pear Dick:

Michelle has written you and Maletha our thanks for all you did to make our time in Denver so delightful -- but stacked up work and my agenda when I got back has delayed my sending you my personal thanks.

You couldn't have done more to give us a diversion of happy occasions. The Thursday night dinner, trip to Stanley Hotel, our base at the Regency, the Friday night assemblage, and the Saturday convention -- all were providers of good memories that we will enjoy in retrospect down the years.

You people are terrific in what you do to keep alive the contribution of the great days of radio to our culture. I hope as time goes by you will be recognized by cultural and governmental bodies for the work you do. earned it.

I'll be going to Newark tomorrow to participate in the days events. Sorry I won't see you there as I did last year -- but I'll be thinking of you and the others who made our stay in Denver such a memorable time.

Again my thanks and warmest regards,

Low black "nich barter"

REQUESTS FOR INFORMATION

Corey Harker, 8340 Mummy Range Dr., Box T-4, Ft. Collins CO 80525, asks that anyone who has Blondie or Topper shows to please contact him.

Lee Ann Heeg, 5314 Hallwood Ct., Indianapolis IN 56254 is looking for a recording of a program from the 1940's "Looking-Glass Mountain" and "The Cinnamon Bear" which was aired during a Christmas season of that period.

Steve Ferrante, RD #1, Box 67B, Mifflintown PA 17059 wants We the People broadcast for Jan. 13, 1950.

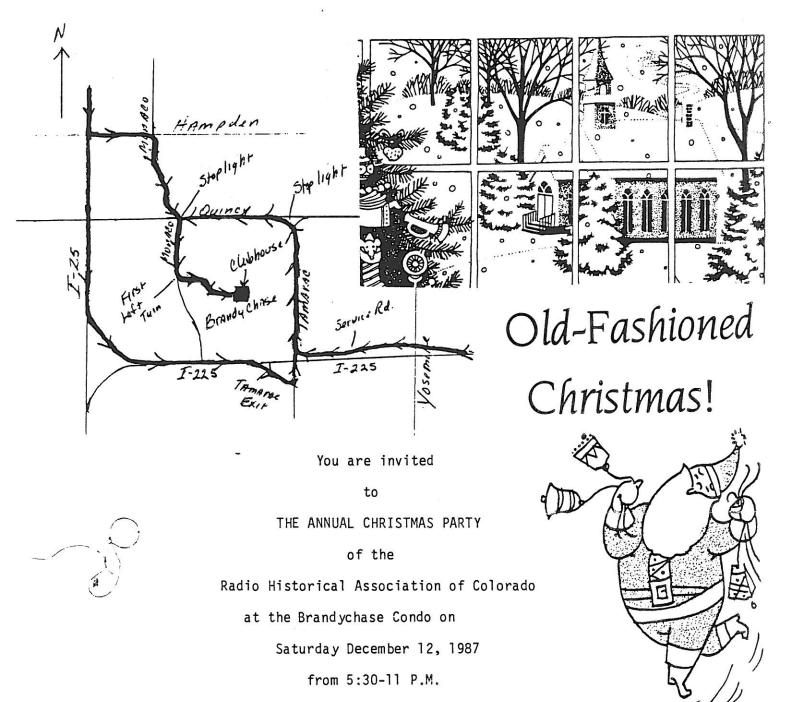

Once again, it is a pleasure to bring to memory the visit by Mr. and Mrs. Lon Clark to our annual convention in September, and to share with the membership the letter. reproduced at the left, that was received from Lon.

The dinner party that Lon refers to was given by the Board of Directors entirely at their own expense, not by the club treasury.

We thank Lon for his kind words, and we hope that we will have the pleasure of his and his lovely wife, Michelle's, presence at many more of our conventions!

Please bring a dish that will feed four people and folding chairs and tables. The meat dish will be provided by designated members. Also, bring your own table setting. Entertainment will be a spoof of a quiz show or a radio re-creation.

The map will also be published in the December Return with Us Now... .

Call any of the Board members for further details or directions.

CASSETTE LIBRARY NEWS

Bill Stipp, cassette librarian, reminds members that the only reels on cassette are 1-207 and 647 on up. The club has no other reels on cassette yet.

Bill Stipp is looking for someone who collects sports programs taken from KNUS or KOA recently, particularly an interview with Jim Brown, concerning his career.

The following two pages are a continuation of the Editor's graduate thesis entitled "Radio as a Tool for Instruction: the Role of Radio in Learning".

Radio in Informal Education

Although commercial radio played a very important role in the dissemination of information in the first half of the twentieth century in the United States, it is not generally appreciated that radio played an especially important role in the development of rural America. While it is true that America in the early 1920's, when radio made its first commercial appearance, had a good transportation system in its railroads and had many daily newspapers, there were actually many rural areas that were quite isolated. It was on this population that radio had its first major impact. Reynold M. Wik, an agricultural historian, describes the impact of radio on rural America in a speech to the annual meeting of the Agricultural Society in 1981:

Rural Americans may have benefited the most from radio because they were the most isolated and had the most to gain from an improved communication system. Folks on farms and at crossroad country stores could listen to what Fred Allen, the comedian, called the "furniture that talks." Those were exciting days.

Today, many of the "Old Timers" insist that the advent of radio was more thrilling than the arrival of television. During the twenties, farmers were eager to hear radio for the first time.

They visited neighbors who had a receiving set and, as the local newspapers put it, they spent the evening listening to the radio.

. . . After buying a radio, the new owners became obsessed with efforts to reach out as far as possible. Apparently there was a fascination with the notion that now you could annihilate distance. This urge became so strong that Radio News in 1923 called this impulse "the radio itch. . . . However, the farmer's main interests were practical. He wanted the daily weather fore-casts to help protect his property and to help in the management of his affairs. Before radio, rural people relied on newspapers and local telephone lines for weather reports and although this information was helpful it tended to be too vague in nature and too slow in delivery. (340-41)

Wik also writes that, on the other hand, there was a great deal of naivete about the new medium:

People thought that the radio would keep young people on the farm. It would reduce the boredom of those isolated in lonely places and thus preserve the family farm. The American Review of Reviews in 1922 predicted that rural women would benefit most from the new medium. It would provide a diversion and it would "come as a panacea to cure all the ills which isolation brings forth." The Literary Digest believed that music in the air would bring joy to farm families and the woman of the house would no longer have to think up bedtime stories for the children because now she could turn a knob and get a better story over the air. (346)

Radio became important to more than just farmers, of course. It soon became a major means for all Americans to instantly learn about happenings in the rest of the world. In fact, radio has now become so much a part of our lives that we forget that commercial broadcasting is only a little over sixty years old. The first commercial radio broadcast on a continuing basis began on November 2, 1920, over station KDKA in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Even today it is wonderful to realize the immediacy of broadcasting.
