the American Revolution.'

Irish Poet.-Padraic Colum, Irish poet and naturalized American citizen, saw democracy as a political system "which struggles on to let man show his dignity, exercise his freedom more and more."

English Author-Professor.-Bertrand Russell, English author (in limelight today with the publication of his latest book, Power) and visiting pro-fessor of philosophy at the University of Chicago, maintained that "Democracy consists in this: That in every organization those whom it affects shall all have a voice in selecting its govern-

Newspaperman.—Henry Hazlitt, of the New York Times, declared the essence of democracy to be "that lawmakers and rulers are dependent on the people's will in such a way that they may be changed in a peaceful manner as soon as they cease to represent that will. What democracy does, in other words, is to make and keep domestic peace. Under it the people's vote can not only freely elect rulers but freely remove them. So that is the test to apply today to any government that claims really to be democratic. The test is not even whether, at the moment, that government happens to reflect the popular will. The test is whether, if the government ceased to represent the people's will, it could be changed peaceably and without violence; or whether, to maintain itself in power, it does or would resort to intimidation, terror and murder."

Calls for More . . .

This broadcast was indeed a most novel one. May we hope that the future will bring more of the same? May we even suggest that this type of pro-gram be taken out of the novelty class and made a regular part of the

National Attention

Candidate for top honors as radio's most-outstanding educational contribution in 1938 is the popular Pacific Coast adult-education series, "Parents on Trial." In the light of what it has done, what it is doing and what it promises to do, the choice of a program that has been heard in only one section of the country is not as illogical as it may seem at first.

What has it done? This is a logical question to which Mrs. Lytle* gives a convincing answer: "In California the program has been instrumental in getting all groups engaged in child welfare together to formulate a plan to aid mentally and socially handicapped children, and this plan will be presented to the next session of the Cali-fornia Legislature." The plan suggests the establishment of parent clinics, similar to child clinics now in operation throughout the country.

What is it doing? It is attacking the all-too-common parent-faults—neglect, ignorance, misunderstanding, selfishness and cruelty—and, thanks to the ingenious script-writing job of John Boylan, the programs, though basically educational, have such strong appeal that the series is actually being listened to in a large percentage of the homes in California. Boylan's scripts are an outstanding example of painless education—painless because the educational message is subtly inserted as an integral part of the fascinating story.

What does it promise to do? Again
Mrs. Lytle answers: "Station KFI has generously offered to record 'Parents on Trial' for use nationally. Any state or district parent-teacher organization may secure these half-hour transcriptions for broadcasting over their own local stations, merely by paying the cost of the records." Further than this, the Los Angeles Probation Department is to publish the scripts for distribution to interested parties.

The work that this series is doing and promises to do in the future shows quite clearly the potentialities of local and regional broadcasting-illustrates how in many cases the local and regional broadcast is a better answer to some of our radio-education problems than the Coast-to-Coast program.

*President, California Congress of Parents and Teachers.

In his long and distinguished career he has produced such successes as "Wings," "The Cov-ered Wagon," "Peter Pan," and "Beau Geste." He has developed such stars as Maurice Chevalier, Carole Lombard, Fredric March, Claudette Colbert and Marlene Dietrich. (Hedy LaMarr?)

Then there are Hobart Bosworth and Bryant Washburn, Lasky's ambassadors, whose reputations should be se-curity of the project's honorable in-tentions. Both these men have worked consistently before the cameras for the past quarter of a century and both have scored repeatedly with unforget-table characterizations in major productions.

BOSWORTH, talented as actor, director and writer, is of commanding appearance, well over six feet tall, with steel-blue eyes and a mane of white hair. He starred in the first motion picture ever made in Los Angeles, "The Sultan's Power." Descended from a line of seamen, his own youthful ambition inclined toward a seafaring life. It is a coincidence that the first production which started him on the road to stardom was "The Sea Wolf," which he wrote and directed and in which he portrayed the leading role, that of a swashbuckling captain. Bosworth played in many legitimate productions. He is considered one of the finest character actors ever to grace the silver sheet.

Bryant Washburn made his first Broadway success as star of the drama "The Fighter." This was followed by other important vehicles, such as "The Remittance Man" and "The Great John Ganton." Since that time he has been a featured player for all the major studios and has starred in several se-Washburn is noted for his civic activities and is much in demand as an after-dinner speaker. And what's more, you won't need a private teacher. You'll learn all by yourself—right in your own home. And best of all, the cost is only a small fraction of what it used to cost by old-fashioned methods.

No Special "Talent" Needed

You needn't even know one note from the other, for thousands have learned to play with the aid of this wonderful U. S. School of Music system of instruction. You learn to read regular notes—and to play them—just as any real musician does. You start right in learning to play real little tunes almost from the very start. Gradually you master more and more difficult ones until—sooner than you ever expected—you find yourself entertaining your friends—playing at partles—and having the best times you ever had in your whole life.

things. One is the fact that it makes everything so simple
—so crystal clear—so easy to understand. First it tells you how to do a thing. Then it shows you in pictures how to do it. Then you do it yourself and hear it. What could be simpler?

The second reason for the success of this system is that it is so fascinating. Learning music this way is like playing a game. Practicing becomes real fun instead of a bore as it used to be with the old way.

RECORDS OF THE WEEK

A department reviewing the recordings of your radio favorites

Symphonic:

TOKOWSKI-WAGNER AGAIN .-Once more, Victor issues an al-bum of Wagner's operatic music, streamlined and synthesized by Leo-pold Stokowski. This time it is from three of the most passionate parts of his most passionate opera, Tristan und Isolde. The beautiful and powerful way in which Mr. Stokowski has orchestrated and performed these great melodies makes the synthesis an outstanding release.

Included in the medley are the Prelude, the Liebesnacht and the famous Liebestod, the last considerably shorter than usual but nonetheless potent. Some years ago Mr. Stokowski and the Philadelphia Orchestra made a similar synthesis of these same excerpts, but the new one far surpasses the old both in content and in recording strength. (Victor album 508. $9.)

Two string quartets claim our attention this week, both of interest to those who pursue the endless pleasure of chamber music. Albert Roussel, modern Frenchman, gains a hearing of his Quartet in D Major, played by the Quartet, who introduced this work both abroad and in America. It is a most modern work, and lacks the beauty of Ravel or Debussy, with whose quartets it might be compared. (Columbia set 339. $5.) Without hesitation, however, we recommend the Quartet No. 10 in E Flat Major, known as "The Harp" quartet, by Beethoven. Rich and melodic and ever-changing, it is played magnificently by the famous Budapest String Quartet. (Victor album 467. $8.)

Popular:

JAZZ FROM WAY BACK .- So many old, old tunes have cropped up with new swing arrangements, that we can do little more than list them in the order of their merit:

Copenhagen. Artie Shaw. (Bluebird.)

Farewell Blues and My Honey's Lovin' Arms. Benny Goodman. (Victor.)

Poor Butterfly. Bobby Hackett. (Vocalion.)

Sobbin' Blues, I Cried for You, and Jellyroll Blues by Bunny Berigan.

Aunt Hagar's Blues. Paul White-man's Swing Wing, with Jack Teagar-den and the Modernaires. (Decca.)

Tin Roof Blues. Tommy Dorsey. (Victor.)

What is This Thing Called Love. Glen Gray. (Decca.)

Riverboat Shuffle. Sung by Composer Hoagy Carmichael. (Brunswick.)

Clarinet Marmalade. Harry Roy. (Decca.)

Muskrat Ramble. Fats Waller. (Bluebird.)

And to return to current swing, the finest of all new ones is Benny Goodman's Topsy, one of the best platters BG ever made. (Victor 26107.)

-Joe Thompson.

Jack Haley's stooge, Artie Auerbach, explaining that now that his dog had been trained by a German, he had had to send his wife, Cleo, to the dog-training school to learn how to speak the thick, Teutonic dialect so that the dog would understand her Joe E. Brown's clowns have rehashed an old vaudeville act as an audience-warming stunt. Before the show, Frank Gill shoots a blank-loaded revolver at crackers Bill Demling holds first in his left hand, then his right. For the pay-off, Demling holds crackers in both left and right hands, arms extended, Gill shoots a third time and BOTH crackers apparently crumble and fall to the floor. Then Gill explains how hard it is to do the expert marksmanship with blanks! . . . At Lux Theater for the audienceless "Snow White" broadcast, a corps of ushers and policemen nevertheless were on the job to handle the long line of autograph-seekers who turned out regardless . . . At Chesterfield program: Gracie Allen proudly exhibiting her new book (yep, she has one now) entitled "Research in Native Customs and Development of Social Consciousness in Honolulu." "Isn't it nice?" she asked, and then, without waiting for a reply, said, "I'm going to have it rebound to match the color of our living-room drapes."

Flicker Flicks

Radio's Rita Johnson is something in M-G-M's new release, "The Girl Downstairs." Wait'll you see them face, them nose, them lips, them hips! Jean Sablon walked right off RKO's "The Castles" set December 19, all of which isn't surprising, as Sablon is too meek, too retiring, and too scared ever to be the exhibitionist he will have to be ever to get ahead on stage, radio or screen. Jean lets people push him around.

On Short Waves

Edited by Chas. A. Morrison

President, International DX'ers Alliance

Times given are EST. For CST subtract 1 hour; MST, 2 hours; PST, 3 hours

ARL ROBERTS of Indianapolis, Ind., writes the amateur short-wave transmitter of the Ellswave transmitter of the Ellsworth 1938-1939 Antarctic Expedition, aboard the Wyatt Earp, is being heard on a frequency of 14 megs under the call LDUC. F. C. Seid, W2MQ, of Maspeth, N. Y., and J. H. Lymburner, VE2IC of Oskelaneo, P. Q., Canada, are the radio operators with this expedition, which is en route to Antarctica to explore the Enderby Quadrant. As soon as the party reaches their base objective regular contacts with New York will be made by short wave . . . The Oxford Unicontacts with New York will be made by short wave . . . The Oxford University Expedition, now in Greenland, keeps in touch with London by means of its amateur short-wave transmitter OX7OU, which is being heard on a frequency of 14 megs. Reports on reception should be sent to A. Croft, Esq., Leckhampton House, Cambridge, England. H. B. Clein of Los Angeles, Calif, reports hearing OX7ZL, located at Angmagssalik, East Greenland, at 9:30 p.m. EST, on a frequency announced as 14.005 but actually 14.02 megs. This may be the Oxford University Expedition's transmitter utilizing a different call . . . A mysterious amateur station using the call XAR2LA (14.37), heard near 1 a.m. EST, was (14.37), heard near 1 a.m. EST, was, according to its operator aboard a Norwegian freighter, at that time in the Panama Canal.

According to a technical report from Dr. Diettrich of Berlin, Ger-many, the German short-wave sta-tion is again working with maximum power and efficiency, for the first time since the beginning of the Olympic Games in the summer of 1936.

W3XAU, CBS station in Philadelphia, Penn., will have the use of five different frequencies for short-wav-ing its programs to Latin America ing its programs to Latin America and Europe as soon as its two new directional antennas are completed. The new frequencies are 15.27, 21.52, and 25.725 megs. Its present channels are 6.06 and 9.59 megs. . . The General Electric Company has requested two additional frequencies for W2XAF, namely 6.19, and 21.59 megs. So, the campaign to sell America to the world continues with unabated vigor.

For something of more than ordinary interest, writes Herbert Campbell of Athens, Penn., turn your dials to 8.655 megs, at 6:30 and 9:15 p.m. EST. You will hear Coastal Harbor station W9XEI of Lake Bluff, Ill., in contact with W10XJF (or WOGK), the Moto-Sail Ship Mako, now cruising around in the West Indies. Other frequencies that are sometimes used are 6.425 and 2.118 megs.

SHORT-WAVE SHORTS: In an official list from the Colombian government, a new station, HJ6FAI (4.74) of Ibaque, is included ... ZRD (9.72) of Durban, South Africa, is now operating with greatly increased power daily from 3:30 to 7, 9 a.m. to 12 noon and from 11:45 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. EST ... According to the QRC, CRY9 (6.08) of Macao, Macao, is now operating Mondays from 8:30 to 10 a.m. EST, and on Wednesdays from 8:30 to 9:10 a.m. EST, all announcements being made in English and Portuguese ... The Malayan government has decided to build an ultra-modern radio station at Kuantan in Pahang early next year. Short wave will be used for inter-Malayan communications. tan in Pahang early next year. Short wave will be used for inter-Malayan communications. Broadcasting House, London, home of the broadcasts from Daventry, will be extended to more than twice its present size. Five underground "floating" studios will be included in the extension. Before signing off, the following announcement in English is made over "Radio Guadeloupe" (7.05): "This is Radio Guadeloupe" (7.05): "This is Radio Guadeloupe calling, P. O. Box 125, Pointe a Pitre, Guadeloupe" . OAX4C (15.29), "Radio Nacional del Peru," at Lima, was the Latin station that was on the air evenings during the Pan-American Conference, recently held in that can Conference, recently held in that
